An Old, Old City.
The Navy's Flying School.
Hard to Know News,
Our Routine Crime.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 13.

YESTERDAY, at Pensacola, Florida's fine city on the Gulf of Mexico. To established old American ancestry, you should imagine that your ancestors sailed into Pensacola Bay with Miruela.

Compared with his passengers, those of the Mayflower were late arrivals. He sailed along Santa Rosa Island, with its 20 miles of white beach, into what is now Pensacola Bay, just 24 years after Columbus discovered America.

The Pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock 104 years later. Forty-three years after Miruela came Don Tristram Deluna, with 2,000 followers.

A REALLY old city, with its Memorial City Hall Park where Gen. Jackson officiated at the transfer of Florida to the United States, Pensacola has lived under five flags, changed its government 17 times, not counting the Indians, French and Spanish, who fought there for possession. Now it's Uncle Sam's "forever."

Pensacola has the largest natural harbor in the South, one of the best protected harbors in the world, room for thousands of flying ships that will soon be landing there every day.

At present the harbor, with five landing fields close by, provides the largest naval air station and training school in the country. It is a pleasure to see 250 United States planes, not many, but better than none, from small pursuit planes to big bombing ships, brilliantly efficient flying naval officers in command.

You know that there is progress, comparing antiquated forts and hideous old dungeons, built by the Spanish and French, with this modern fleet that flies in the air and lights on the waters.

EAST OF the city is the Florida National Forest of 700 square miles, including the great grove of live oaks purchased by the government 100 years ago with the idea that it would supply live oak timbers for United States vessels forever.

Little did they dream in the early last century that within a hundred years great battleships of steel would drive out live oak timbers, and then flying ships of light duralumin metal would change floating battleships to obsolete targets.

You should see Pensacola. When the flying machine becomes fully established, that marvelous Santa Rosa beach, with its miles of wide sloping sand, as white and soft as powdered sugar, will have tens of thousands of visitors.

IN MIAMI, after nine nights and days in a Pullman car, plus nearly one thousand miles by automobile, traveling up and down on the earth between the Atlantic and Pacific and along the wonderously beautiful California coasts, there is no very important news, nothing to be remembered or written down ten years hence.

At least there is no such news on the surface, although you can never be sure that the big thing has not happened under your nose.

Leonardo Da Vinci never mentioned, as far as this writer knows, the voyage of Columbus, although it happened in his prime, and Leonardo wrote a great deal.

And the Duke of St. Sinon, in his famous memoirs, mentions "a certain young man named Aronet, who calls himself 'de Voltaire,'" and adds:

"I only speak of him because his father was my father's notary."

He might have said more about him if he had known that that certain young gentleman with his writings was destined to educate the people of France and cause French kings and dukes to be thrown into outer space.

Some Christopher Columbus of chemistry, some young writer on a country newspaper, may at this moment be creating the really "big news" of the future.

THERE IS the routine supply of murders, lynchings, kidnapings and holdups. You observe that President Roosevelt, wisely, demands a low tax on liquor to discourage bootlegging.

The British impose and collect on whisky a tax more than five times as great as has ever been suggested here, and they have no bootlegging. But British citizens obey their own laws and their officials enforce them.

They do not have our "respectable citizen," proud of breaking a law that does not suit him, or our officials with hands stretched out for bribes.

That unpleasantness goes with a young country, probably; at least it goes with this young country.

SAME RATE FORECAST FOR NEXT YEAR

Payroll Threatened in Demand for Economy

City Council was ready to vote on the tax rate this afternoon, with every indication pointing to the establishment of the same rate of 20.6 mills on lond and 10.3 mills on buildings for 1934.

President of Council Harry A. Little put a motion to establish the same tax rate shortly before noon, but this motion was tabled owing to the absence of two Councilmen.

Councilman Robert Garland declared such action should not be taken without a full attendance.

If the same rate is set up, the city payroll is threatened with severe pruning. More than $2,000,000 must be cut out of the city budget if the reduced realty assessments, estimated by Chief City Assessor Thomas C. McMahon, stand.

Council has received recommendations from the Building Owners and Managers Asociation for drastic reductions in the payroll through elimination and consolidation of city bureaus.

ECONOMIES DEMANDED

Council discussed the tax rate following a report by the taxation committee of the Building Owners and Managers Association urging that the tax rate for 1934 be set at the same figure as this year and that slashes of from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 be made, largely in the city payroll.

In addition to asking that the tax rate be set, the Building Owners, in a report read to Council by P. C. Hodill, urged that an emergency appropriation be set up for January, and that no budget for 1934 be approved until the incoming administration can study the city's income and expense.

Funding the city deficit with a people's bond issue and the appointment of a citizens' committee to speed tax collections were recommended.

CONSOLIDATIONS URGED

The elimination of 15 city bureaus, combination of 13 others, replacement of two with volunteer forces, and big reductions in others were suggested.

In the Division of Recreation it was proposed to put all swimming pools on a self-supporting basis or close them. A cut of 50 per cent in

WEIRTON ROW SHIFTS TO MEN

The Weirton Steel Company today shifted the controversy with the National Labor Board over the manner of electing employe representatives in the mills to its company union.

Disclaiming responsibility for the company union plan of electing the representatives in collective bargaining, officials said further dealings in the dispute must be with the company union officials at the mills.

Pursuing that course, the company heads refused to comment on the threat of court action by the Labor Board to carry out the board's plans for the election Friday.

The company union also plans to hold the election Friday, but its rules differ from those of the Labor Board. The union held a "primary" Monday in which 98 candidates for membership on the body to represent the employes were named. Forty-nine of these are to be elected Friday. The Labor Board directed that the candidates be nominated by petition of the workers.

Thirty-two representatives of the Labor Board were to be sent here today preparatory to supervising the elections in the mills at Weirton and Clarksburg, W. Va., and Steubenville, O.

Weirton Steel Adds Mills at Clarksburg

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The plant of the Weirton Steel Company here placed four more mills into operation today, providing employment for 350 additional workers and giving more hours for others who were on limited time.

The plane has 12 mills and four have lately been in operation.

COAL RATE RAISE HITS DISTRICT

Rail-River Tonnage to Youngstown Periled By I. C. C. Ruling

Pittsburgh district coal men today were fighting rising coal freight rates with their backs to the wall and, admittedly, were groggy under the latest blow delivered by an Interstate Commerce Commission decision that jumps river-rail rates 13 cents a ton.

In spite of protests by the Western Pennsylvania Coal Traffic Bureau, the commission increased the rail-river rate from Colona and Conway, Pa., to Youngstown and Lorain steel centers to 90 cents a ton. This is practically equal to the all-rail rate of $1.34 a ton, when handling costs are considered, according to spokesmen for the traffic bureau.

ADVANTAGE LOST

The decision practically eliminates any advantage the Pittsburgh district held over other coal sections not served by the Ohio River and its tributaries, according to an official of one of the largest coal producers in the country. It's the "old story of the railroads tightening their coils about the Pittsburgh coal fields," he declared, adding:

"The Traffic Bureau consistently has opposed raises in the coal freight rates, because compared with other commodities, the coal rates have always been out of line. Any rate increase works a great hardship, and this is particularly true of this increase which will force Youngstown steel plants to pay considerably more for coal bought in the Pittsburgh territory."

FIGHTING INCREASE

As announcement of the rate increase was reported by the Associated Press, it was learned at the traffic bureau that its secretary, A. S. Bodin is in Washington to take up a fight against a proposed flat increase of 30 cents a ton on all coal shipped east of Detroit, Mich.

If this increase is sanctioned by the Interstate Commerce Commission, according to coal men here, it will mean that Pittsburgh will lose what adjustment was made in production costs between the southern and northern fields by the NRA coal code, as the southern fields will not be affected by the proposed 30-cent increase.

Magee Settles Suit Over Crash Injury

CARLISLE, Pa., Dec. 13.—(INS.)—A settlement has been effected in the damage suit of James M. Magee, Pittsburgh, chairman of the State Securities Commission, against J. W. Magoun, Steelton, according to an announcement today.

Magee had sought $10,000 damages for severe injuries suffered in an automobile accident last spring and was granted $675 by a jury.

SOCIAL BILLS WAR ROUTS G. O. P.

Old Guard Control in House Smashed by Revolt for Reform

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 13.—Republican organization control of the House was smashed today when a combination of Democrats and Independent Republicans, led by Representative Darlington Hoopes, Berks County Socialist, passed a resolution to continue in session until Friday of this week to vote finally on the entire program of social legislation.

The vote to stay in session was 101 to 89.

By its action the House probably will put everything on the Senate doorstep for consideration next week.

Not in several sessions has the Republican organization taken such a defeat in the open.

FINAL VICTORY SEEN

Today's action means that a final vote will be had on bills to abolish coal and iron police, the privately paid deputy sheriffs and increase freight crews—the expectation being that all will pass.

Meanwhile the Senate today reported out the Blumberg old age assistance bill lowering the appropriation to $6,000,000, setting December 1, 1934, as the date when such aid to the indigent shall become effective, and placing on the counties six per cent of the cost of assistance, to be devoted to payment of administration.

PROTESTS IGNORED

Despite a storm of protest at its action in killing the Fitzgerald minimum wage bill last night, the Senate Judiciary General Committee today refused to reconsider and to report the bill out with amendments which proponents were willing to concede.

Senator Charles H. Ealy, of Somerset, chairman of the committee, said his committee had finished with the bill last night. Senator Harry B. Scott, president pro tem. of the Senate, also said the committee would not reconsider its action today.

Supporters of minimum wage legislation had consented to the selection of an independent board to administer the law, removing it from control of the Department of Labor and Industry. This, however, failed to alter the recalci-

Our Best Investment

IN ATTEMPTS OF LOCAL and state governments to readjust their budgets to depression conditions, it is vitally important that they should not disturb the very foundations of American greatness.

Unequalled liberality in our expenditures on universal education through the decades is largely responsible for the extraordinary fact that, though in the United States we have only 6 per cent of the world's population, we receive each year more than 40 per cent of the world's income.

To make a backward move in the matter of popular education would be to invite a letdown in our living standards toward the lower level prevailing in other countries.

Unless steps are taken forthwith to restore school facilities in districts where they have become impaired, the United States will suffer irreparably, not only economically but also culturally.

IN ALLUDING to the catastrophic breakdown in the nation's educational system, the Nation reveals that 2,280,000 children of school age in this country are not in school, that 2,000 rural schools in 24 states failed to open this fall, and that 16 institutions of higher learning have closed.

This magazine discloses:

"One in every four cities has shortened the school term and 715 rural schools are running less than three months . . . over the country as a whole, 200,000 certificated teachers are without jobs. And some of those who have jobs can scarcely be said to be profitably employed. One-third of the school teachers this year will get less than $750, while 40,000 rural teachers will get less than $450."

As compared with the deterioration of our educational system, other costs of the depression seem slight.

The long record of extraordinary progress in the United States has taught us that the soundest investment a nation can make is in its young people.

The cultural malnutrition that is now under way may leave its blight for a generation.

The shame of the nation lies in the fact that, while districts have become penurious in their educational outlays, they have continued to fritter away taxpayers' money in keeping useless politicians on the payrolls of obsolete and unnecessary forms of local government, including an excessive number of independent county setups.

AS THE FACTS become appreciated, there should be a swell of popular disapproval of the scuttling of our schools.

Ample education can be financed, without making additional calls on the overburdened taxpayers, through eliminating economic waste in local government, including the disgrace of continuing unnecessary jobs and unneeded over-lapping forms of local government.

No other problem before the American people clamors so intensely for immediate attention.

SPEAKEASY BIG STATE PROBLEM

500 Liquor Permits Issued Here, 4,000 Selling Beer

The feverish rush for liquor licenses anticipated in Pittsburgh two weeks ago was just a reluctant stroll today; the whisky business, apparently, isn't what it used to be.

The Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board announced today in Harrisburg that only 2,634 licenses have been granted.

Of this number, Allegheny County's share is estimated at between 300 and 400. This is approximately one-third of the 1,273 saloons in the county just before prohibition.

For those who think that Pittsburgh's speakeasies closed their doors for good and all when the board began to grant licenses two weeks ago, the figures will be a surprise.

CLUBS LICENSED

Throughout the state 500 licenses have been issued to clubs. Some of these are legitimate, others are merely masquerading speakeasies protected by old charters. Six hundred and two hotels censes.

Licenses were refused four Pittsburghers today by the board. They are Pauline Armaganian, Business Men's Dinner Club, of Pittsburgh, Guy Andolina and Mrs. Bertha Jeznis' Fifth Avenue Cafe, which, for some reason or other, is in Frankstown avenue. Seventy-two applicants throughout the sttate have been refused so far.

Hard liquor runs a bad second to the beer business which became legitimate last spring. Approximately 4,000 places in Allegheny County took out beer licenses. This is at least ten-to-one better than the number of liquor licenses.

Figures for the entire state run in the same direction. There are more than 20,000 beer places, as against 2,634 liquor spots.

However, if the figures are disappointing to some, Repeal did release more than a few dollars on construction work. It was estimated today that $2,020,000 has been spent in Western Pennsylvania distilleries since Nov. 1. Three big distilleries nearest

3RD VOTE JURY DEADLOCKED

The third disagreement by a vote fraud jury appeared imminent in Federal Court today.

After being out 24 hours a jury which heard evidence in the fifth trial involving Constable Harry Kart and five members of the election board of the Sixth District, Third Ward, had failed to reach r verdict.

The jury so reported to Judge F. P. Schoonmaker this morning, but he sent members back for furthed deliberation, saying the length of the trial required them to arrive at a decision if at all possible.

Two juries in previous cases had failed to agree. Seven defendants have been found guilty to date and one acquitted.

In addition to Kart, the defendants are Anthony Sibilia, judge; Jack Frankel and Henry Silverstein, inspectors; Davey Slutzky and Harry Kalson, clerks.

Meanwhile, testimony was being taken in the sixth fraud trial in which four members of the election board of the Eighth District, Fourth Ward, are on trial. The defendants are Thomas Dolan, judge; William Connolly and Alice Daschbach, inspectors, and Ruth F. McCarthy, clerk.

Davis Considering Race for Governor

Senator Has Ear To Ground, Friends Assert

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Close political associates of Senator James J. Davis disclosed today that the Senator is considering becoming a candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania.

Davis himself has declined to comment publicly on the report, but his friends say he has his ear to the ground for indications that the state's voters would look favorably upon his candidacy.

Failure of the Republican party in the state to settle upon any of numerous names suggested for the post and widespread enthusiasm for a better day for the dinner-pail-carrying workman were credited by Davis' friends as the principal reason for his interest in the governorship.

The party as a whole so far has given no inclination of giving undivided support to Gen. Edward Martin, much mentioned as a candidate as long as two years ago. Some political observers believe that Democratic victories in Washington County, Martin's bailiwick, considerably lessened his chances of general support.

Democratic demands for the impeachment of Judge John W. Kephart because of his name's appearance on the Morgan "preferred lists," according to congressional observers of the state's political scene, have made the judge's chances of obtaining the nomination much slimmer.

Arthur James, former lieutenant governor and also frequently mentioned as a candidate, has been said to be more eager for a judicial post than the Governor's chair.

Judge George W. Maxey, another person named as a possible candidate, has said he doesn't want the job.

Gen. Edward Shannon, lieutenant governor now; Samuel S. Lewis, secretary of highways, and Attorney General William Schnader, are among others who have received a call in the early stages of the race.

CREW ESCAPES FLAMING SHIP

International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 13.—A mystery ship fire and explosion amid mountainous seas off the California coast near Monterey in which it was first feared a large tanker had gone down with heavy loss of life was cleared up today when four Japanese fishermen reached shore.

Their fishing boat went up in flames after an explosion aboard and they spent the night in a finally successful battle to surmount the huge waves which constantly threatened the small tender in which they fled the fire.

The captain of the boat is E. Shimizu, of Monterey, who said that the boat exploded between 7 and 8 p. m.

Dr. James E. Harlan, Iowa Educator, Dies

Frigid Wave Breaking, Light Snow Forecast

The cold snap was moderating today with prospects of light snow arriving tonight from the lower Ohio Valley.

The mercury fell to 14 this morning, seven degrees above yesterday's record mark for that date. Tonight's low will be between 20 and 25, Observer W. S. Brotzman predicted.

Automobile travel was safer because the coating of ice and snow had been worn away in most thoroughfares. Coasting accidents continued to be reported, however.

John Pears, 18, of 2703 Bead street, Liberty borough, is in McKeesport hospital with injuries suffered when his sled struck an automobile while he was coasting last night.

THOMAS BILL WOULD BAN PRIVATE OWNERSHIP OF GOLD

MONETARY WAR BREWING IN CONGRESS

Thomas Bloc to Fight For Expansion of Currency

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—President Roosevelt was given the choice today of expanding the American currency or facing a monetary battle at the coming session of congress.

Senator Thomas, (Dem.) of Oklahoma, a leader of the silver bloc, brought the issue to a head by drafting a bill prohibiting private ownership of gold. He sent a copy to the White House for the President's consideration. In effect, the bill would enable the government to decrease the value of the gold dollar without giving private individuals any profit out of the process.

THOMAS CONFIDENT

Thomas declared he was confident the President would "handle the money problem," indicating a belief the administration would expand the currency. He averred if the President fails to act, Congress will expand the currency. Thomas said:

"I am assuming the President is going to handle the money question. If he fails to do so, there is only one other course to be taken. The natural result of his failure would be for the three money groups in Congress to get together and enact legislation to expand the currency.

"They would have to make their program mandatory instead of discretionary, as was the monetary legislation adopted last summer."

SUPPLEMENTARY BILL

The newest Thomas bill merely would supplement the vast expansion program approved by Congress last summer. In that program, written by Thomas with the aid of many others, Congress authorized the President (1) to reduce the gold content of the dollar by 50 per cent, (2) to accept silver on war debts, and (3) to issue $3,000,000,000 in Treasury notes to pay off outstanding indebtedness.

The newest bill merely would take all gold bullion and coin out of circulation, if, when and while the President was revaluing the gold dollar.

Money Truce Possible, Bankers' Head Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—F. M. Law, president of the American Bankers' Association, said last night that if America's entire monetary question is considered on its merits, the points of disagreement are not numerous or "necessaarily irreconcilable."

He told the Bankers' Forum, New York chapter, American Institute of Banking, that he felt "fiat money is a bogey which need alarm no one." He said:

"Many thoughtful men have been much concerned, but I firmly believe that Mr. Roosevelt would have the same abhorrence and fear with regard to the issue of fiat money that the most ardent member of the sound money group would have.

"There is 16 per cent more outstanding currency in the country today than there was in 1926, and there is a billion dollars more in currency than at the height of the boom in 1929. The need is not more money; the problem rather is to restore confidence and to put money and credit to work."

AWAIT BRITISH DEBT TOKEN

LONDON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—A check for $7,500,000 is expected to be handed over to the United States in Washington Friday by Great Britain as a token payment on its war debts, it was authoritatively stated here today.

The check will be written on the British dollar account in the United States, it was said.

This was held as the most likely method of payment in view of the government's decision to pay the token in dollars.

Great Britain owes the United States on Decemeber 15 approximately $117,670,000 in principal and interest on the semi-annual installment.

PARIS, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—France's formal admission of her third default on her war debt payment to the United States was sent to Andre Lefevre de Laboulaye, French ambassador to Washington, today.

RADIO, 'PHONE MERGER LIKELY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The administration is making an intensive study of the communications problem with preliminary reports tending toward the creation of merged telephone, telegraph and radio agencies under strict government regulation.

A special committee of the Department of Commerce has submitted a tentative report to the President, who is reserving an opinion pending further study by the Congressional committees involved.

The report sets out the three possibilities:

1—A continuation of existing conditions.

2—Creation of monopolies in the telephone, telegraph and radio fields under strict government regulation.

3—Government ownership of communications.

The preliminary report was stated authoritatively to tend toward the second proposition—monopolies under federal control.

This would involve, of course, a merger of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph in the telegraph field.

The report indicates a virtual monopoly at present in the telephone business and a rather scrambled condition in the radio industry.

France Seeks Views Of Britain on Arms

PARIS, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—A talk between Premier Camille Chautemps, of France, and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, in an effort to determine the British stand in relation to Germany was considered today in diplomatic circles.

France is anxious to get a clear British statement on its position before determining, with Poland and the Little Entente, the exact tone it will use in its reply to the repeated demands of Chancellor Hitler, of Germany, for equal armaments.

Japan Selects New Ambassador to U. S.

Formal announcement of Saito's appointment, the newspaper said, will be made tomorrow when Katsuji Debuchi, retiring ambassador, arrives here from the United States.

QUIZ OF U. S. ON LEAGUE BALKED

LONDON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The government today turned down sharply a suggestion that the United States be asked what its objections were to membership in the League of Nations.

Godfrey Locker-Lampson, Conservative member of the House of Commons, suggested in the chamber this afternnon that the United States government be approached with the view of ascertaining what its chief objections were to such membership and asked if the British government would make the approach.

Capt. Anthony Eden, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, replied:

"The Foreign Secretary regrets that he does not consider such a step either desirable or profitable."

Undiscouraged, Locker-Lampson followed with the query whether the chief deterrent to America's entry into the league was not the question of sanctions—whereby members of the league may inflict penalties for violations of international pacts. He asked if it would not be advisable to explore that aspect of the question. Eden did not answer.

PRESIDENT FIRM ON STOCK ACT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The expressed attitude of President Roosevelt toward revision of the new securities act is that the purpose should be clarification rather than modification.

This stand is expected by the administration to end speculation over possible modification of the act at this session.

The presidential view coincides with that voiced by Chairman Fletcher, of the Senate Banking Committee, that the only changes which should be made in this new law should be those to make it more clear and less subject to evasion.

Roosevelt Sees Slim Hope of Tariff Cuts

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—(INS.)—President Roosevelt hopes his new foreign trade expansion committee, headed by George N. Peek, will bring a number of reciprocal trade treaties but has little hope that a worldwide tariff reduction agreement can be reached at this time.

In this connection it was pointed out today a trade treaty with Colombia was virtually completed.

Golfer's Wife Held For Shooting Trial

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Mrs. Billie Mangrum, wife of Ray Mangrum, professional golfer, has been ordered held for trial on charges of assault with a deadly weapon as a result of a shooting in their apartment in which Mangrum was wounded in the right arm and she in the left thigh.

WELLES READY TO QUIT CUBA

HAVANA, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—United States Ambassador Sumner Welles, having wound up his personal affairs in Havana, planned to leave for Washington today to resume his duties in the State Department.

At the presidential palace, official silence on his return to the United States was maintained. Elation was expressed extra-officially, however, in government circles.

On the other hand, many individual leaders of forces opposing the regime of President Ramon Grau San Martin voiced regret at Welles' departure.

Jefferson Caffery, former Assistant Secretary of State, who is to serve as President Roosevelt's personal representative, will arrive here in a few days.

Three followers of former President Gerardo Machado were under sentence of death today for the slaying of a student, Carlos Blandino, last June. The trio—Segundo Prendes, Braulo Ortego and Ramon Souto—were convicted in a midnight verdict of the Court of Sanctions.

Increase in Deficit Confronts Detroit

DETROIT, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—A list of expected receipts and expenditures, with $5,000,000 on the wrong side of the ledger, today threatened Detroit with a total municipal deficit of $18,982,821 by the end of its current fiscal year, June 30, 1934. City Controller William J. Curran said:

"We need $23,000,000 in scrip for the next six months. Legally we can issue only $18,000,000, and that leaves us with an imminent deficit of $5,000,000."

U. S. GREEKS ASK INSULL RETURN

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—A petition signed by more than 25,000 American citizens of Greek extraction asking the Greek government to deport Samuel Insull as an undesirable alien will be sent to Athens Saturday, the American-Greek Democratic Association announced today.

The petition will be mailed on the liner Ile De France and dispatched by air mail from Paris.

The Greek government is asked in the petition to refuse to renew Insull's permission to remain in Greece without a passport when his present permit expires December 31, and then deport him.

The association announced that the petition was signed by prominent business and professional men of Greek descent active in welfare circles in New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Cleveland, Jersey City, Newark, Washington, Philadelphia and other cities.

U.S. DENOUNCED BY CUBAN AT PARLEY

Pan-American Meet Hears Charge of Intervention

MONTEVIDEO, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Angel Alberto Giraudy, Minister of Labor of Cuba, declared in a committee of the Pan-American Conference today that the United States had intervened in Cuba by not recognizing the government of President Ramon Grau San Martin.

He flared up in the meeting with:

"If Ambassador Welles' propagating a revolution as charged by the Uruguayan minister to Havana is not intervention, if upholding a minority group against the wishes of the people is not intervention, its surrounding the island with warships is not intervention—then the United States never intervened in Cuba."

He charged the United States with intervening now by not allowing the proclamation of a free government in Cuba and by not recognizing the existing government which he termed capable and popular.

The Cuban delegate's statement was made in comment on a speech by Dr. Alfonso Lopez, of Colombia, who had moved successively for the immediate consideration by the conference of a United States proposal for the reduction of tariff and trade barriers on the American continent.

Lopez told the delegates that the United States was showing an intention and a trend to align herself with the desires and needs of Latin-America, citing the tariff proposal and the American investigation of international bankers as proof of this trend.

The Colombian lauded Secretary of State Hull's "trancendental" refusal to defend international bankers in the present conference and the non-intervention of the United States during the revolution in Cuba.

His last statement was the signal for Giroudy's statement.

LUTHER JEERED DEFENDING HITLER

Students Storm Hall As Nazi Envoy Speaks in N. Y.

Universal Service.

NEW YORY, Dec. 13.—While 50 policemen battled with a mob of anti-Nazis outside the hall, German Ambassador Hans Luther was interrupted several times last night during an address before the Institute of Arts and Sciences of Columbia University.

While the ambassador was depicting Germany under Hitler as a leader in the cause of world peace and disarmament, he was forced to pause three times while women hecklers were ejected from the hall by policemen.

Columbia students who are opposed to Hitlerism were joined in their demonstration outside the auditorium by students from New York University, City College, Hunter College, Brooklyn College and Long Island University.

They battled with the police for an hour in their attempt to break up the ambassador's meeting. Several were injured, but not seriously.

Dr. Luther discussed the recent German election, frankly admitted that the Nazi Party and the Nazi Party alone could win it, but said the election proved that "no government in the world is more strongly backed by the will of its own people than the German government."

The German ambassador spoke of recent diplomatic talks between Hitler and the French ambassador and the Polish minister. He said that after solution of the "Saar problem," no further territorial conflict with France can exist.

Hitler Backs Demand For Army of 300,000

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Universal Service.

PARIS, Dec. 13.—Chancellor Hitler of Germany is stubbornly sticking to his demands for a German army of 300,000 men and for all types of armaments which other powers have and decline to abolish.

Hitler, according to reliable sources here, reiterated these "suggestions" to French Ambassador Francois-Poncet in Berlin Monday as part basis for serious direct negotiations between France and Germany.

French views in no wise appear to have averted the Chancellor from his aim of fashioning a "strong Germany" from the Nazi reich.

Hitler has suggested that Germany would prefer "French control" to arms supervision by the League of Nations or an international supervisory body.

REICHSTAG FIRE TRIAL NEAR END

LEIPZIG, Germany, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The German Reichstag building fire trial entered its final phase today after having been in adjournment since December 6.

The court examined the last witness in the case in which five men are on trial charged with high treason and preparations were made for the beginning of pleadings.

Karl August Werner, chief state's attorney, will sum up the case for the prosecution.

Of the five defendants, Marinus Van Der Lubbe, a young Dutch brick mason, has contended throughout that he set the fire last February alone and unaided.

The others, all denying guilt, are Ernst Torgler, former Communist whip in the Reichstag, and three Bulgarians, Wasil Taneff, Georgi Dimitroff and Blagoi Popoff.

COUNCIL READY FOR TAX VOTE

the equipment appropriation at Carnegie was urged.

Under present conditions the Bureau of Building Inspection should be cut in half, the report stated. Traffic Planning, City Planning and the parks and conservatories also came in for recommended reductions.

Police salaries, it was stated, should be kept the same as this year. A police committee is to receive a hearing before Council in effort to obtain the restoration of last year's salaries along with vacations and pass days.

Bureaus suggested for elimination were: Art Commission, Smoke Regulation, Mental Health Clinic, Boiler Inspection, Dog Pound, Fire Salvage, Fire Prevention, Bridge Repairs, Bridge Repainting, Street Signs, Fences, Stables and Yards, Boardwalks and Steps, Schenley Nursery and Bureau of Tests.

SHIFT OF ACTIVITIES

Some activities involved were to be shifted to other bureaus and some performed by contract.

Combinations were suggested of the divisions of Registration, Transmissible Diseases and Bacteriology; the divisions of Plumbing and House Drainage and Housing and Sanitary Inspection; the divisions of Food Inspection, Dairy Inspection, Meat Inspection, and Milk and Miscellaneous Food Inspection; and the divisions of Surveys, Design and Construction.

The Civil Service Commission and the Board of Adjustment were suggested for replacement by committees of citizens serving without salary.

A 50 per cent reduction in the cost of the City-County Building was urged. Council voted to appoint J. W. Bamford to confer with County Commissioners, who operate half the building, regarding their attitude toward having the work done by contract.

James W. Gray, chairman of the Board of Water Assessors, today recommended to Council that water rates be set on the same schedule for next year.

Parley With Soviet Denied at Vatican

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The Vatican City newspaper, Osservatore Romano, published a communique today denying rumors that there had been negotiations between the Vatican and the Soviet while Maxim Litvinoff, Russian Foreign Commissar, was here or that James A. Farley, Postmaster General of the United States, had acted as an intermediary for such negotiations.

KALININ HAILS BULLITT AS ENVOY

Ambassador Presents Credentials to Red President

MOSCOW, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—A cordial exchange of official greetings took place today between United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt and Mikhail Kalinin, president of Soviet Russia.

They met for the first time in the old "Winter Palace" of the Kremlin, executive offices of the U. S. S. R., when Bullitt presented his credentials. He apparently made a distinctly favorable impression upon Kremlin officials.

On his part, Ambassador Bullitt said he found Kalinin a "delightful human being."

In presenting his letter, the American conveyed President Roosevelt's "cordial and friendly greetings, as well as his earnest hope for the welfare and prosperity of your great country." He added:

"I do not come to your country as a stranger. My profound interest in it has existed for many years and I come with a deep conviction of the importance and historical significance of my mission.

"That mission is to create not merely normal but genuine friendly relations between our two great peoples who for so many years were bound to each other by traditions of friendship.

Maxim Litvinoff, foreign commissar who conducted negotiations with Washington leading to recognition, other high Soviet officials, and members of Mr. Bullitt's staff were present.

Replying with cordial greetings to President Roosevelt, President Kalinin said:

"The outstanding role which you personally, Mr. Ambassador, have played in the matter of mutual rapprochement of our two countries is well known to the wide public in the Soviet Union and the very fact, therefore, that it was precisely you who was chosen by the President of the United States as the first ambassador to the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics in itself is considered by us as an act of friendship.

"I fully share your conviction that between the peoples of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the United States there can and should exist not only normal but genuinely friendly relations."

3 STOWAWAYS ON BYRD SHIP

Universal Service.

ABOARD U. S. JACOB RUPPERT, en route to Antarctica, Dec. 13.—Three stowaways, out for "a go at the South Pole," were discovered aboard Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's flagship today, eight hours after it left Wellington, New Zealand, for the voyage through the ice fields.

They won't be doing any airplane flying at the pole, but they will get at least three months of the rigors of life in the Antarctic.

To return them to port would have cost the expedition 18 hours of cruising and Admiral Byrd had no other alternative than to order them assigned to deck duty. The Jacob Ruppert won't be returning from the Bay of Whales until next March.

The adventurous youths are three New Zealand youths, the eldest 23. They gave their names at Robert E. Christian, Geoffrey B. Wrey and Michael Pilcher.

BANK TO FREE $1,000,000

Release of more than $1,000,000 for holiday trade was anticipated today by officials of the Union National Bank at McKeeport.

The bank has been operating on a restricted basis. Robert M. Baldrige, conservator and president, said only routine work remains until the bank, under its reorganization plan, will release 70 per cent of tied-up deposits. A stock-selling campaign resulted in over-subscription to the 4,000 shares.

Hiram Johnson Denies He Will Go on Bench

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Senator Hiram Johnson (Rep.), of California, returned to the capital today from a lengthy stay in San Francisco, telling newspapermen that "of course, I expect to call on the President soon."

But the Senator, who deserted Herbert Hoover to support Franklin D. Roosevelt in the 1932 campaign, denied published stories that he was being considered for an appointment to the Supreme Court bench should one of three men who are over retirement age leave the high tribunal. Johnson said:

"If I knew anything authentic about such a report, and I do not, I should be unable to discuss it. The Supreme Court bench is full at this time."

Asked whether a group of liberal Senators had met at the call of Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, in Chicago recently, Johnson said he knew nothing of such a meeting. He said he came directly here from San Francisco. He declared:

"I have no plans formulated for the next session at this time."

'Anthony Adverse' Sales In Phenomena Class

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—"Anthony Adverse," Hervey Allen's 1,224-page four-pound novel, has passed into the class of phenomena, the book trade has decided.

The book is universally known as "Anthony," and spoken of as a person rather than as a book. "Anthony" is now around the 275,000 mark in sales.

It is, according to the book trade, the largest sale of recent years for a novel, and the largest depression sale of any book. "Anthony" was published last June 26 and has dominated fiction best seller lists each month since.

Sale of 50,000 copies of an average-sized novel nowadays is cause for great joy in publishing circles, although some volumes of yesterday have established tremendous selling records over a long period.

Sinclair Lewis' "Main Street" has sold more than 725,000, and "Elmer Gantry" well over 400,000.

The world sale of Erich Maria Remarque's "All Quiet on the Western Front," is more than 3,000,000 copies.

Book men say several factors have entered into "Anthony's" success—a possible improvement in public taste, a psychological situation in which there existed a real demand for a rattling good story upon a sound philosophical basis, and a general interest in its physical dimensions.

TORCH WIDOW'S DIARY BARED TO MURDER JURY

COUPLE JAILED AS SLAYERS OF THREE

Prosecutor Captures Pair After Fatal Store Holdup

TALOGA, Okla., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—A 21-year-old cotton picker and his girl friend, seized by a single captor after the killing of three persons in a county store holdup, were held secretly today.

Sheriff C. C. Jones, upon his return here early today, some hours after the couple, Fred Overstreet and 18-year-old Cleo Owens, had been taken quietly from the jail by the Sheriff and other officers, said:

"The boy admitted it."

The Sheriff refused to tell where they were taken, other than that it was a "safe place." He added:

"There is no mob trouble. We took them out and found the pistol."

VIOLENCE FEARED

Previous reports were to the effect that "strong talk" at Fay following the shooting there of Henry Weiser, 52-year-old storekeeper; his wife, 48, and Tom Turnise, 55, a pedestrian, had caused the officers to take their prisoners away. The threats did not materialize into a show of violence, however.

Ralph Gilchrist, 27-year-old County Attorney, captured Overstreet and the girl in a plum thicket near Fay yesterday afternoon after he had traced footprints through the sandy soil.

Armed with a rifle, Gilchrist took the couple into custody without a fight while posses were searching nearby.

CACHE DISCOVERED

The County Attorney said Overstreet told him he and the girl had hidden a pistol and part of their clothing in a nearby ravine. Gilchrist found the clothing, but the pistol was not discovered until late last night.

The Weisers apparently were slain with pistol fire when the storekeeper slammed the door of a safe crammed with federal cotton checks. Turnise, walking past, was trapped in a fusillade of shots as the couple fled from the store. Turnise's companion, Clyde Perkins, a ginner, later "positively identified" Overstreet and the Owens girl, Gilchrist said.

As to Overstreet's alleged admission, Sheriff Jones said "he had some kind of a self-defense story."

WARNS ON HATE IN ILSLEY CASE

LEESBURG, Va., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—An admonition against "giving ear to anything that would stir feeling in this case" was issued today by Judge James L. McElmore after a jury of 12 white men had been selected to decide the guilt or innocence or George Crawford, Negro, on trial for murder.

The Judge said the case was "simply the trial of a man for murder to determine whether or not he is guilty." He added:

"Counsel for the defense are Negroes, who have exactly the same rights in this court as white counsel.

Despite a severe chill in the old red brick courtroom, every one of the 350 seats was filled.

Under escort of armed state troopers, Crawford was brought into the courtroom.

Paul Boeing, brother of Mrs. Ilsley, who found the body of his sister and of her maid, Mrs. Mina Buckner, on January 13, 1932, in a cottage on the Ilsley estate, was accompanied by his brother, John Boeing, of New York.

14 HURT AS CAR HITS EXPRESS

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Fourteen persons were injured today in the collision of a two-car Norristown-Philadelphia express and a local interurban car on the Philadelphia and Western Railway at Penfield Station, in Haverford Township.

Carrying 115 persons, the cars collided on a 35-foot embankment.

One car jumped the track and overturned. An entire side of it was crushed and more than a half hour was required to extricate all the passengers.

The car, a third rail coach, was one of the modern "bullet" type in express service on the Norristown run.

'SUICIDE' ACTS TOLD BY WIFE IN SUIT

Phone Operator Says Husband 'Played Dead,' Drank

When Mrs. Mercedes C. Nestor, of 207 Bronx avenue, West View, came home from work, she was greeted now and then by the sight of her husband stiff and stark, with the instruments of suicide beside him, she testified today in seeking a divorce.

But she wasn't fooled, she said—she knew he was only in the midst of a "suicide act."

Once when she came home, she testified, the husband, Andrew P. Nestor, was stretched on a bed with a chloroform bottle at his side. Anotner time he was sprawled on the floor, she asserted, and the supposed instrument of death this time was a revolver. Mrs. Nestor's response to the exhibition, she said, was:

"Quit your act; the show's over."

She also charged in the hearing before Judge Ralph H. Smith that Nestor drank excessively. One night he called the borough policeman, she said, and demanded that officer raid the Nestor home. When the policeman arrived, she declared, he found only Mrs. Nestor's brother and a friend paying a quiet visit.

The Nestors were married September 3, 1929. The wife testified she is employed as a telephone company chief operator.

VICTIM OF AUTO PYRE TERMED 'YELLOW PUP'

Intense Hate, Threat of Horsewhipping Revealed

By HAZEL MacDONALD
International News Service.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Dec. 13.—A diary which bespoke Mrs. May Hanson's hatred for her former husband, Earl, was read today in a packed courtroom, where she is on trial charged with having burned him to death after throwing a pan of gasoline and a lighted match on him as he sat in his automobile.

A letter that announced if Hanson ever "is caught around here again, I vow he'll not look the same when he leaves," and alleged to have been written by the 39-year-old defendant, also was read.

CAUSTIC TERMS USED

The diary sketched the estrangement of the two which ended in divorce shortly before his death. Mrs. Hanson referred to Hanson as "dirty yellow pup" and "sneaking, filthy liar."

The first letter read was to Robert Gaylord, president of the Ingersoll Milling Machine Company, to whom Hanson was assistant, at $6,000 a year.

Dated February 19, 1932, it was in part:

"If you value his services and can sand the stench of a dirty stock hog, I' advise keeping him there, for if ever he is found on these premises, molesting June (her daughter) and me again, I'll horsewhip the filthy yellow hide clean off him and cripple that — rotten lying tongue of his.

HER APOLOGY

"This doesn't sound much like a letter coming from a lady, but when you've lived with a cur as long as I have, you very soon forget a good deal."

The first entries in the diary were made Christmas week, 1930 and include:

"Dec. 28, Sunday—He took June to a show—I stayed home.

"Dec. 30-31—June and I went to Milwaukee for a visit. He left a $2 check for us to go to Milwaukee and back. Generous?"

'NOTHING WITH COFFEE'

"Jan. 2—All week I've had nothing with my coffee so I had to walk downtown today to buy some yeast and flour so I could make some coffee bread. The dirty skunk.

"Jan. 17—Walked to town for something to eat. He hasn't bought a bit of groceries from 10 Jan.

"Jan. 18—Got dinner and stayed home as usual, while he went out and enjoyed himself.

COWBOY GETS LIFE AS KILLER

LANSING, Kan., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Jack Wisdom, slayer of two men and a woman in outbursts of anger, was Convict 3964 in the state penitentiary here today, his swift flare of temper matched by the speed of Kansas justice.

The 26-year-old cowboy was arrested Sunday near Jay, Okla., after thousands of persons had joined in a search for the bodies of two of his victims, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pritchard, of Wichita, Kan. Late yesterday he was rushed from the state reformatory at Hutchinson, where he had been taken for safe keeping, to Wichita, where he pleaded guilty to the murder of Pritchard and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

The proceedings required only 20 minutes, and in a few more minutes he was en route to Lansing.

Previously Wisdom had been charged with the murder of Emery Large, 56, a fellow ranch worker, near Meade, Kan. He told officers a quarrel during a card game had prompted him to slay Large.

LINDYS RESTING FOR MIAMI HOP TOMORROW

Both Anxious to Pass Christmas With Baby at Home

They rested here today after a 1,100-mile flight yesterday from Manaos, Brazil.

Friends said the couple were determined to pass Christmas with their little son, Jon Morrow Lindbergh.

The Lindberghs are to fly up the West Indies across Puerto Rico to Miami. They may make a stop at Puerto Rico. The airline distance from Port-of-Spain to San Juan, Puerto Rico, is 753 miles and from San Juan to Miami, 1,180 miles, a total of 1,933 miles.

Rain bathed their big, red hydro-airplane as the Colonel set it down to the cheers of thousands yesterday after an 1,100-mile hop in 9 hours and 39 minutes from Manaos, Brazil.

With Mrs. Lindbergh at the wireless, they were in almost constant touch with stations on land throughout their flight of many hazards over jungles, mountains, swamps and the isolated Llanos of Venezuela.

Up the Trinidad coast visibility was poor, but weather conditions improved as they progressed and only a fine rain slanted against the serene waters of the harbor as they swept to an easy landing.

They spent the night at the home of Gov. Sir A. Claude Hollis.

VICOMTE LOST ON FLIGHT

LONDON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—A constant search again today failed to reveal the whereabouts of Vicomte Charles De Manneville, who left Croydon airport on a lone flight to Paris yesterday morning.

His plane was last reported over Lympne, English air base near the Channel, at 10:15 a. m., 45 minutes after he had left Croydon.

Ships searched the channel throughout the night. Wireless messages from Croydon and from the Air Ministry asking shipping to keep a lookout were repeated today. He was feared lost.

Capt. LeBurgue, a French pilot who flew here from Paris at about the time De Manneville should have been crossing, said the sky was clear between Boulogne and Dover.

KIDNAPER BATES IN 'SOLITARY'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Assistant Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan said today that Alfred Bates, one of the Urschel kidnapers, was being held in solitary confinement at Leavenworth Penitentiary in an effort to obtain from him the whereabouts of $100,000 of the ransom money.

Keenan said Bates already has been in solitary confinement for about six weeks but "hasn't talked yet that I have heard of."

Bates was one of several notorious gangsters, including George (Machine Gun) Kelly, involved in the kidnaping of the rich Oklaoma oil man, Charles Urschel.

Since the trial and conviction of the kidnapers, federal agents have been seeking to recover ransom money Urschel paid for his release.

Ned Sparks Blames Dog in Divorce Suit

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Ned Sparks, movie comedian, known in real life as Edward A. Sparkman, was ordered by the Superior Court today to pay $200 a month temporary alimony to his wife, Mercedes, pending trial of their divorce contest.

After his wife sued him for divorce on grounds of cruelty, he countered with a suit charging she kept an ugly dog that persisted in biting him and his friends.

Boy Jailed as Leader Of San Jose Lynchers

Gov. Rolph Renews Plan to Free Him If Convicted

SAN JOSE, Cal., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—With a promise of a pardon for the defendant from Gov. James Rolph, Jr., authorities here today pushed plans to prosecute Anthony Cataldi, 18, on a charge of violating the state lynching law for participation in the mob which hanged the kidnape-slayers of Brooke Hart.

Cataldi was arrested on information furnished by :A. L. Wirin and Ellis O. Jones, representatives of the Civil Liberties Union, which demanded prosecution of the mob leaders.

Wirin and Jones produced newspaper photographs and statements credited to the youth indicating he was one of the leaders of the mob which stormed the county jail here Sunday, November 26, and seized Thomas Thurmoid and John Holmes. These two were hanged from trees in St. James Park across the street from the jail.

Sheriff William J. Emig said the arrest of Cataldi was a move to hold him until his case is presented to the grand jury. The Sheriff added that other alleged leaders of the mob probably would be arrested.

Gov. Rolph, when notified of the arrest of Cataldi, said he would stand by his promise and pardon Cataldi if he were convicted. He said:

"There is nothing before me officially now and I can do nothing until the matter is brought before me in an orderly manner.

"But I have not changed my attitude. I will pardon this man if he is convicted."

The court, investigating the shooting of December 4, made the ruling because of the Salvadorean criminal code which specifies prison on the simple presumption of guilt in criminal cases until the defendant is proven innocent.

KISSED MAID, WIFE CHARGES

Her husband kissed the maid and "ran around" with other women, Mrs. Ruth M. Aloise, 152 North Balph avenue, Bellevue, testified today in asking a divorce from Joseph M. Aloise.

She discharged the maid, but that did not put an end to her troubles, and she and the husband separated, Mrs. Aloise told Judge Ralph H. Smith.

Since the separation, she testified, the husband has bothered her concerning their two children, who are living with her. On one visit to her home, she said, he threw a vase at her.

They were married June 29, 1922.

ACTRESS DIES IN PLUNGE

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—With two notes pinned to her dress, Mrs. Adrienne Lachamp Keim, 33, Hungarian actress, singer and dancer, plunged to her death from a window on the fifteenth floor of the Lincoln Hotel, in the heart of the theatrical district, yesterday.

Narrowly missing several pedestrians, her body struck the sidewalk on Forty-fourth street between the marquees of the hotel and the Majestic Theater.

One of the notes pinned to Mrs. Keim's dress read:

"Please notify my mother, Mrs. A. Lachamp, in Shanghai, China. Please, it is my wish to be buried untouched. I am sorry for the poor English."

The second note was addressed to the police and read:

"Please keep this out of the papers. This is just another funeral. Don't experiment on me and don't try to keep me alive."

Mrs. Keim left six sealed notes, four of them addressed to Lodewick Vroom, director of the St. James Theater, across the street from the hotel. Stage hands at the theater said Mrs. Keim, wife of Chauncey Keim, producer, was known to them as "the baroness."

Slight Earthquake Felt in California

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 13.—(INS.)—A slight earthquake was felt in the San Francisco Bay region today. No damage was reported.

Seismographs at the University of California, Berkeley, and the Mt. Hamilton Observatory, near San Jose, recorded the temblor with the movements continuing for four minutes.

FAMILY ANXIOUS ABOUT JOHN D.

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Although John D. Rockefeller has recovered from his attack of grip sufficiently to be up and around the house at his estate near Tarrytown, his family was reported today to be concerned over the aged financier's failure to regain his strength with any degree of speed.

Rockefeller has not been out of the house at Pocantico Hills for more than a week. Whether he will recuperate sufficiently to make his customary trip to Ormond, Fla., before Christmas is now dubious.

The 94-year-old multimillionaire has been going to Florida annually for years, usually arriving there late in December and remaining until April or May.

Jury Acquits Man In Killing of Wife

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Toy G. Woolley, 28-year-old auditor, was acquitted today on a murder charge for the shooting of his wife, Dorothy, 20, in the bedroom of their home here November 5.

The state presented evidence intended to show that Woolley planned to kill his wife in order that he might return to Miss Mae Cantrell, of Austin, whom he had married previously.

'Old-Fashioned Girl,' Ganna Back in U. S.

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—When the Ile de France docked today an old-fashioned girl tripped down the gangplank.

Presenting, ladies and gentlemen, that little country miss, Ganna Walska.

Miss Walska herself brought up the old-fashioned business when a young man, struck by an original thought, asked what she thought of repeal. She said vaguely:

"I suppose that it is good for trade. You know, I'm just an old-fashioned girl who never drank wine or liquor and who never smoked a cigaret!"

And then the singer who has been the toast of the capitals of Europe told all. She asserted:

"You see, some years ago, I was in a play called 'The Secret of Susan.' I was supposed to smoke a cigaret. I took one puff and became terribly ill, so I quit then and there."

She warmed to her theme, adding:

"I never went in for the short skirt and the short hair. I just remained old-fashioned, and now I'm right back in style again."

Incidentally, the old-fashioned girl returned to the United States because the modern dollar has depreciated so that it is difficult to get along in Paris.

Science Puts Puny Boy Far Ahead of Twin

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—There's something in this scientific education after all, it seems.

"Johnny," last name unrevealed, today stood forth as the prime example, demonstrating the benefits of scientific "conditioning" before a group of physicians, nurses, psychologists and child specialists at Babies' Hospital, where he and his brother, Jimmy, have been under observation since they were 20 days old.

Twin sons of a taxi driver, the boys were placed under the observation of Dr. Myrtle B. McGraw shortly after birth.

"Johnny" was then the puny child, Dr. McGraw said. To him was given the "conditioning" treatment while "Jimmy" was left pretty much to his own devices, although his actions and reactions came in for equally close observation.

Today, at 19 months, "Johnny" roller skates, climbs, swims, jumps and carries on in young daredevil fashion while his twin brother can do none of these things and exhibits none of the ingenuity and fearlessness of his brother.

But "Jimmy's" day is coming Dr. McGraw promised. After April 1 he will be given the same "conditioning" and taught to do all the tricks "Johnny" has down pat

WOMEN PLEAD FOR JUVENILE HOME

County Commissioners are in sympathy with plans for the new Juvenile Detention Home, but are stumped on how to provide funds.

This in effect was their answer to a petition for the home, presented yesterday by 60 women representing the Legislative Council of Western Pennsylvania.

Commissioner C. C. McGovern explained:

"We'll attend to the home at the very moment it can be done consistently. We are already on record on a motion to build it.

"But of course we are in no position to issue bonds now. It's a question of finding the most advantageous way."

Mrs. Arnold M. Replogle proposed that the Commissioners apply to the federal government under the CWA program for aid in building the home. She suggested $500,000 as the maximum cost of erecting a new building on the present site.

Of the need for a new home, Mrs. Replogle said:

"Present conditions are a disgrace to our community. The quarters are wholly inadequate, complete supervision is impossible, the buildings are in a dilapidated condition, and facilities prohibit even the least modern methods of detention."

Stating that the members of the Legislative Council, estimated at 45,000 women, were back of the Commissioners in increased taxation to make possible the home, Mrs. Replogle urged speed in order to get available government funds.

APPEAL MADE BY VOLUNTEERS

Col. Frank H. Wise, regional director of the Volunteers of America, today appealed for additional donations of toys and clothing for the needy, following numerous unanticipated pleas for aid.

Unless contributions to the organization's annual street-corner campaign are especially heavy this year, Col. Wise said, additional donations will be essential. Proceeds from the street-corner drive will be used to purchase baskets of food for needy and a Christmas party for impoverished children.

Norfolk Jacket Newest for Men

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Men are not going to be left entirely out of the parade back to fashions of yesteryear, it seems. With designers of women's clothing dragging out the bustle, puff sleeves and the like for milady's wear, the males' stylists have been stirred to action.

At a meeting the Philadelphia Club of Clothing Designers it was announced the Norfolk jacket is coming back next spring.

FEDERAL LIQUOR MONOPOLY PROPOSED

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—A bounty on bootleggers—just like the bounty on wolves in the North country—was suggested by Representative Knutson (Rep.), of Minnesota, today at the congressional liquor hearing.

"Don't you think we could break up these gangs by offering a bounty—say of $2,500 a head?"

That is what Knutson asked J. W. Murray, former Holyoke (Mass.) importer, a witness. Murray replied:

"Well, they're wolves, but it would cost the country a lot of money."

Murray testified that big bootleggers are offering liquor at $1 a gallon, and William L. Cauffman, of Philadelphia, said bootleggers there were selling for less than the proposed $2.60 federal tax.

MONOPOLY URGED

A federal wholesale liquor monopoly to take the "profit motive" out of liquor business was proposed to the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means Committee today by Dr. Luthern Gulick, of Columbia University, spokesman for the committee sponsored by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to study the liquor question.

He also urged the creation of state liquor authorities to handle liquor within the states.

Dr. Gulick further advocated establishment of an excess profits tax for the industry.

Under the program, the federal wholesale monopoly would sell to state liquor authorities, which in turn would sell to retailers. Where states have no board the government would sell direct to retailers, Dr. Gulick said:

"There can be no solution to the liquor tax problem unless both the state and federal governments establish liquor authorities to deal with the retail trade. You must take the private profit motive out of the trade."

Answering a question by Representative Vinson (Dem.), of Kentucky, Dr. Gulick maintained the federal government has full power to establish the monopoly.

WINE TAX OPPOSED

Paul Garrett, New York wine producer, said natural wines should not be taxed at all because "such taxation will constitute a tax burden upon agriculture which has been taking it 'on the chin' for many years." He indorsed President Roosevelt's general policy of low taxation to defeat the bootlegger.

A high tax on high-powered liquor with a low tax on milder drinks as a means of curbing drunkenness was urged by Prof. Yandell Henderson, of Yale.

Henderson, who was a star witness for backers of 3.2 per cent beer last year, declared this experiment had proved "brilliantly successful" and demonstrated the possibility of making America a temperate nation.

Under his plan whisky containing not over 12 per cent alcohol, which is about the volume in a Scotch highball, would pay a fairly low tax. He proposed to tax high-powered whisky so it would retail from $3 to $4 a quart. But whisky diluted down to 10 to 12 per cent would be taxed so a half pint could be sold for 10 cents.

Henderson urged a cut in the 3.2 per cent beer tax from $5 to $3 a barrel, but would tax beer over 5 per cent by weight $9 a barrel.

RUM LICENSE RUSH DECLINES

Pittsburgh are Schenley, Overholt and Large.

And jobs are being created. Saturday, in five Pittsburgh high schools, 5,305 applicants will take examinations for places in the state liquor stores which, when they open January 2, will take over the package whisky business from the hotels and restaurants. There will be 21 such stores in Allegheny County, eight or nine of them in Pittsburgh. Throughout the state 34,891 applicants will take the tests for the 2,000 jobs.

MARK PAPERS HERE

The examination papers will be marked here for all of Western Pennsylvania by 300 students hired from Pitt, Carnegie Tech and Frick Training School.

There is a possibility that Pittsburghers will be able to buy whisky on New Year's Day, although the law forbids such sales on holidays. In Harrisburg today the House approved, with only a few scattered noes, a resolution designed to allow such sales from midnight to 2 a. m. January 1.

Throughout Western Pennsylvania agents of the Department of Revenue were paying surprise visits on liquor licensees and, in many cases, collecting the $2 per gallon tax voted on all liquor which was in the state two weeks ago. The agents weren't particularly interested in whether some of the stuff was bootleg; they wanted—and got—the tax.

Approximately $700,000 has been collected over the state for the liquor license fund, which is to be returned, beginning February 1, to the municipalities.

Pittsburgh's share, roughly, will approach $100,000.

Brewers Ask Cut In 3.2 Beer Tax

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The board of directors of the United States Brewing Association today decided to ask Congress to reduce from $5 to $2 a barrel the federal tax on 3.2 per cent beer and to make the tax on beer above that alcoholic content $5.

Drink in Nude? Even Bartenders Blush at Idea

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Even hardened bartenders blushed and veteran elbow-benders set down their noggins with a palsied rattle as they heard it—

"What! Drink in the nude? Why—why—"

"The best way to drink liquor is while in the nude."

Goodman, attending a meeting of the Big Brothers' movement, called to decide whether the Chicago nudist group would be permitted to appear among the World's Fair attractions, which will go on display at Grand Central Palace next Friday, startled the brothers almost out of their chairs at the suggestion.

After citing various benefits of nudism in an attempt to convince the board his colony should be represented at the exposition, Goodman declared:

"Why, nudism is even a help to drinking. Persons in nudist cults get more pleasure out of their drinking now that repeal is effective, than the average individual."

Goodman explained that consumption of liquor increases bodily heat, which in turn opens the pores. Therefore, he pointed out, persons in the nude are aided because "it is a known medical fact that a more healthful respiration is obtained when the pores are open.

Ergo, nude drinking is more beneficial.

TARENTUM DRY, NO RUM STORE

Legally dry since 1869, Tarentum has won its fight against a state liquor store in the town.

A store originally proposed for Tarentum was eliminated by the Liquor Control Board in Harrisburg yesterday following presentation of the plea of dry interests by Representative W. A. Walker, and receipt of hundreds of protesting telegrams.

Leading opponents of the store were the Allegheny Valley Ministerial Association, Sunday School classes, the Book Club and members of the Business Men's and the Kiwanis Clubs.

Duquesne, heretofore passed up in the location of state liquor stores, was named by the board.

U. S. MAY RANK WITH BIG WINE PRODUCERS

By A. ALBERT
Maitre D'Hotel, Hotel William Penn

(This is the final of a series that will specify the proper wine to serve on every occasion; deal with the question of temperature, etc., and list the proper type of serving glass.)

It is a safe prediction to forecast that the United States in the near future will rank among the great wine producers.

It will be known as the greatest natural grape-growing country because the phylloxera, more commonly known in Europe as the grape louse, which has deadly effects on roots of grape vines, is rarely found in our grape-producing territories. Before prohibition, California had 700 vineyards divided largely between Sonoma County and the famous Napa County, with others scattered between Santa Clara and Santa Cruz.

CLEVER IMITATIONS

The very finest of the domestic wines come from the Napa Valley and the Livermore Valley. The producers of the Napa Valley Beaulieu Sauternes have succeeded in imitating the finest Sauternes of the French Bordeaux district. The nearest imitation of French champagne is produced in New York State.

Grape growing in this country has expanded since 1860. Distinctive domestic wines are produced in the following sections:

California—Angelica Sweet, Sanoma Sauternes, Napa Sauternes, Zindfandel, Malaga, Thompson's Seedless, Concord, Riesling, Muscat, Tokay and Coo's Imperial champagne; Finger Lake Region (New York, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and Indiana)—Catawba Sweet, Ohio Valley (Sandusky) wines, Great Western Champagne, White and Gold Seal, Queen of the Valley, Kelly's Island Catawba; Missouri—Reisling, of the town of Hermann, fine imitation of Germ' Rhine wine.

IMMENSE PRODUCTION

The approximate production of American wines this year is predicted at 40,000,000 gallons. California will produce 25,000,000.

The temperature, storage and service of these wines in relation to the menu is identical to the rules already mentioned in previous articles describing the wines of Europe.

COSTLY WHISKY BOOMS GIN AS YULE CHEER

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Despite an early rush to imported liquors and high-priced wines, New Yorkers will get their "Christmas cheer" chiefly from gin, according to a canvass of retail stores by Universal Service.

This is qualified only by the possibility that good blended whisky, to sell for not more than $1.75 a quart, may become available before the holidays.

Barring the appearance of acceptable low-priced whisky, the habits of a prohibition generation will assert themselves in a preponderance of mixed drinks, with gin as the base.

New Yorkers, nurtured nearly 14 years on bathtub gin, are now singing the praises of several varieties of distilled gin now available in liquor stores and liquor departments of departments stores. Even synthetic gins made under sanitary conditions by reputable producers, are selling.

Chairman Mulrooney, of the State Alcoholic Beverage Commission, charged late yesterday that a combine of liquor dealers and politicians has been formed to bring back the saloon.

Mulrooney predicted the first attacks would be directed on the rule requiring that no license be issued to a proprietor who had not been in business a year at the time of repeal, and against the anti-bar regulation.

CRITICIZE LACK OF SHERIFF ACCOUNTING

Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar has refused to let auditors employed by the county examine records of his general office.

Fear of setting precedent and personal responsibility for general fund money were given as his grounds, in an audit report made public yesterday by Main and Company.

The audit, presented at a commissioners' board meeting, criticized as poor business the practice of allowing the sheriff, as a public officer, to handle large funds without the duty of making a public accounting.

Of $2,800,000 in cash receipts in 1932, $2,500,000 remained to be distributed by the Sheriff without supervision by the controller, the audit pointed out.

It also questioned the right of a retiring Sheriff to retain possession of undistributed funds, as has been the custom. The Sheriff claims to be acting in trustee capacity for owners for whom the money was collected.

The audit report said about $50,000 was being withheld through a practice of allowing a mortgagee in foreclosure proceedings, when he bid in property sold, to pay at his convenience.

New legislation was recommended authorizing the County Controller to audit and supervise all Sheriff records and funds, and directing a retiring sheriff to turn over to his successor all records and undistributed funds.

In the proposed county budget, an increase of $19,000 is being asked in the Sheriff's office. Almost half of this is for advertising.

Another audit, submitted on the office of the clerk of County Court, showed that office in satisfactory state, according to Commissioner C. M. Barr.

Toboggan Bids Scorned; G. O. P. 'Slide' Proposed

What! Only $50 offered for the county's 40 toboggans?

They might as well be given to the Republican party to slide on, said County Commissioner C. C. McGovern, in scorning the bid at yesterday's board meeting.

Director of Supplies Ray Sprigle objected:

"The Republicans are sliding pretty well without assistance."

McGovern suggested:

"Well, maybe we'll have to start tobogganing again ourselves."

Result—that the toboggans, 35 large and five small, remain the property of the county.

Their use in North and South parks was discontinued this year because of lack of public appreciation and high liability cost. Director Sprigle was directed to ascertain their value and hope for further offers.

WILL REWARDS SPINSTER

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—A daughter who refused to marry in order to care for her father has been remembered in his will, probated today.

William X. Huber, who died November 17, gave the daughter, Elsie, $10,000 and his home valued at $8,000, "in appreciation of her self sacrifice in refusing several offers of marriage and her unselfish and lifelong devotion to me."

The remainder of the estate, valued at $19,000, goes to the daughter and three other children.

BOARD MAY SUE WOODSIDE TO SEE AUDIT

County Commissioners are going to get the Ernst and Ernst 1928 audit of the Controller's office if they have to go to court for it.

So Commissioner C. S. McGovern yesterday told Controller Robert G. Woodside, after his repeated questions as to whether a copy of the audit would be forthcoming were met with silence.

Commissioner C. M. Barr reported the auditors wouldn't give him one without Woodside's permission.

If they wanted his permission, the Commissioners ought to write him a letter, Woodside averred. They have, Barr countered. Woodside said he had never received it. McGovern demanded a point-blank answer on whether they were going to get a copy.

This time Woodside had an answer:

"I'll write you an answer."

Woodside denied McGovern's allegation that the audit cost $75,000. He said $50,000 was the figure. Anyway, McGovern insisted, the money was public and the audit should be.

Two Service Pilots Killed in Crashes

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Lieut. Duncan H. Dunlap, of North East, Pa., was killed yesterday during combat maneuvers, when his plane crashed with another in mid-air near Surry Courthouse. Lieut. Edward F. Allee, of Boston, "balled out" of the other plane and escaped.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Lieut. William S. Arthur, Mandan, N. D., 27, Navy flier, was killed when his plane crashed 2,000 feet at sea five miles off La Jolla yesterday. No trace of the body has been found.

EXPO BUILDING PLAN SHELVED BY COUNCIL

An ordinance to give the Greater Pittsburgh Exposition Society a 50-year grant on the Exposition Building property at the Point has been laid on the table by the finance committee of City Council.

Copies of the proposal are being sent to the Mayor-elect and councilmen-elect. The society proposes to build a structure containing large auditorium and display rooms on the site of the old exposition at a cost of $3,000,000 and to pay the city as rent any excess of revenue over operating expenses and fixed charges.

No other rent or taxes would be paid on the property.

Councilman P. J. McArdle declared the bill should be returned with a negative recommendation because it turned over to private use a property in the city's high value district.

The society sponsoring the project is not connected with the Western Pennsylvania Exposition Society, which, according to reports, plans to wipe out its charter as soon as it closes up its affairs with the city.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Judge Charles D. Ballard yesterday awarded Miss Louise Ruth Shapiro, attorney and Justice of the Peace at Newark, N. J., $1,500 damages, for alleged breach of promise, against Dr. Maurice D. Turbow, Los Angeles dentist.

EYE RESEARCH PLANNED

A general program of research work was planned at the annual meeting of the Pittsburgh Optometric Association in the Keystone Athletic Club last night.

Speakers were Dr. J. C. Andes, of Vandergrift; Dr. J. C. Stull, of Washington, Pa.; Dr. B. J. Barth, and Dr. William M. Stieren, of Pittsburgh.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Dr. Edward B. Snyder, of Pittsburgh; vice presidents, Dr. H. Ward Ewalt and Dr. Edward B. Nungresser, of Pittsburgh, and Dr. R. W. Prigg, of Charleroi; treasurer, Dr. E. A. Picard; secretary, Dr. William M. Stieren, Jr., and directors, Dr. William J. Van Essen and Dr. E. T. Meyer, of Pittsburgh.

Four Firemen Hurt Fighting Church Fire

MALDEN, Mass., Dec. 13.—(INS.)—Four firemen were injured and damage of $200,000 was incurred today by a fire which destroyed the 50-year-old First Congregational Church as firemen of six cities concentrated on preventing the flames from leaping to nearby business property.

After the roof collapsed, the east wall of the building fell in a mass of flames, burying several pieces of fire apparatus and narrowly missing a score of firemen.

KIRK NEXT HEAD OF TREASURY, M'NAIR HINTS

William N. McNair, Democratic mayor-elect, today gave credence to rumors that James P. Kirk will be named City Treasurer.

Kirk is secretary of the Harris-Lawrence Insurance Company, of which State Senator Frank Harris and Collector David L. Lawrence, of the Department of Internal Revenue, are partners.

McNair, asked about rumors of Kirk's appointment, said:

"Well, why not? He's a pretty good man, isn't he?"

TREASURER OF PARTY

Kirk has worked as treasurer of the Democratic party for some years and is likely to receive party support for the job.

The city treasurer's post is one which dispenses of a good deal of patronage in the form of temporary jobs during rush collection periods. An incumbent certain to give close consideration to party recommendations is desired in the job and Kirk fills the bill, by common consent.

CHOICE LEFT IN DOUBT

Yesterday Pennington, former dry chief here, was given a chance for the job when McNair, lamenting the scarcity of nominations for the post, said:

"I may have to name Pennington yet."

The day before that he said he wanted some Pittsburgher for the job.

And that leaves everybody just where McNair wants them—not knowing where they are.

Meanwhile, McNair has had Carey Sutlive, an editor, of Brunswick, Ga., invited to come to Pittsburgh to speak at the Henry George Club lunch in the Chamber of Commerce Building December 29, on the free port for Pittsburgh idea.

GUFFEY TO FOOT BILL

Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic leader here, is footing the bill as his birthday present — it's Guffey's birthday — December 29 — to the club.

The Henry George Club sponsors the single-tax, of which McNair is a disciple, and the free port idea, allowing commodities to be imported without paying a tariff, is in line with that, since single-taxers are free traders and believe in taxing only land.

At a dinner in his honor Saturday, McNair announced he had given up the free port idea in return for Councilman Robert Garland's promise to cast his vote in favor of McNair's cabinet appointments.

McNair needs that support, so he's not going to speak in favor of the free port—but Sutlive is.

EXPERTS CLASH AT VOTE TRIAL

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 13.—With the varying testimony of two Pittsburgh handwriting experts who disputed ballots in the court records, hearing on the election contest in the First Precinct, Eighth Ward, Washington, today moved into its final stages.

Washington County election authorities driving to bring nine other contests filed in the last general election—one of the most turbulent in the history of this district—to an early airing, are prepared to launch their second case immediately upon conclusion of the present.

Most of yesterday's session was given over to description of the penmanship experts.

Maurice A. Nernburg after testifying that at least nine ballots without a doubt indicated markings by two persons, was followed to the stand by G. W. Wood, another handwriting expert, who took an opposite view to Nernburg.

M'NAIR TALKS FOR RATNER

Busy Mayor-elect William N. McNair found time today to appear as a character witness for Attorney H. Lee Ratner, on trial in Federal Court on a charge of subornation of perjury.

McNair said he had known Ratner professionally and socially for many years, and never heard any reflection on the attorney's reputation. Judges Elder W. Marshall and M. A. Musmanno also were character witnesses for the defendant.

Ratner denied on the stand yesterday that he had coached witnesses how to testify in the trial of Harry Reitzell last December. Ratner was counsel for Reitzell, who was convicted under the Mann Act and sentenced to three years in a federal prison.

Gunmen Put Victim At Hospital Door

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(INS.)—Having won a gun battle in which more than thirty shots were fired in a tavern today, three gunmen left their dying victim in front of Presbyterian Hospital. The victim was James McGlade, 22-year-old police character.

McGlade refused to name his assailants, but police sought his brother John, and Thomas O'Donnell, a brother of the notorious William ("Klondike") O'Donnell, who are said to operate the tavern.

McNair, as 'Wet,' Sips 'Dry' Drink From Beer Mug

As he predicted he would be, the city's mayor-to-be, William N. McNair, was "wet" again today—his sympathies having reversed in weather-cock fashion in an address to his old friends, the Croatians, at a dinner in his honor last night.

It was a "wet" audience the new Mayor had, and his speech was damp enough to suggest another whisky rebellion to reduce liquor taxes. Moreover, he threatened to come out "dry" if the people did not fight the liquor tax, although he hastily added he had always been a "dry."

SHUNS SPEAKER'S TABLE

He ignored the speakers' table. As though to match his action to his words, he moved about the crowded Croatian Hall from table to table with a beer mug in his hand, but in the mug was none of the brew with which other guests were being served. It was partially filled with a weak portion of non-alcoholic grenadine which he passed off as wine.

So high was the new executive's humor that he beckoned to his table the policeman at the entrance. With a slap on the back he asked the patrolman—James Hickey—if he were satisfied with his beat and told him the police force had nothing to fear.

To match the occasion, McNair read the first part of his speech in Croatian. In that language he said he would endeavor to reduce taxes on the homes of the poor and place them on the homes of the rich. It pleased the audience.

DENOUNCES RUM TAXES

And then he began in earnest about liquor taxes, and there was no mention of the dry referendum he had suggested barely 24 hours before at a Bible class meeting of an East Liberty church. He said:

"I am against the liquor tax. I thought when I advanced the single tax idea that I could save the builder and the small-home owner some money, but now I find it's all going back into liquor tax. The tax is going to stop prosperity.

"As soon as my term begins—Jimmy Coyne says, 'don't worry, he's not in yet,' but it looks like I'm going to get in—I intend to begin right away making jobs for people."

Attorney Anthony Lucas was toastmaster. Among other speakers were Congressman J. Twing Brooks, Edward O. Tabor and James Houlahen, former County Commissioner, who told of an occasion when he and McNair had ridden to a Democratic convention in the same Pullman berth—an upper one. They were "lean" Democratic days, he added.

Two Women Kidnap Night Club Owner

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(INS.)—Police began a search today for Lou Finn, night club owner, following reports that he had been kidnaped more than 48 hours ago by two women carrying pistols.

No word had been received from Finn since he disappeared from in front of his North Side club. A doorman said he saw two armed women push him into an automobile.

COUNTY GIVEN VOTE MACHINE WARNING

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 13.—If the Commissioners of Allegheny County do not shortly after January 1 purchase sufficient voting machines to equip every voting district in the county, Richard J. Beamish, Secretary of the Commonwealth, will take the matter out of their hands, advertise for bids, award a contract, and compel the Commissioners to pay the bill.

Beamish made this announcement today following his letter of Monday demanding that the Commissioners put the present machines in condition by January 1 for use at the next election.

He will act under authority granted him in the voting machine act, which was upheld by the courts in a test case involving Philadelphia.

MAY JUNK MACHINES

If the present type voting machine bought for Allegheny County—but used only once, and then with chaotic results—cannot be improved so as to be available for the next primary, Mr. Beamish may junk the whole outfit and purchase new machines. He said today that he would see that machines in sufficient number were on hand for every voting district next May.

With the 1,100 machines now in possession of the county, even if they worked, there is a sufficiency only for Pittsburgh and the three third-class cities if the recommendations of the Harris voting machine committee and the Commissioners are observed, with two and, in some cases, three machines to a district.

SPURS COMMISSIONERS

In his letter to the County Commissioners Monday Mr. Beamish, referring to his demand that the present Poole machines be improved as he had demanded, made this significant statement:

"If the defects cannot be remedied I must know it at the earliest possible moment in order that the mandate of the people of Allegheny County shall be fulfilled in time for the next election."

Mr. Beamish was referring to the vote by which the people in the Armstrong-Babcock administration authorized the purchase of machines to equip every district.

If the Poole machines can be remedied in a manner satisfactory to the Secretary of the Commonwealth they will be retained for as many districts as they will cover.

BARR SILENT ON THREAT

County Commissioner C. M. Barr doesn't care to comment, but Maj. William T. Rees, director of the Bureau of Elections, doesn't think much of Secretary Richard J. Beamish's threat to buy net vote machines for Allegheny County.

Rees said a good businessman wouldn't consider scrapping the present lot of 1,100 vote machines, but would hire good mechanics to fix them. The director added that he thinks it should be made an illegal act to apply so much pressure to the machine handles, in voting, that the machine breaks down.

2 P. S. C. NAMES MAY GET 'O. K.'

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 13.—Desire of the Republican party to retain numerical control of the Public Service Commission—even at the expense of permitting "anti-organization" men to serve—may bring confirmation of two of Gov. Pinchot's five nominees by the Senate.

This was learned by International News Service today from sources within the Republican ranks. The two regarded as the most likely to be confirmed are P. S. Stahlnecker, former secretary to the Governor, and Herman J. Goldberg, Wilkes-Barre.

This disclosure came shortly after the Governor blamed Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, for delaying action on the Commissioners.

Organization forces recognize the need for some action at this session if Republican control of the rate-making body is to be assured. Only two of the five names before the Senate must be approved to realize that end. Then, even with Democratic sweeps in the 1934 election, the Democrats could do no better than get three members on the Commission.

G. O. P. BEATEN ON SOCIAL BILLS

trant attitude of the Senate Committee, though Senators Morris Einstein and William D. Mansfield, of Allegheny County, together with eight other senators, had tried to get the bill to the floor.

DRAMATIC BATTLE

Today's action in the House was dramatic. Organization leaders had intended toadjourn the House this afternoon. This would have left the social legislation program in a paliamentary state where it could not have consideration if the special session adheres to its resolution to adjourn finally next Thursday, December 21.

Hoopes offered his resolution that the House sit tomorrow and Friday of this week.

Immediately, the Republican organization marshaled its forces to battle the proposal. It received assistance from Philadelphia, which has professed to support the social legislation program. Republican regulars from Allegheny county who follow Senator James J. Coyne also fell in line with the organization against the Hoopes resolution.

JOHN KANE AIDS MOVE

Representative John J. Kane, Pittsburgh Democrat, came to the aid of Hoopes, as did Representative Norbert Fitzgerald, Erie. Each read a list of the social bills involved, and derided the claim by Representative Clinton Sowers, of Philadelphia, that the decks had been cleared.

Representative A. J. White Hutton, Chambersburg, floor leader for the organization, and speaking the thoughts of Speaker Grover Talbot, tried to rally the reactionary forces, but was swept aside by the overwhelming force of sentiment behind the Hoopes resolution.

Except for the "left-handed" Democrats who follow the banner of former Senator Joseph R. Grundy, the entire minority bloc supported Hoopes. The Pinchot Republicans took the same course, the hard coal region delegation voting almost as a unit to remain in session.

ALLEGHENY COUNTY VOTE

On the roll call the Allegheny County delegation divided as follows:

Absent—Scorza, Shenkel.

WAGE BILL BATTLE

Yesterday's "burial" of the Fitzgerald minimum wage bill occurred following a hearing in which there were threats of fisticuffs, an interchange of verbal fire between Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the Governor, and Senator Mason Owlett, chairman of the sweatshop committee, and some sideplay bristling with politics.

Senator Samuel Salus and Robert Haight, representative of the State Chamber of Commerce, offered battle—Salus calling Haight a bum and inviting him to come outside and put up his fists because of his opposition to the bill.

Haight, not much of a pugilist, challenged the statement he was a bum, but did not emerge from the committee. Neither did the bill, and the honors, or dishonors, were with Mr. Haight and the Republican organization.

Senator Owlett charged administration of the minimum wage law would be put in the hands of Stephen Raushenbush, a deputy in the Department of Labor and Industry, whom the regular Republicans label a "red," while the State Federation of Labor looks on him as a representative of responsibility toward laboring classes.

MRS. PINCHOT FIGHTS

Mrs. Pinchot struck Mr. Owlett with the charge that he had been playing golf in Pittsburgh instead of hearing testimony on sweatshop conditions. The Senator, whose approaches are short and somewhat off the line, denied that he had played golf in Pittsburgh, but instead said that a House member of the committee had been in the rough most of the time.

The upshot was that the bill was stymied or was trapped, and did not come out. This flouting of public sentiment, as exemplified in the recent Democratic victories, was pushed through by the Republican organization with little regard for the re-election hopes of Senators and Representatives.

The same committee reported the federal child labor amendment, and this will come to the Senate for a final roll call.

Blind Pension Bill To Be Amended

HARRISBURG, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The Lose bill, providing pensions for the blind, passed finally by the House and released by a Senate committee last night, was taken back to committee today after second reading.

It was said unofficially that the measure may be amended with a reduction of the $1,300,000 appropriation provided in the bill's present form.

Bank Control Bills 'Pickled' in Senate

HARRISBURG, Dec. 13—(INS.)—After a brief appearance on the calander for two readings, the administration and the "banking interests" bills regulating private banking in the state were back in Senate committee today "for further consideration."

Wage Bill Defeat Suicide of G.O.P., Says Pinchot

HARRISBURG, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today likened the death of the minimum wage bill in Senate committee to the "suicide" of the Republican party. He said:

"The forces of reaction have won a skirmish on social legislation, but the battle is far from over.

"If the Republican organization leaders choose to commit suicide, that's their funeral."

ELECTION CHEAT OUSTER BILL INTRODUCED

HARRISBURG, Dec. 13.—Forfeiture of office is the penalty imposed on a candidate whose election is obtained by fraud committed with his knowledge, by terms of a Pinchot administration bill introduced by Senator Benjamin H. Thompson, Westmoreland.

The bill embodies the Governor's recommendation for penalties upon candidates "who participate in or condone election frauds." His special session proclamation specifically proposes such legislation.

Proof that the candidate has guilty knowledge of fraud is intrusted to the Court of Quarter Sessions in proceedings to declare a nomination or election void.

If the offense was committed at a primary election, the court is required to certify the proof to the Secretary of the Commonwealth or the County Commissioners, who are directed to omit the candidate's name from the November election ballot.

If the fraud is proved after the election, the court is directed to enter a decree of ouster from office against the condoning candidate.

If the bill is passed in its present form, it will be in effect for the primary next May.

New Solicitor Bill Passes to House

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The Mansfieli bill, creating the position of solicitor in the Pittsburgh City Controller Department, was passed finally in the Senate today and went to the House.

AUTHORITY BILL AMENDED, NEW ACTION DUE

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 13.—Amended to meet objections to the wide scope of the bill, the Einstein measure authorizing creation of an Allegheny County authority to construct public works projects with money borrowed from the Federal government was expected to be reported out of committee in the the House late today.

Opposition was expressed at a public hearing before the House Judiciary General Committee to the fact that the measure would not limit the authority to new projects.

It was pointed out that the old Wabash Bridge in Pittsburgh could be purchased by the authority as the first step to construction of the proposed Wabash Tunnel, thus spending considerable money without providing any work.

Another proposed amendment would permit the Public Service Commission to supervise the collection of tolls on any toll bridge projects under the authority. This would include the proposed Brown's Bridge over the Monongahela River at Homestead.

Poll Tax Ban Act Approved in Senate

HARRISBURG, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The act to put in operation constitutional amendment No. 5, eliminating the tax-paying qualification to vote, was approved finally in the Senate today and was relayed to the House. Senator William D. Mansfield, Allegheny, is the sponsor.

Permanent Vote List Bill Goes to House

HARRISBURG, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The Senate passed finally and sent to the House the bill of Senator Frank Harris providing for permanent registration in the city of Pittsburgh.

The Mansfield bill for permanent registration in third-class cities was restored to the Senate calendar today for action on final passage on the next legislative day.

Incorporated Girl Recovers From Fall

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 13.—(INS.)—The incorporated girl rested in her apartment today after nine months in a hospital recovering from a fall off a horse.

She is Miss Velma Gresham, Memphis (Tenn.) social registerite, who incorporated herself in 1932 to pursue a screen and stage career after her family had refused to finance her.

MOTORISTS!

SAFEGUARD YOUR RIGHT TO DRIVE UNDER THIS NEW LAW!

DO YOU know that the new Pennsylvania Uniform Automobile Liability Security Act, which goes into effect January 1st, places additional responsibility upon you as a driver or owner?

Under this law you may be barred from the roads as a driver, or owner of an automobile, until you give proof of financial responsibility:

1. If you violate certain motor vehicle laws.

2. If you fail to satisfy—within 15 days—a final judgment, in excess of $200, rendered against you for damages on account of personal injury or death, or because of damage to the property of others, arising from the operation of a motor vehicle by you, your agent, or any other person with your consent.

The law further provides that if you are barred from the roads for failure to pay such a judgment, your registration certificate and driver's license will not be reinstated until you satisfy the judgment and furnish evidence of future financial responsibility.

3. If, when you next apply for a driver's license, you have had two or more accidents with damages totalling $200 or more within the twelve months preceding application, such application may be denied until you show proof of future financial responsibility.

The minimum amount of financial responsibility required is $5,000 for injury to, or death of, one person; $10,000 for injury to, or death of, two or more persons, and $1,000 for damage to the property of others.

The best—and most economical—way to show financial responsibility is a certificate of insurance from an insurance company licensed to do business in Pennsylvania.

And—right now is the time to buy Automobile Insurance. Don't wait until an accident occurs!

The financial strength of The Travelers guarantees protection

The Travelers writes more Automobile Insurance than any other company and protects more than 500,000 automobile owners.

And—a Travelers policy will meet all requirements of Financial Responsibility Laws in all other states in the United States and Provinces of Canada where financial responsibility may be met by a certificate of insurance. Encouraging Words Help To Promote Happiness

Praise or criticism—which is the better medicine for what ails us?

Which do you hand out to the Home Folks?

Perhaps the Big Boy isn't doing as well as you think he should. Or maybe it's the Little Woman whose biscuits seem to be slipping. In either case, what's your attitude? Encouragement—or slams?

And what has all this to do with marriage? June thinks it has plenty—

Dear Miss Robinson:

I wish you'd tell me something. Why is it that married people so often go around sniping at each other, instead of giving each other a hand?

Here's my sister and her husband. They've been married for six years. She and her husband started off with what we all thought was the best possible chance to make a go of their marriage. They were deeply in love. They had a nice home. His business was doing very well, and they were—and are—both really fine people.

But gradually they got to criticizing each other. They still have their home, and his business isn't too bad. You might say, considering the times, that they are well off. There has been no undue strain on either of them. They have one child, a girl, who is now two. Outsiders take them for a happy couple.

But I don't believe either of them has paid the other a compliment in months. My sister never praises Tom, no matter what he does, but if he makes a mistake of any kind she is quick enough to hop on him and tell him about it. He is just as bad and they're getting just about fed up on each other. It all seems to me so unnecessary.

PREFERS PRAISE

I am married, myself, so I know people don't have to be like that. I have been married a year longer than Sis, and it has been by no means plain sailing at our house. My husband lost his job with a big firm, when it went broke. He had been getting a good salary, and we had a few investments that stood up, so we haven't been in actual want. But we had to give up our car. We had to give up our comfortable home and move into a little three-room cottage we happened to own. I've had to dress very economically, and do without things that I was always used to.

But we've never crabbed at each other. I have tried to encourage Bill every way I could. I think a little applause goes a long way toward making home happy, and so does Bill. Every once in a while he brings me a fistful of flowers, and tells me I'm a great girl. I cook his favorite dishes, and tell him how proud I am of the way he has met his disappointments. And we're more in love than we ever were.

I asked Sis one day why she didn't praise Tom once in a while, and she said: "And have him get conceited on me?" Well, that certainly gave me a jolt!

Do you suppose that's why married people take so many cracks at each other? Are they each afraid the other will get upstage if praised too much? I wonder. Anyway, it seems to me positively stupid to act that way. And what a lot of misery it causes! JUNE.

OVERLOOK FAULTS

Two pictures of married life—which one is yours?

Do you go around "hoping for the worst," with a mean word ever ready on your tongue? If you do, what and where is it getting you? Coolness—heartache—deepening resentment.

Then suppose some kinder, happier human comes along? Who's to blame if the heckled husband or wife slips the leash?

Marriage isn't a reformatory. It was your own Best Chance, or you'd never have gone into it. Then why crab your own act? Why open the door so some gigolo or gold-digger can walk in with a little flattery, and walk out with your partner?

What does one mistake, or a hundred, matter in comparison with the love and happiness you had when first you met? You both had the same faults then. But you tactfully overlooked them. Then why not use a little of that forgotten tact now—a little of that blessed blarney—and find your way back to your lost paradise?

G'wan—take a chance! The next time he, or she, fumbles the ball, hand out a boost instead of a blast—and see what happens!

Fay King Believes Man Is Made Conceited by Feminine Adulation

By FAY KING

How seldom one ever sees a gorgeously beautiful girl with a man equally young and handsome.

But we have become accustomed to seeing the loveliest, most youthful and charming beauties devoting themselves to decrepit old rounders.

No wonder men are conceited! They are humored as Romeos from the cradle to the grave. A whole series of beautiful young Juliets waiting their turn to flatter them, it seems.

When some of these Juliets grow fat and faded, instead of bowing out of the picture, they remain popular with their old boy friends by introducing them to plenty of new pretty little pals.

Her little pals become profitable pawns.

Given in Marriage

A Sequel to Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is Unable to Shake Off Fear

Dicky's question to his brother-in-law, apparently so casually innocuous, sent my hand to my throat in that curious, age-old, instinctive gesture which women use in times of stress. For I knew that the question was not casual, and that, in common with every one else in the room, he feared that some real injury to Baby Faith had resulted from the prank of the boys.

But I had no leisure to indulge my own fear. Such stark terror was mirrored in the eyes of Junior and Roderick, as they stood facing me and waiting for Dr. Braithwaite's verdict, that I moved quickly across to them and put an arm around each trembling little figure.

"Hush!" I whispered quickly, as they clung to me convulsively. And then Dr. Braithwaite was speaking again, and bringing ecstatic relief to all our hearts.

"There's no reason why we can't all see her," he said. "But I must ask you all not to speak. Katherine is hushing her to sleep."

The caution was not needed, however. Not one of us spoke, nor did we linger. Faith was awake, and I guessed that Katherine's deft, tender hands had sponged all traces of her fright from her tiny face.

Junior and Roderick, their hands convulsively clutching mine, looked at her with eyes as keen and searching as my own, and then we gave place to the others. We were the first to go back into the other room, and, as if by common consent, we went out into the hall before a word was spoken.

SOBS OF RELIEF

"Gee! Mums!" Junior's voice was a paean of thanksgiving. "Did you see her? She was smiling, and her eyes were kind of dancing up and down, the way they always do. She's all right, isn't she, Mums?"

"Yes, darling," I answered. "She isn't hurt at all." And then, without warning, the two small boys burst into the tears they had been too frightened to shed, and with their hard young arms wound tightly about me, they wept abandonedly in what I knew was reaction from the terror which had been gripping them.

"Boys!" I admonished sharply. "You mustn't let Aunt Harriet see you cry like this!" And as their sobs subsided into convulsive whimperings, I turned them about and made my way as well as I could, hampered by their clinging arms, to the door of Dicky's room.

"You must go in now, Junior," I said steadily, "and wait until one of us comes to you."

With a little thrill I heard my small son's voice, steady now, in reply:

"You don't need to worry any more about us, Mums. We're not going to cry any more. It was only because we were so glad about Ruby Pearl—that she wasn't hurt—Oh! There I go again, calling her that!"

BOYS CONFUSED

"But you said we could call her that when we're just alone with you, didn't you, Auntie Madge?" Roderick struck in. He had been bobbing his head absurdly and saying "Me, too," in reiterated punctuation of Junior's little speech to me.

Even in ordinary circumstances, however, I should have chuckled at the confusion of the boys, for it brought irresistibly to my mind the memory of their insistence that the new baby be called Ruby Pearl or Pearl Ruby, names which had been born in the mind of Jerry, the gangling son of the Ticers, our neighbors and occasional helpers. It had been with difficulty that I had won them over to the cognomen of Faith, and at their entreaty I had made a pact with them, guaranteeing their right to call the baby by their absurd names when they were alone with her, or when I was present, but upon no other occasion.

"Yes; I told you that," I said, "and I know it was only a slip of the tongue when Junior spoke that name before the rest just now. But I must go back to the others now, and you must stay quietly here."

I bent and kissed their upturned faces, and returned their fervent embrace. Then Junior's words followed me down the hall.

"We don't care what happens to us now, as long as Faith's all right," he said.

I echoed that sturdy avowal. But as I neared the others, standing in the hall outside the door of Katherine's sitting room, I scored myself for not being able to shake off a lingering unreasonable fear for my baby daughter.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Melancholia No Longer Considered As Incurable

Within recent months I have received numerous requests for information about an ailment known as melancholia. This is a mental condition sometimes following a case of severe nervous strain. Sometimes it is traced to family difficulties, financial worries or emotional disturbances.

Dr. Copeland

At one time melancholia was a dreaded affliction because it was believed to be incurable. Victims of this disorder were doomed to prolonged illness. I am glad to say this is no longer recognized as inevitable. Melancholia is a mental disturbance that quickly responds to treatment if recognized in its early stages.

Unfortunately, the early signs of melancholia are often overlooked. The sufferer is not given the necessary treatment so essential to complete recovery. It is indeed a grave mistake to neglect the symptoms of this disturbance. For this reason, and because of the numerous requests I have received concerning it, I think it important that everyone be familiar with its early signs.

At first the sufferer from melancholia complains of headache, restlessness and feeling of utter helplessness. There is loss of appetite, as well as disturbed digestion and a progressive loss of weight. The victim is sad, loses all interest in life and is unable to find pleasure in anything. He has a tremendous fear of impending disaster.

Usually there is complete recovery from this phase of melancholia. But the attacks recur at periodic intervals unless proper medical attention is given. When neglected, the attacks become more frequent and more difficult to overcome.

The sufferer should be encouraged to rest as much as possible. Every effort should be made to improve the general health. The diet should be simple, tempting and health-building. It should contain a variety of foods that are easy to digest, yet rich in nourishing elements. Avoid fried and greasy foods, salts, peppers, spices and other condiments. Drink at least six to eight glasses of water daily.

Bear in mind that infections, intestinal disturbances, worry and severe emotional strain are frequent forerunners of melancholia. Guard the victim from these pitfalls.

Remarkable results have come from getting rid of intestinal fermentation and infection. Every center of pus formation must be given attention. It is really amazing what relief has followed this simple treatment.

Do not consider melancholia as a stigma or disgrace. It is an ailment that requires expert medical attention just as do other diseases of the human body. It is only neglect that is dangerous. Prompt attention means quick recovery.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Winners Keepers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Several of us ladies had a discussion the other day and one of the ladies said that when we go to a bridal shower, if one wins a prize, that person should not present it to the bride, but keep it herself. The rest of us think that the prize should be presented to the bride. Kindly tell us which is correct. M.

The custom about this varies in various parts of the country. But it has always seemed to me that it is reasonable and sensible for the winner of the prize to keep the prize. Why shouldn't she? And I should think too that the guest of honor would prefer to have the winner of the prize keep the prize.

Announcing the Secret Marriage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A couple who are planning a secret marriage wish to know when to send out the wedding announcements. Should they be sent before the marriage is announced in the newspapers, or several days after the wedding? CONSTANT READER.

The sooner these marriage announcements are sent out the better. And if they could be sent out before the announcement is made in the papers, this will be especially good. Of course it takes some time to have these announcements engraved, and on the announcements must appear the date of the marriage and the place in which it was performed.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

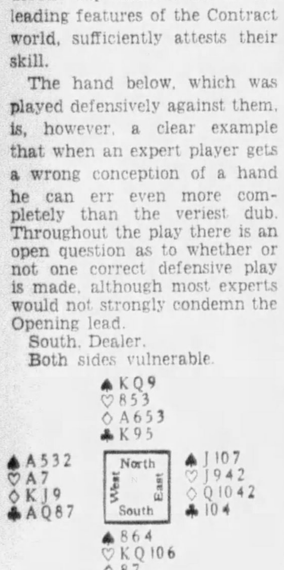
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Expert Misplay

I would not for an instant consider writing a word that would detract from the well-earned victory of Messrs. Francis Rendon, Benjamin Feuer, Sidney Rusinow and Phil Abramsohn. The fact that they were victors in the classic Vanderbilt cup contest, one of the leading features of the Contract world, sufficiently attests their skill.

The hand below, which was played defensively against them, is, however, a clear example that when an expert player gets a wrong conception of a hand he can err even more completely than the veriest dub. Throughout the play there is an open question as to whether or not one correct defensive play is made, although most experts would not strongly condemn the Opening lead.

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	3 N T (2)	Pass	Pass
Pass

1—East's Raise of the vulnerable one notrump to two notrump is slightly optimistic. While an Opening notrump bid vulnerable does show a strong hand, a Queen, two Knaves and three tens is not very much upon which to base a Raise.

2—After the Raise to two notrump West's bid of three notrump comes as a matter of course.

North, the Opening leader, has a choice of two possible leads—the heart eight, which in my judgment is the better of the two, or the diamond three. After full consideration, the North player, defending the hand against the coming champions, decided to lead his fourth best diamond, basing this lead upon the consideration that throughout the match of 100 boards, which was then nearing its close, his opponents had never opened with the bid of one notrump when holding a biddable or even shaded minor suit Opening. He thus decided that West, the Declarer, did not have a diamond suit, and that possibly, with his wealth of reentries, the setting trick might be established in that suit.

West won the Opening lead with the Knave and at once returned the King. North refused to cover but the nine was lost, which North now won. Again he was faced with the problem of choosing a lead to defeat the contract. His next choice was the nine of clubs. This was covered by the Ten. South played the Knave and the Declarer won with the Queen. West now continued the development of the hand by the lead of a small spade, and North, in order to prevent the cashing of the last diamond, won with the Queen. Still under the influence of his first misconception, he now led the club King, establishing the entire club suit for the Declarer. West then cashed the two remaining clubs and continued with a small spade, which North won with the King. The Declarer thus made four notrump on a hand which, by proper defense, can be held to a penalty of three tricks.

North's hand, against the bidding, is actually a very fine one for the use of a waiting lead. The effect of the opening of the heart eight is, of course, obvious. This play must result in West's cashing a maximum of 6 tricks, and thus being defeated three. Even the Opening lead of a diamond would not have been harmful if it had been followed, when North cashed the Ace with a shift to hearts, as the Declarer's Ace would have been driven out on the second lead of the suit, and North, with entries in both spades and clubs, would have been in a position to see that South cashed his winning heart tricks. This defense would permit North and South to win three heart tricks, two spades, one diamond and a club. As a matter of fact, the hand, which was played in a team-of-four match, was played at the other table at a contract of two notrump, which was defeated 3 tricks by the Opening lead of a heart.

TODAY'S QUESTION

South is playing the hand at notrump. West's Opening lead is a small club. Which card should South play from Dummy?

Answer—The Knave. This gives the best chance of stopping the suit twice.

MOURNS SON, THRILL VICTIM ON SPEEDWAY

Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—Tears streaming down her cheeks at memory of her son killed while driving a racing car, a broken-hearted mother today made a dramatic appeal for public support of the movement against what amounts to "licensed murder and suicide" on automobile race tracks.

She is Mrs. Anna C. May, whose son, Walter May, of Los Angeles, was crushed to death when his car crashed while he was tuning it up for a race on the track at San Jose in June, 1931. At her home in Hermosa Beach, Mrs. May said:

"I thank God that something is being done at last to end this useless slaughter. I feel that my boy went to his death needlessly so that a crowd might get a thrill.

"I can remember when Walter was a little boy a friend came to the house and said, 'I'm going to the auto races and I'm in a hurry because if somebody gets killed I don't want to miss it.' Little did I think then that my Walter would some day lie dead on a racetrack, victim of that same crowd lust for thrills.

"When Walter grew up and took to driving I begged him to give it up. I tried to show him how useless it was. But he was determined and left home, I believe, so that I would not be continually after him.

"Then, a month or so before he was killed, he came home one day and said, 'Mother, I have something to tell you. I'm going to give up racing this fall.' I remember I said to him, 'Walter, do you think you'll last that long?'"

"I never received a cent as the result of Walter's death. And I learned later that he was driving a defective car. I plead for the people and civic organizations to join this movement to end the carnival of death on automobile racetracks."

INDICT MDIVANI PRINCES

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Fourteen grand theft charges today faced David and Serge Mdivani, Georgian princes and former husbands respectively of Mae Murray, film actress, and Mary McCormic, opera singer.

The pair was indicted yesterday afternoon by the county grand jury which charged them with the theft of funds from the Pacific Shore Oil Company, which they formerly headed.

Specifically, the indictment charges the princes with having stolen $37,074.53 from the oil company between February 13, 1931, and June of this year.

Among the complainants were Robert Vignola, motion picture director, and Pat O'Malley, screen actor.

Bail for each of the Mdivanis was set at $10,000 and their attorney, Edna Covert Plummer, said she would surrender her clients today.

CLAIRE UPHELD AS 'CAPABLE'

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—A Muncipal Court Judge has ruled that Claire Windsor, actress, possesses great dramatic ability and is not capable "only of appearing in silent films."

The ruling was made yesterday by Judge Irvin Taplin, who decided that Miss Windsor's booking agent, Edward Silton, was not liable for $1,290 asked by Richard Alter, stage player producer.

Alter alleged he signed Miss Windsor to play the leading role in a stage production and charged he was a victim of "deceit and fraud," claiming Miss Windsor was suitable only for silent pictures.

CBS Reviews Past Year's Programs

By AIRCASTER

In selecting its souvenirs of 1933, the Columbia Broadcasting System sets aside a half-dozen programs considered as pioneering progress—frameworks upon which the 1934 programs will be built.

It is to be noted with cheer and optimism that these six show pieces are characterized by a double motif—the shortening or entire elimination of ponderous announcements, and the tempering of sales talk.

The March of Time is the particular pride and joy of CBS, because, though more than a year old, it represents in its current form the pithiest type of broadcast, and is unique for the reason that its own sponsor never knows in advance what will transpire during its transmission.

PET BYRD

Next in the affection of the system is the Byrd expedition, because it not only represents the first expedition on which the stay-at-homes are figuratively taken along, but because it is a major technical achievement—the first short-wave job attempted on a regular schedule.

The sincerity, the amusement, the melodic values of the Elder Michaux evangelical series combine to make it unique, and since it is the only one of its kind, it is held in high regard by the CBS judges.

HOME MADE

The house-built programs of Freddie Rich, Andre Kostalentz and Mark Warnow, which eliminate announcements completely, are fourth in the estimation of Columbia officials, with Fred Waring's music and unobtrusive commercial announcements next in line.

The system is likewise proud of the 15-minute symphonic broadcasts by Stokowski; the original and very human "man in the street" novelties, and the new dramatic technique which eliminates musical interludes and substitutes sound effects for transition purposes.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Well I've found one man who believes with me that although it might be correct to eat fried chicken with a knife and fork, at times the fingers come in mighty handy. He is J. O. (Cousin Jack) Mahony of the City-County Building. He says once he was at a Father Cox "blowout" and they served fried chicken. The young lady who sat across from him struggled with the fowl for a half hour while it leaped from the plate to the table and back again. Her only weapons were a knift and fork. Finally she surrendered and sent the plate back to the kitchen.

When he suggested to her that she pick up a drumstick in her fingers she rewarded him with an icy, disdainful glance.

The mother whose baby's picture was lost writes today that it will be returned. The man who collected the picture from her saw the notice in the column. In her buoyant letter she thanks the man from the bottom of her heart.

Mrs. A. F. L., McKeesport—Get in touch with John H. Harris.

"Chuck" Lipsman and the rest of the Sun-Telegraph carrier boys did not forget the "Old Globey" on their recent trip to Niagara Falls. Today a flock of Canadian-postmarked cards came through.

A. C., at present languishing behind the bars at Bellfonte, tells of a song that he has written. Its title is "You Let Your Love Go Cold." Its last lines might be the cry of his own injured heart:

"Dear, you wouldn't mean the things you say, if you knew how much I've had to pay."

Pinchot May Now Uphold Dr. Kerr's Desire for His Own Counsel

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 13.—Dr. James P. Kerr, who upon occasion in the last four years did not appreciate the advice he received from the city law department, is attempting to fortify himself against having to undergo, for the remainder of his term, the guidance of attorneys furnished him by the incoming Democratic administration.

Mr. Shields

A bill introduced by Senator-County Commissioner William D. Mansfield permits the Controller to name his own counsel, and not, on legal questions, to accept the advice of an attorney provided by the administration. A similar bill was passed in the last regular session, but was vetoed by Gov. Pinchot.

Dr. Kerr at that time viewed his position as one of checking the city administration, which is the real function of a Controller. Whether the Mayor and Controller are of the same political faith or not, it is important that the latter shall function independently and as an overseer of the acts of other city officials.

This theory is indicated in the manner in which the two officials are elected, the Mayor and controller being chosen in different years.

It perhaps is more important that the controller should have his own legal advice when the two offices are occupied by opposing political faiths. Dr. Kerr and those associated with him feel that it is needful at this time that he should have his own attorney, which is the reason for the present bill. It is predicted that should it pass this session of the Legislature the Governor will sign it.

Pinchot Pushes Utilities To Fore as Issue

Public utilities apparently are foredoomed to be an issue of the next statewide campaign, with Gov. Pinchot again manufacturing the ammunition.

His letter yesterday to Republican State Chairman Edward Martin, demanding the confirmation of his five nominees to the commission, makes that certain if the Senate does not bow to the Pinchot will, as it probably will not in this special session.

Parenthetically, the Governor's observation that Gen. Martin, in preventing confirmation, is "the best help the Democrats have in their fight to control the state," is indorsed by some Republican legislators who are so placed that they lack either the courage or the initiative to revolt.

There are any number of members of the House who would like to see the Republican organization blockade against social legislation and related measures lifted.

But they don't know how to go about it without affronting what are laughingly called the leaders. Consequently they sit quietly in their seats, grouch and curse when they reach their hotel rooms, and see themselves doomed to defeat in either the primary of general election of next year.

Discipline Balks Desire to Revolt

They could, if they wished, take the play away from the leaders at any time, but through their years of regimentation and discipline they have lost the faculty of acting for themselves. Rather than antagonize the organization, a number of them will go down to the defeat which they see as inevitable.

These sacrifices will not be in the House or Senate next year. But the leaders will retain control of the party machinery and will ride back to power when and if the pendulum swings away from the Democrats.

Incidentally the Democrats see Mr. Pinchot as a menace as great to their aims as he is to the regular Republicans. This is the explanation of the frequent pronouncements of that eminent statesman. Warren Van Dyke, chairman of the Democratic State Committee.

It is an idle Sunday night which does not see an utterance by Mr. Van Dyke aimed at the Governor. two weeks ago he asked Mr. Pinchot to broaden the special session call to permit the impeachment of judges. When the governor replied that the way was open for impeachment at any time, which any parliamentarian should have known, Mr. Van Dyke was taken somewhat aback.

But not for long. Last night he put forth another statement intimating that the governor was a bit insincere in his original attack upon Justices John W. Kephart and W. I. Schaffer of the Supreme Court, and Thomas J. Baldridge of the Superior Court, because their names appeared on a Morgan preferred list.

Sniping Shows Both Factions Fear Pinchot

Mr. Van Dyke complained that the Governor was not still on the hunt for the scalps of these gentlemen. This was a cover-up. What disturbed Mr. Van Dyke was that the Democrats, through Representative John J. Kane, put in an impeachment resolution Monday night which was shy on legalistic necessities.

Mr. Van Dyke and his pals wanted to make a showing and were caught on a showdown which did not increase the pleasure of Mr. Kane who, through no fault of his own, was made to look somewhat ridiculous.

This constant sniping at Mr. Pinchot demonstrates these two facts:

WOMAN SLAYER PLEADS SELF DEFENSE

Mrs. Rohrberg Says Husband Was Insane

Concluding testimony was given by neighbors and friends today in the murder trial of Mrs. Joan Rohrberg, 42, charged with the fatal shooting of her husband, Joseph Rohrberg, 48, at their home, 72 Transvaal avenue, Ross Township, last October 7.

Neighbors testified before Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff that Rohrberg was subject to epileptic fits, while physicians had stated on the witness stand that his condition was akin to a form of insanity.

The jury probably will retire late this afternoon.

Mrs. Rohrberg, in her testimony, said she discovered after her marriage to Rohrberg in a small town in Germany, that there was insanity in his family and that both he and his father had been in asylums.

The woman then told of Rohrberg threatening to kill her many times, and finally how she discovered a revolver beside him in his bed. He had just told her again that he was going to kill her. She said:

"When I saw the gun I knew it was his life or mine. I grabbed the revolver, backed away from the bed and pulled the trigger."

Judge Graff asked her why, when she had the gun and was almoost at the door, she had not left the room. She replied:

"I just lost control of myself and fired."

Rohrberg's head was turned from her, the bullet entering at the back. It was apparent he did not see her fire, and, on cross-examination by Assistant District Attorney M. Barney Cohen, she said Rohrberg did not know she had taken the revolver.

The woman's daughters, Mrs. Eleanor Smith and Mrs. Rose Schlart, testified that their father often had "spells" and "fits" and that he beat them frequently, even after they had grown up.

Attorney Thomas M. Marshall, Jr., the woman's counsel, maintained in his address to the jury that she shot her husband in self-defense, when in peril of her own life.

Chicago Theologian Speaker at Y. M. C. A.

Dr. John Timothy Stone, of Chicago will speak at the annual pre-Christmas dinner for resident members of the Downtown Y. M. C. A. tomorrow night. Dr. Stone is president and trustee of the McCormick Theological Seminary.

MRS. BEATRICE MORGAN

WOMAN'S HEART ON RIGHT SIDE

Physicians may term it a lateral transposition, but Mrs. Beatrice Morgan, of 1930 Edgebrook avenue, Brookline, will have you know that she's just as healthy as any other person.

The fact that Mrs. Morgan's heart is on the right side, the appendix on the left and her stomach just opposite to its normal position, doesn't mean a thing. She does the normal hard work of washing and keeping house for her husband and three children without the slightest trace that there's a transposition.

In fact, it was not until the birth of her third child, Mary Martha, now 10, that she learned of nature's prank. Physicians then discovered that the heart was opposite its rightful position but it was not until some time later in another hospital that the stomach and appendix were found to be reversed.

BOYS SAVE MAN FROM FUMES

Three unnamed Wilkinsburg schoolboys saved the life of Dominic Colombo, 55-year-old shoemaker, of 717 Ardmore boulevard, Wilkinsburg, when they dragged him, unconscious, from his shop last night, according to Fire Chief William Thomson.

Colombo had slumped to the floor after being overcome by carbon monoxide fumes, Thomson reported.

Seeing Colombo on the floor, the boys broke in the locked door and dragged him outside. They summoned the inhalator crew of the fire department. The man was revived after an hour's work, according to Thomson, and is suffering no ill effects today.

SPRING RENTS AT TODAY'S LEVEL SEEN

Home Charges to Stay Unchanged, Belief of Real Estate Men

Rents next spring will probably be about the same as the present rates, according to opinion expressed at a meeting of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board.

Most real estate men attending a meeting of the board yesterday at the Keystone Athletic Club believe "better times are coming." There are indications that brokers will not be "hurrying" tenants next spring, hoping that the turn in business will develop before May 1, when nearly all new leases take effect.

A number of brokers reported that apartment buildings are filling, and increases were suggested on more desirable properties. The general opinion, however, was that as long as there is so much vacant property on the market present rent rates will sustain.

GROUNDS GIVEN FOR CENTER

Permanent organization of the Woodpark Community League, comprised of residents of Shaler Township, has been announced by E. W. Scarborough, president.

Activities include weekly undenominational prayer meetings, welfare work and social events. Through the will of the late Mary Detwiler, of Shaler Township, a wooded plot of ground has been set aside for erection of a community center.

MISSING BOYS SOUGHT

Two 20-year-old Pittsburgh youths, said to have left home in an automobile, were being sought today by the Missing Persons Bureau.

They are Louis Alfred Longo, of 1426 Breining street, and Willam Prus, kho lives on the same street, the bureau reported. Longo was described as being tall, slenderly built, with brown eyes and hair, and having a moustache. When last seen he was wearing a black leather coat, light cap and hip boots.

Prus was wearing a tan forest army coat and cap. The youths are believed to be on their way to Milwaukee or California. Longo's mother, shocked by her son's leaving, was reported as being ill.

Mary's Movie Career Launched At Studio of Famed Old Biograph

Child Actress Soon Won Approval of D. W. Griffith

Herewith the Sun-Telegraph presents another chapter of Mary Pickford's dramatic life story. Earlier chapters have told of the present situation, with Miss Pickford acknowledging, by filing a divorce suit, the wreck of her romance with Douglas Fairbanks, and of the childhood of the actress. Daughter of an actress, the little girl, realizing that her mother needed help in supporting her family, early determined upon a stage career and succeeded in gaining an audience with David Belasco, who gave her her first Broadway role.

By MARJORIE DRISCOLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 13.—Barely in her teens, Mary Pickford was at the point which many actresses strive all their lives to reach and never attain—but she wasn't satisfied.

She was playing on Broadway, under David Belasco's management; a place that she had won by her own determination.

She had bearded the lion of the theater in his den and had conquered; she had been given a contract for a featured role and had played it successfully.

But over in Brooklyn, the movies were coming into their lusty childhood, and Mary was interested. Furthermore, the theater, as she knew from experience, was more or less uncertain, with the probability of long periods of idleness, and Mary wanted work that brought in a salary check every week. Already, she was fulfilling her baby wish to help her mother, and she wanted to do more.

GOES TO BIOGRAPH

So one day, when she was 15 years old, Mary Pickford put on her best clothes and hunted up the famous old Biograph studio.

The studios of those days were far from the magnificent places of today. They huddled in lofts, camped out on vacant lots, pitched their tents wherever they could find a foothold.

Also, it was far easier than it is now to see someone in authority. Studios had not yet acquired protecting front-lines of information clerks, press representatives, secretaries and doormen.

Mary went to the Biograph studio and asked to see the mana-

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 13.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

The best writer on the Pacific Coast, Harry Carr, making a world tour and seeing all of the governments in action, says England is over the jump first, and going great.

Now that's the country that was held up to us as a horrible example, because they were giving aid to unemployed. We adopted it two years later than we should.

Will Rogers.

England lowered the price of their money just about to which ours is and it must have helped them. Pretty smart "hombres," those Englishmen.

Yours, WILL.

Our Dollar Goes Shadow Boxing In Foreign Parts

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

What's happening to the dollar we sent abroad for its health?

Like the cross-eyed hog it sees the acorn, but can't locate it.

It picked up some crumbs in London this week. In Paris it is shadow-boxing like the ghost of Kelly's cat.

The drop in exchange has caused the American colony in Paris to move to Shanghai. Where it is probably just as American as it ever was.

Europe could save almost forty per cent now by paying off its war debts in our depreciated currency.

But Europe is too honest to do that.

Europe has the necessary buttons. But it intends to sew them on its own overcoats.

COUNT TO GIVE SCHOOLS DATA FOR FUTURE

College Graduates Get CWA 'White Collar' Relief Jobs

A corps of men and women Friday morning, will begin a census of children of the city.

They will visit every home and count children one day old to six years.

As a result, the Board of Education will know how many pupils to expect next year and each succeeding year for six years. The project is being sponsored by the CWA, and the census takers, working under the direction of Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of schools, are to be college graduates or persons with equivalent education. It is one of the "white collar" projects of the Federal government. The pay rate is 55 cents an hour.

One of the results expected to be obtained from the census, besides the actual figures which will allow the School Board to prepare in advance for the annual enrollment, will be to show the possible shift of school population. It will also be a check on the reported declining birth rate.

Besides the census, the workers will check the vocation and condition of high school graduates in an effort to find out what such students do after they finish school.

Dr. Graham expects to extend, as well, the educational emergency relief, getting 50 more teachers by January 15 in the event conditions warrant.

At present, nearly 100 teachers are conducting classes for the unemployed in many sections of the city and county. Of these, 52 are teaching in the city at various community and educational centers.

Members of the Civil Civilian Corps from North Park are attending business and vocational classes one night a week, trucks transporting them from the camp to the Washington and Arsenal schools. It is planned to bring the South Park woodsmen to Connelley Trade and Fifth Avenue High schools.

FIND 'ILL' MAN TRIED SUICIDE

When the police found a shapeless, semi-conscious figure outside a building in Aspinwall, they rushed him to Pittsburgh Hospital.

Examination in the hospital revealed that he still had around his neck the rope with which he apparently had tried to hang himself. His clothes had concealed the rope from the police.

Attached to the fire escape of the building formerly used by the Railroad Y. M. C. A. in River avenue was the rest of the rope, police found on a second visit, a pedestrian had seen the man's body.

The patient, in good condition today, was identified as Leonard Groscki, 56. In a pocket was this note:

OPERATOR 13

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Gail Tries to Get Secrets From Gay Young Man

(Republished from Cosmopolitan Magazine and soon to appear on the screen as a Cosmopolitan production made for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and starring Marion Davies.)

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

During April and May and early June, Operator 13 had been a busy young woman. She found no trace of John Gailliard or of anybody named in Col. Sharpe's telegrams.

Sometimes she sallied forth as a fashionable young lady, to mingle with other fashionables in shops, theaters, restaurants. Her role was to observe and to keep her small, close-set ears open.

Sometimes, dressed as a respectable shopgirl, she haunted the avenues of the east and west sides, mingling with others like herself at the luncheon hour; on Saturdays and Sundays, frequenting the cheaper theaters, summer gardens and suburban picnic resorts.

Also, more than once, painted, piquant and flamboyant, she loitered in the gas light along Broadway between Grand and Fourteenth streets, with saucy young face unabashed. Curiously enough, it was on one of the occasions when she was painted, equipped and accoutered as a wanton dryad of the metropolitan purlieus that Operator 13 chanced upon her first valuable information.

A young Virginian named Clive Andrews picked her up. He had been watching "The Revels" at Niblo's, and had been drinking too many brandy toddies. His companion had vainly attempted to silence him in the theater. Now, outside during the intermission, he was becoming noisy again.

Operator 13, loitering in the lobby, caught the purport of their wrangling, and heard the young fellow making free with the name of Claire Quilter. About that time he noticed Operator 13. She returned his killing ogle with a demure glance and walked on; and the boy started to follow her.

Twice he tried to speak to her, but she tossed her head and would have none of him; and he tagged along at her French heels, evidently badly smitten. To the very verge of the ghastly glare from the Drummond light on the American Museum she led him.

Considering him sufficiently inflamed by this time, and rather afraid he might give up in discouragement, the girl gave him a swift, incendiary glance, which rekindled him into active combustion. Newsboys were shouting: "Turrible cavalry battle at Brandy Station! Great Union victory!"

When the girl paused and bought a paper, the Virginian was at her elbow. She said to the newsboy: "I hope it's another Confederate victory and I don't care who hears me say so!" And she was not severe with Andrews when he paid for her newspaper.

They walked on together, she trying to read the news by gaslight. But there was no fresh news, merely a rehash of morning dispatches regarding the terrific cavalry battle at the fords of that fatal river where 10,000 horsemen fought with sabers hilt to hilt.

"I don't believe it was a Yankee victory," said the girl, nose in the air, and she cast the paper into the gutter.

The boy wanted her to have oysters and champagne with him at the St. Nicholas, but she snubbed him.

ALUMINUM CO. RESTS CASE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The Aluminum Company of America, defendant in a $9,000,000 damage suit brought by the Baush Machine Tool Company, of Chicopee and Springfield Mass., rested its case yesterday in United States District Court.

George W. Daniels, vice president of the Baush company, took the stand as a rebuttal witness in the presentation of testimony that has taken more than two months.

He offered figures concerning the production of duraluminum sheets from the crude ingots in rebuttal of figures of production offered earlier by the defense.

The Baush company seeks $3,000,000 damages and a $6,000,000 punitive judgment, on the grounds that the Aluminum company maintains a monopoly in the industry and suppresses independent producers in violation of the Sherman anti-trust laws.

Counsel for both sides were ready to present their arguments. Judge Carroll C. Hincks was expected to charge the jury Thursday.

New Ford V-8 for 1934

Greater power at still lower cost through new Dual Carburetion—Increased motoring comfort because of simplified Clear-vision Ventilation—Easier riding through more flexible springs, deeper seat cushions and softer cushion springs—Distinctive new appearance—Many other features

1 More Miles Per Gallon—More Power, Speed and Efficiency with Dual Carburetion—Greater Oil Economy

The performance and economy of the 1933 Ford V-8 have been the talk of thousands of motorists. Owners said: "Leave it alone, don't change it." Dealers said: "Impossible to improve it!" But we have improved it—in every direction. We started with the engine. The Ford V-8 for 1934 is more powerful, more efficient, easier to start in cold weather, yet it is the most economical Ford to operate ever built—largely because of the new Dual Carburetor and Dual Intake Manifold. Furthermore, even in the coldest weather the V-8 engine warms up quickly and maintains an efficient operating temperature because of new thermostats in the waterline.

Added engine refinements—get the details about all of them from the nearest Ford dealer—reduce oil consumption and further reduce operating and maintenance costs.

2 Clear-vision Ventilation—and the Windshield Opens

There's nothing to obstruct the view in the new Ford system of Clear-vision Ventilation. It's built-in—simplicity itself. The same handle that raises the window glass also slides it back horizontally to the ventilating position, and then the forward motion of the car draws the air out of the body. Drafts are eliminated, passenger comfort is assured, and windshield will not fog in cold weather. Another interesting feature of the Ford system—the windshield can be opened! This, and the cowl ventilator, provide the additional air needed for hot-weather comfort.

Put It to the Test

Ride in this New Ford V-8 for 1934 and find out—personally—what it can do. It is the one sure way to find out which car gives you the most for your money.

3 Greater Beauty—New Radiator Shell and Grille—Fenders in Color

A car to be proud of, the Ford V-8 for 1934 has newly designed chromium-plated radiator shell and grille, and other distinctive features. Interiors are more attractive, with new tufted upholstery, new mouldings, new cove-type headlining, new instrument panel, new arm rests and new hardware. Swivel-type sun visors in De Luxe bodies prevent glare from front or side.

Fenders on all De Luxe cars are in color to harmonize with body colors—wheel colors optional. New enamel finish on all bodies and fenders has greater wearing quality and more enduring luster.

4 Transverse Springs—Comfort with Stability and Safety

Ford transverse springs provide the utmost stability and safety. Placed crosswise, they tend to prevent the body from tilting on uneven roads, and turns can be taken safely at relatively high speeds. Free and easy action of all four wheels is permitted because the outer flexible tips of the springs are attached to the axles. Thus the most sensitive parts of the springs receive road shocks first and absorb them before they reach the body. The advantages of the solid axle are retained.

MARY QUICKLY WINS PLACE IN FILM WORLD

ger. She was ushered into the presence of D. W. Griffith.

Like Belasco, Griffith was amused at the calm determination of the child. With all the aplomb of a seasoned trouper, she assured him that she had reached the mature age of 15 and had been on the stage for 10 years.

This was long before the days when motion picture studios were to be besieged by thousands of would-be actors; years before the era of casting offices, beauty contest winners and all the elaborate machinery of the industry.

The struggling young art was still looked upon with disdain by many stage folk. When a player from the stage came cautiously over to investigate this strange new phenomenon, he or she was very likely to be courted instead of doubted.

AIDED BY LILLIAN GISH

And so Mary had no difficulty getting a hearing. Lillian Gish, already with Biograph, vouched for her, and Griffith said she could take her camera tests at once.

Outwardly serene, but inwardly quaking, Mary took her first steps into the mysteries of the movies and faced the clicking cameras.

The happiest little girl in New York hurried out of that studio a few hours later. She clutched a $10 bill, and she had a job. She was to report for work the next day.

Her first thought was to rush home and tell the glad news. And it was not until she had poured out her story that the horrified expressions on the faces of her family recalled her to the realization that she had come hurrying home through a drivng rain and her best clothes were ruined.

The next day, Mary Pickford went back to the Biograph studios a full-fledged film actress, although she knew next to nothing about the movies. However, that did not worry her. She was only 15 years old, but she was thoroughly experienced in dealing with new situations.

NURSERY OF STARS

The old Biograph studios hold a tender place in the memory of many famous folk of the films. They were literally the nursery of stars. Mary Pickford, Lillian Gish, Mabel Normand, Mack Sennett, James Kirkwood, Blanche Sweet, Mae Marsh, and many others were among the players whose names were later to blaze out in electric lights.

But in those days, names meant little. It had not occurred to producers that audiences cared to know who was who. Furthermore, with few actors and none too much money, it was necessary to cast the available players for whatever roles needed to be filled. Today's hero might be tomorrow's butler, and it was far from unusual for a leading man or woman to be created over night.

Mary had that experience when, three days after she entered the movies, she was playing the leading role in "The Violin Maker of Cremona."

Very soon she was so well established that she could put in a word for other aspiring young actors. One day, a scared, large-eyed little girl came timidly into the studio to visit her sister.

Mary saw her, watching from a coroner of the set, and asked Griffith to give her a chance. The youngster was Mae Marsh, and the next day she was at work.

LOVE SCENES OBSTACLE

But before long, Mary was confronted with a really serious problem. Heretofore she had played child roles, for the most part. Now she was being cast for grown-up characters, in plays that called for love scenes—and she didn't know what to do.

Griffith was rehearsing her one day in a sequence that called for the young actress to embrace her film suitor. And Mary wasn't doing so well. In spite of her years on the stage, she was terribly shy when it came actually to putting her arms around a man and making love to him.

First, Griffith rehearsed her with a post in the role of the man. Over and over again, she clasped the unresponsive wood. Then a prop man named Dobson wandered by and was pressed into service. But he was merely a prop man, not an actor, and he could not "play up."

Casting about for someone else, Griffith caught sight of a young actor, one of the Biograph "family," strolling past, and called him over.

It was a most embarrassing moment for Mary. She knew that it was all in the business of stage and screen, but still. . .

She took the plunge. While Griffith watched and corrected every move, she blushingly approached the handsome young player.

FATE PLAYS TRICK

As she herself had told it, it was probably one of the screen's most timid love scenes.

Her principal recollection of it is that her nose was pressed tight against the young actor's coat lapel in an extremely uncomfortable fashion, and that her voice sounded strangely muffled as she murmured:

"I love you."

But Griffith was satisfied. He could see plenty of room for improvement, but so far it was all right. His new actress, he felt sure, would eventually be able to play love passages in a manner to please the film fans.

Somewhere, the gods of mischief and malice were laughing to themselves at the trick they had played.

For, of all the actors in the Biograph studio, the man whom chance brought by at the moment when Griffith needed someone to coach Mary Pickford in playing love scenes, was the man who, a few years later, was to come into Mary's life, bringing brief happiness and long sorrow.

(Tomorrow's installment will describe Mary's romance with Owen Moore and the forming of her own company. Don't miss it.)

WEDS 4 TIMES SEEKING IDEAL

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13. — Bror Peterson, 44, who married four times in his search for an ideal wife, was in jail today on bigamy charges.

He had been shopping around, Peterson told police, for a really pretty wife to take back to Sweden, where his late mother's huge estate was awaiting him. He had to have a wife, according to terms of the will, Peterson explained.

The alliances went undisclosed until police arrested Bror for celebrating the weddings at night club parties and forgetting to pay the bill. All the brides were young, between 22 and 25 years old.

To each on her wedding day Bror had given $500—on a promissory note.

Heart Attack Fatal To Man Placing Coal

Stricken with a heart attack while shoveling coal into the basement of a Beechwood boulevard residence last night, Joseph Chmela, 54, also known as Joseph Miller, who lived in a shanty off Forward avenue, died a short time later, the Coroner's office reported.

He had been doing odd jobs in Squirrel Hill several years, deputy coroners said. The body was taken to the morgue.

Engine Axle Breaks, Four Cars Derailed

Four B. & O. Railroad freight cars were derailed when an axle on a shifting engine broke at Laughlin Junction, Hazelwood, last night. The axle tore up an interlocking switch which resulted in the derailment of the cars. No one was injured.

NOVELIST'S SON SLAIN BY POLICE

GLEN ROCK, N. J., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Robert Applegate, 19-year-old son of Joseph H. Applegate, novelist and New York newspaperman, was shot and killed by a policeman last night after a three-mile chase of a car which young Applegate was driving.

Police said the automobile had been reported stolen and the usual police alarm was broadcast. About an hour later in Fair Lawn, Patrolmen Emil De Wilde and John Postna, in a police car, sighted an auto bearing the license of the stolen coupe and gave chase. The police car forced the coupe off the road.

The driver of the coupe leaped out and Officer De Wilde later told superior officers that the youth made a motion toward his hip pocket as if he might draw a gun. De Wilde fired, aiming, he said, at the youth's feet. The bullet pierced young Applegate's heart.

CITY GETS LOAN TO SPEED CWA RELIEF WORK

Delay on Civil Works Administration projects in Pittsburgh was thwarted today through a loan of $200,000 to the city from the Pennsylvania CWA. Eric H. Biddle, state head, informed James L. Stuart, county administrator, that the money would be provided to tide over the city until further funds are available through the sale of city bonds.

Although no formal notice of the approval of the loan has been received at CWA headquarters here, Biddle sanctioned it in a telephone conversation this afternoon.

JOBS FOR 8,000 SEEN

Curtailment of CWA activities in Pittsburgh had been threatened by the city's financial condition. Funds now on hand will equip only 4,000 workers. It is expected that the state loan will facilitate the employment of more than twice that number.

Contracts were to be awarded by the city today for tools to put 2,000 men to work. Bids were accepted yesterday from 17 firms on 23 lots of labor equipment. According to an official in the controller's office, orders will not be filled in less than three weeks.

Avoiding the complications of the tool shortage by providing for white collar workers, the county is awaiting state approval of plans that will employ 600 clerks.

Research in determining the cubical contents of buildings for tax purposes will require 400. An additional 200 will do census work in establishing a proper base for personal tax returns.

With two shifts of clerks working in the CWA employment bureau from 8 a. m. until midnight, Harold F. Bucher, director, says that an average of 800 men and women are being assigned to jobs daily. New workers were requested on 28 projects in the county yesterday.

In Ingram 100 men will go to work as soon as projects recently submitted are passed upon in Harrisburg, according to Burgess C. C. Dittmar. He said the borough is ready to start operations on street grading, sewage repairs and tree trimming immediately upon state approval.

Local officials are advising communities considering CWA projects to speed plans to clear them through headquarters by December 15.

Though that date has not been definitely set as the deadline on submitting projects, original plans called for all CWA work to be under way by the end of this week.

PROJECTS APPROVED

An additional 659 men in Allegheny County will be given jobs by the Civil Works Administration, according to a list of projects approved by the board yesterday in Harrisburg.

The county projects approved are:

Reclassify and repair McKeesport Library books, 10 men; repave Stewart street, 14 men; repave Shaw avenue, 20 men; repave Larimer avenue, 24 men, and repair Maple avenue, 35 men, all in Turtle Creek; new storm sewers at Dawes street in Pittsburgh, 72 men; 1,200-foot storm sewer, Hillsboro street, Pittsburgh, 167 men; Albree way sewer, 55 men; Highnote way sewer, 51 men; sewer on Spahgrove street, 107 men; two sewer projects, one on Termon avenue, 64 men, all in Pittsburgh; grade Cochran road, Volta way tennis court No. 4, Mt. Lebanon Township, 40 men.

ARTIST RELIEF APPROVED

Orders to "go ahead" with projects to employ artists of the district were received from Washington today by Homer Saint-Gaudens, director of the fine arts department of Carnegie Institute.

And Saint-Gaudens announced another meeting of his committee tomorrow afternoon in the Institute, to plan specific projects.

At a meeting yesterday, the artist committeemen agreed that some school and public building decorations could be started, but not immediately.

Plans and decorations of current projects for permanent records could be made with the least amount of preliminary work, they felt.

The projects, under the CWA, are planned for those of the craft who have suffered through the depression.

MISS PERKINS ASKS STATE AID

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Secretary Frances Perkins, Department of Labor, today called on the states for aid in solving labor and industrial problems, saying:

"The stimulus to general industry from a large, useful and necessary building program is perhaps the single thing most vital to recovery today.

"The objective will be cooperation between the states and the department in labor and industry matters.

"States have problems in common just as have other groups over the country. We are to try to devise solutions in a practical way."

RYAN'S STRIKE BRINGS OUT 100

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 13.—Marty Ryan's strike at the H. C. Frick Coke Company's Colonial No. 4 mine at Grindstone continued in its second day quetly.

Possibly 100 members of the United Mine Workers followed the insurgent union leader out when the opposing union, Independent Miners' Brotherhood, refused to allow Ryan to work after they had voted to eliminate his check-weighman's job.

Ryan threatened to take his case to the National Labor Board.

At a meeting, his followers decided on a petition asking that he be paroled in his recent conviction on an assault charge. He was accused of beating an election worker.

Ryan said if he has to go to jail, he'll call out the men for every day spent behind the bars.

INDUSTRY ASKS SALES TAX

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The National Association of Manufacturers, representing 70,000 industrialists, will seek a general manufacturers' sales tax in the coming session of Congress, according to James A. Emery, general counsel. He added:

"The government is being driven steadily toward a gross sales tax as it gradually exhausts by experiment other forms of revenue raising. We will urge a tax at one point only so there will be no double and triple taxation through marketing turnover."

Emery said income tax could not be expected to balance the national budget, adding:

"Increasing the rate will not increase the income. It will discourage investment and eventually decrease federal income."

Emery said Treasury Department figures showed that only 34 per cent of the nation's corporations earned a profit in 1931. He added:

"Their net corporate income was nearly $3,500,000,000, but the loss for the 66 per cent which made no profit was $6,000,000,000."

LABOR ASSAILS FORD'S STAND

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The American Federation of Labor has formally charged Henry Ford has violated the automobile code because of his company's alleged failure to "bargain collectively" with its strikers at Chester, Pa., and Edgewater, N. J., assembly plants, Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson said yesterday. Johnson said:

"I told them to prepare a report on the evidence they claim to have and I expect them to submit it in the near future."

The National Labor Board of the NRA last week announced it was prepared in the near future to see that all employers, including Ford, really bargain collectively with employes out on strike or engaged in organized efforts to improve their working conditions.

NRA TIGHTENS ON CLEANERS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Threat of federal prosecution was held over violators of the cleaning and dyeing code today as the NRA administration took a definite stand with regard to noncompliance with price-fixing provisions of the agreement.

Deputy Administrator H. B. Ludlum ended a heated two-day hearing with a warning that the code, although it may be revised, will be enforced strictly. He said:

"You have had an opportunity to air your grievances here. All noncompliance cases will be turned over to the proper authorities."

CWA PROGRAM TO CONTINUE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt will continue the Civil Works Administration until next spring, but in his study of the budget he has not reached a decision on the extent of public works to be proposed for next year.

The President was informed today by Harry L. Hopkins, Civil Works Administrator, that 4,000,000 men would be on the CWA payroll by Saturday.

Funds are available to carry on this program only until February 15 and Mr. Roosevelt has decided to ask for an additional $350,000,000 to permit a tapering off of this work between March 1 and May 1, when it will be ended.

In continuing today his preparation of the budget for the new year, Mr. Roosevelt did not reach the public works item. It was said in all probability no decision would be reached on this point for a couple of weeks and possibly not until well along in the next session of Congress when it can be determined more definitely how much money is needed.

Cunard, White Star Merger Due Soon

LONDON, Dec. 13.—(INS.)—Merger of the Cunard and White Star lines will be accomplished shortly, Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain announced in House of Commons today.

The government, he said, will finance completion of the giant Cunarder now known as "No. 534," which is to be the world's largest ship.

SLIDE KILLS 9 CWA WORKERS

GRAND JUNCTION, Col., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Nine men, members of a crew working the second day on a federal civil works project, died yesterday in a rock slide.

There were reports two more were swept 300 feet down the face of a cliff in the Colorado national monument, northwest of here, and a search was resumed today.

T. W. Secrest, United States Park Service engineer, attributed the tragedy to blasting on the opposite side of the canyon. The blasting apparently loosened the 50-foot sandstone cliff towering over the road on which the men were working. Earlier blasting to loosen rocks farther above also weakened the cliff.

Three of the victims, working near the edge of the rim road, were swept off the cliff, fell more than 300 feet down the mountainside and were dashed lifeless on the huge boulders below.

Iowa Educator Heads Carengie Foundation

IOWA CITY, Ia., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Walter A. Jessup, president of the University of Iowa since 1916, today was preparing to wind up his personal affairs after accepting the presidency of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Dr. Jessup said that he was planning to leave the university on May 1, 1934.

Turkish Girl Charge Denied by Doak Kin

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(INS.)—Sent over to Europe on a government expense account, Ervin F. Brown, nephew of the late Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, tried to enliven the population of the United States by bringing back a Turkish dancer, according to Assistant United States Attorney Herlands, in Brown's trial yesterday on a bribery charge.

Brown denied the Turkish dancer story, which was a new angle to the case.

PFEFFERKUCHEN—CHRISTMAS COOKIES

Two quarts molasses.
One pound lard.
Four teaspoons soda.
Four pounds flour.
One-half pound almonds, cut fine.
Rind of two or three lemons.
Three eggs.
Two cups sugar.
Three teaspoons cloves, ground.
One teaspoon allspice, ground.
One teaspoon mace, ground.
Six teaspoons cinnamon.
Three teaspoons coriander seed, ground.
Two teaspoons ground anise seed, or few drops of essence of anise.

Mix all dry ingredients with exception of soda. Beat eggs and add sugar. Add to flour mixture, then add nuts and lemon rind. Mix shortening with molasses and let come to a boil, then pour over above mixture. Add soda which has been dissolved in a little hot water. Mix all together thoroughly (batter should be very stiff), then wrap in cloth and keep in cool place, 10 days or two weeks before baking. When ready to bake roll out thin and cut into shape with cookie cutter or cutters of different designs. This recipe makes a great many cookies, and it may be advisable to use half the recipe, although these cookies will keep for months, if placed in a covered crock or tin box. It is not necessary to roll out all of the dough at one time. Part of it may be rolled out and baked and the remainder wrapped in cloth and kept in cool place until ready to bake.

Six medium-sized onions.
Six medium-sized potatoes.
Six small parsnips.
One small cabbage.
Three large carrots.
Two small turnips.

Wash meat in cold water, if very salty soak one-half hour in cold water. Place meat in kettle with boiling water. Cook three to five hours until tender. Two hours before serving add carrots, cabbage and turnips cut in quarters, and one-half hour before serving add parsnips, onions and potatoes.

MRS. ROY R. BAILEY,
R 2, Ford City.
FONDANT RECIPE

Two and one-half pounds white sugar.
One and one-half cups hot water.
One-fourth teaspoon cream of tartar.

Combine sugar, water and cream of tartar in a saucepan. Stir, then boil slowly, without stirring, until temperature reaches 238 degrees F. Wipe any crystals that may form with a damp cloth folded around a skewer. When the mixture reaches the soft ball stage, pour on a slightly buttered platter. Let the mixture cool gradually until a crust seems to be forming around the edges, then beat briskly with a wooden spoon until it thickens. As soon as the creamy mass begins to lump, kneed it with the fingertips until it is perfectly smooth and satin fine in its texture. Form and flavor and color as desired, using nuts or fruits to complete the candy. Let ripen at least 24 hours.

Nell Brinkley Pillows Ideal Gift

Here are two lovely Nell Brinkley heads that can be embroidered for pillow tops. And who would not be thrilled to get such a gift for Christmas? What is perhaps most important, since Christmas is getting to be just around the corner, is that these lovely heads by this celebrated illustrator of the American girl are so quickly done. They have been translated into the simplest of stitches—outline and single stitch—and lend themselves to lovely color schemes. These pillows which are two of our three Brinkley girls, make delightful companion pillows.

Patterns 407 and 519 each contain a transfer pattern of a 12-inch cushion which can be made round or square, complete directions, yardages and color suggestions for making each cushion.

Send 10 cents for each pattern (20 cents for both) to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

IRATE CITIZENS OPPOSE LIGHT CONTRACT

Peter F. Loftus, consulting engineer retained by the Borough of Coraopolis in its street lighting difficulties, will receive more than 13 times the amount of his original agreement with the borough under the proposed five-year contract with the Duquesne Light Company, it was brought out today at a hearing demanded by irate citizens opposed to the contract.

Public Service Commissioner Samuel Walker heard Harry Kennedy, membe rof the Coraopolis Borough Council, tell that while Loftus originally was hired at $250 a month, with a maximum of three months, to survey a proposed city lighting system, under the terms of the contract drawn the light company will pay him $10,000.

After Loftus made his survey, Kennedy testified, he went to the Duquesne Light Company to inspect its books under a verbal agreement that he would receive 40 per cent of any money he retrieved from the company under its contract of purchase of the borough plant in 1927.

Subsequently, and also verbally, Kennedy added, his commission was reduced to 25 per cent.

Kennedy was the third witness called at the hearing demanded by a citizens' committee of the borough opposed to the contract. They want the Borough Council to proceed with the construction of a city-owned street lighting plant as provided for in a $75,000 bond issue already passed.

Construction of the borough plant, Kennedy testified, "would be uneconomical, in view of the fact that the borough has only enough money to keep it going for a couple of months."

John M. Walker, counsel for the citizens' committee, asked:

"Then Loftus was to go to the Duquesne Light Company and retrieve money due the borough for a deal closed six years before?"

"Yes."

"But the Duquesne Light Company didn't make an offer until after Loftus had this 40 per cent agreement with the Borough Council? Is that right?"

"Yes."

Kennedy then explained that the borough council met with Frank R. Phillips, president of the Duquesne Light Company, and other officials of the company in the borough hall last June, when the company offered the borough $60,000 "because of the bickering and dissatisfaction over the 1927 deal." Kennedy added:

"We explained that Loftus was to receive 25 per cent of any money retrieved. Subsequently the company made what we thought was a very generous offer. They agreed to give the borough $65,000, to pay Loftus $10,000 and to make repairs to the auxiliary plant up to $7,500."

This offer came, he admitted under cross-examination, after a mail poll of citizens had showed an overwhelming sentiment for a borough-owned plant.

George F. Colvin, the first member of the Borough Council called, said his colleagues and himself believed a saving of $150,000 in the five years could be effected by granting the contract.

Previously W. E. Cain, Coraopolis borough clerk, had explained terms of the contract under which the Duquesne Light Company offered to pay the borough $82,500 for its present auxiliary street-light plant at the Coraopolis water works.

The value of the auxiliary plant is $5,000. Attorney Walker asked Colvin:

"What is there about this contract that the Duquesne Light Company is willing to give the city $82,500 for a light plant worth only $5,000?"

Colvin couldn't answer, but Kennedy later did.

The borough's difficulties with its lighting problem began in 1927 when the Duquesne Light Company paid it $250,000 for its own street-lighting plant and received a five-year contract to light the streets.

AUTOISTS HERE ASSAIL RURAL ROAD COSTS

Construction of 53,000 miles of additional township and "feeder" roads to the state highway system, as proposed by Gov. Pinchot, is branded unfair to motorists of metropolitan districts in a resolution adopted by the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

Opposition to passage of the measure was voiced by Fred A. Fichtel, president, in a letter to members of Legislature from Allegheny County.

Pointing out that maintenance of the proposed roads would cost approximately $13,000,000 annually, while paving costs would reach $477,000,000, he said:

"Addition of this large mileage of rural roads to the state system will cause the bulk of our motor taxes to be poured into roads which 85 per cent of the state's car owners will never even see.

"We believe that costs of improvement and maintenance of them will prove such a burden to the motor funds that the main highway system will be badly neglected."

The club originally went on record against the 53,000-mile road plan two years ago.

...ALL LIFE MEMBERS OF THE BACK-SEAT CLUB

THIS YEAR the Back-Seat Club got its first real break when DRAFT was abolished by Fisher No-Draft Ventilation. Can anything equally startling take place in 1934?

It can and will. Jar and bump and bounce will be abolished! The 1934 General Motors cars will not be the 1933 cars improved. A new and revolutionary principle in motor car design will be introduced. Engineers call it "individual front wheel suspension." We prefer to call it "giving the car Knee-Action Wheels." If you will look at the diagram at the right you will see why we have chosen this non-technical description.

The 1934 cars are ROOMIER than the cars of 1933—an advantage you will quickly appreciate. They are gracefully lined, beautifully styled and appointed, as General Motors cars always are. But the big change is the new, stronger, more flexible front-end assembly—the Knee-Action Wheels. Your very first trip will prove what a glorious thing it is to have the soft springs, not the passengers, absorb the jars and bumps.

In driving, the hands have little to do but set the course—so smooth is the motion even at high speed, so steady is the grip on the road. If you are a member of the Back-Seat Club, the difference in your comfort is simply beyond description.

Lose no time in seeking your first ride in a 1934 Chevrolet, Oldsmobile, Pontiac, Buick, La Salle, or Cadillac. Or, if we may revise the phrase, your first glide. For the word ride connotes a certain amount of jar and jounce; our 1934 cars will glide—rolling noiselessly behind them the smooth unruffling miles.

HOW KNEE-ACTION WHEELS WORK

Your present car is stiff-legged. An I-beam front axle is joined to the frame by stiff front springs. So when you hit a bump the front of the car bounces, the rear pitches, and you are jarred.

See how serenely a man meets a bump. One knee bends easily, lifting its leg. The other leg is not affected; equilibrium is undisturbed. The knee, not the body, takes the jar.

Now, 1934—no more I-beam axle, no stiff springs. The wheel assembly, flexibly mounted on its own soft spring, rises and falls like a knee to soak up the shocks, while the car glides on.

An interesting booklet is available describing in more detail the fundamental principle of this new, independent front-wheel spring suspension. Simply address General Motors Corporation, New York or Detroit.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

"Managing" a big benefit is a big job anyone who's ever done it knows, but Mrs. William Christopher Robinson, of Franklin Farms, Sewickley Heights, loves it.

As chairman of the woman's board of the Allegheny General Hospital, she's directing the plans for the dance to be given Tuesday night in the William Penn's Chatterbox for the benefit of the hospital.

This dance, like the Cinderella ball, is becoming one of our social traditions. Like the Cinderella ball, the Allegheny Hospital's dance attracts all the various groups of the smart set.

Exchange, Allegheny Hospital Pet Hobbies

"My two pet hobbies are the Woman's Exchange and the Allegheny General Hospital woman's auxiliary work," Mrs. Robinson tells me. Mrs. Robinson is president of the Exchange board.

"It does sound like a lot of work," Mrs. Robinson admits, "but I love it. I like to work things out."

Executive ability runs in Mrs. Robinson's family. Her sister, Mrs. Maitland Alexander, has the difficult job of treasurer for the benefit, aided by Mrs. B. F. Jones, III. It's a job she always has because of her sound business ability. And it takes a great deal of it to keep track of all the tickets, who's paid and all that sort of thing.

Like the Cinderella ball, the Allegheny Hospital ball always has a fetaure. This year it's to be a review of the passing of a century, to be depicted by the change in women's costumes.

Turn of the Century Fashions Ball Feature

Daughters of the senior board, almost all of whom do their stint taking notes for doctors in the clinics of the hospital, will wear the costumes worn by their mothers and their friends when they were young girls.

The "special" tables, those nearest the runway where the fashions of yesterday will be modelled, are being sold by Mrs. Blair Childs and Mary Elizabeth Floyd.

Mrs. Lewis A. Park is in charge of arrangements for the ball; Margaret Holdship, of supper, and Mrs. B. F. Jones is helping Mrs. Alexander as treasurer. Mrs. T. A. McGinley sent out the invitations.

Committee Heads And Patronesses

Evelyn Evans will be in charge of music; Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson, assisted by Mrs. Ledlie W. Young and Mrs. Alexander Bell and Mrs. Carroll P. Davis, of entertainment.

Mrs. W. C. Robinson, Jr., is chairman of the floor committee, assisted by Mrs. William Standish, Mrs. J. Shirley Austin, Mrs. James O. Flower and Anne Rose.

Mrs. William D. George, Jr. (Mary Franklin Robinson), is president of the junior board of Allegheny.

Patronesses include Mrs. W. C. Robinson, Mrs. Maitland Alexander, Mrs. B. F. Jones III, Mrs. Lewis A. Park, Mrs. John C. Oliver, Mrs. T. A. McGinley, Mrs. Andrew Benney, Miss Isabel Chalfant, Mrs. W. Terrell Johnson, Mrs. Henry Lee Mason, Mrs. H. H. McClintic, Mrs. Robert Milligan, Miss Martha Jamison and others.

To Fete Debs at Dinner Before Benefit Ball

Before the dance, Mrs. William B. Trainer will give a dinner in her home for debutante Constance Drake and for Althea Robinson, who came out in June.

The open luncheon of the Sewickley Presbyterian Church sewing guild will be held Thursday noon in the church. Mrs. Robert L. Clause and Mrs. Brooke Jarrett are chairmen of the luncheon committee.

Aides will be Mrs. Alex Nimick, Mrs. Charles Jones, Mrs. Drayton Heard, Mrs. Duncan Anderson, Mrs. Florence Koger, Mrs. R. K. Hanson, Mrs. Hugo Paul, Mrs. Roy Rose, Mrs. Robert McKnight, Mrs. Ralph Gibbs, Mrs. Frederick McIntosh, Mrs. Edward Klingelhofer and Miss Alice Brown.

More Aides for Giotto Fresco Tableaux Friday

At the Giotto fresco tableaux Friday night, to be sponsored at the Twentieth Century Club by the Junior League arts and interests committee for the benefit of the Frontier Nursing Service, Mrs. Wallace Hurtte Rowe, Jr., and Mrs. Ellen Stone Bailey, garbed in the Frontier Service nurses' uniform, will distribute programs as well as Virginia and Rebecca Doyle.

Mrs. Charles S. Shoemaker and her Frontier committee will take tickets at the door.

The complete list of ushers includes Mrs. George L. Craig, Jr., Phyllis and Louise Totten, Betty McKay, Mrs. McCook Reed and Mrs. Blair Childs.

Added to the list of patronesses are Mrs. Winfield K. Shiras, Miss Dorothy Slack, the Frederic Schaefers, Mrs. John B. Semple, Miss Elizabeth Shaw, Miss Helen Stevens, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Titus, Mrs. R. D. Totten, Mrs. John S. Wendt and Mrs. Charles S. Shoemaker.

The exhibit Friday night at 8:45 will be a brilliant social affair. Because so many requests have been made, the frescoes will be re-enacted again on Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the Twentieth Century Club when only a small charge will be made.

New Year's Eve Party for Debs

Added to the debs' New Year's parties is a tea the Will Knox Dunlaps, South Highland avenue, will give in their home December 31.

Three debs will be guests of honor—Mary Gordon, Katherine MacConnell and Eleanor Cowdrey.

Mrs. Edwin Ruud and Mrs. William J. Langenheim, formerly of Pittsburgh, now of Ventnor, N. J., sailed Saturday on the S. S. Virginia for California. They expect to be gone six months.

Elizabeth Belden Will Be Bride Of January

By CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER
Universal Service Society Editor

NEW YORK.—Elizabeth Boies Belden is to be a January bride.

Another marriage, on the sixth day of the new year, to Dudley Roberts, Jr., son of the very popular senior Dudley Robertses, will undoubtedly be another of those elaborate nuptial events which members of the Scranton clan of Boies delight to indulge in.

Elizabeth, those who know their inter-city society will remember, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Belden, whose home ground is "Windybrow," Scranton, and who, of late years, have been making their summer headquarters at "Gull Crest," the extensive East Hampton dune villa built as a dove-cote by Carroll Livingston Wainwright and his ex-wife.

Elizabeth, as a great-granddaughter of Thomas Dickson, first president of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad, is close kin to those two Scranton beauties, Elizabeth Dickson Boies, who wed Reeve Schley, Jr., and Mari Boies, who married John Watts.

And remembering the elaborate weddings in Scranton of the Boies sisters, I have no hesitancy in predicting that the Belden-Roberts nuptials will be in a class with those hymeneal "extravaganzas."

Taking place in Scranton, the wedding will be solemnized in Westminster Church, with all the usual frou-frou, and later there will be a large reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Belden.

Mrs. Theodore F. Smith, Mrs. Alan Davison and Miss Josephine Babst are on the party committee.

Deb Chooses Christmas Debut Gown, Decorations

Not only did the debutante of today, Nancy Hart Chess, whose mother, Mrs. Harvey B. Chess, presented her to society at a luncheon in the family home, wear a Christmas gown, but she had a Christmas decoration luncheon.

She wore a gown having a striking bodice of silver lame and a skirt of black crepe. The sleeves of the bodice were gracefully full but tight at the wrist, and the neck-line was draped high both in front and in back. And to complete the Christmas idea, she carried a bouquet of American beauty red roses.

Her mother, who received with her, chose a black crepe gown and had a corsage of gardenias. Their guests were the debutantes of the season.

FOR FIRESIDE HOSPITALITY

The hostess gown at the right is velvet, cut to fit like a second skin, but softened by the hip pockets, a neckline of fur and many buttons down the front. Center, a lace and satin robe, more of the tea gown type; lower left, another velvet model that takes a tip from Russia with a collar and frogs.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

NOW THAT no one has to rush out of the home to find a setting for legal cups that cheer when spiked with a bit of Bacardi rum, women will take the vogue for the hostess gown even more seriously. And it is a European custom—sometimes Spanish, and sometimes not—which has been sneaking up on our good-looking Belle Brummels for several years.

Although the original conception of the costume was very likely levelled at women of utter leisure, who had hours to change their clothes as the social clock creeps round them day by day, it is really a much greater boon to the busy feminine executive who rushes in from offices at twilight, and wants to relax as fast as possible for purely sociable hours.

For the really clever hostess gown slips on over a minimum of underpinning and can be adjusted to perfect picturesqueness in a jiffy. Any smart girl could get out of her business garb, under a shower, and into something seductively feminine in velvet or silk, built on these gracious tea gown lines, in 20 minutes by the clock.

A BRUSH through her permanent, a quick wipe away of old make-up and on with the new, and she could receive the Prince of Wales with aplomb and chic. And now that the speakeasy date has its nose out of joint, one of these hasty toilettes is all that a woman needs to make for the pre-prandial hour.

She can dress again if she decides to go on to some place in the public eye, and by that time she will probably feel up to it, for a few calm hours after the hurly-burly of the day are all that any balanced girl needs to make the sap spring up.

'Talking Tintypes' Review South Hills College Club History, Work

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

"Talking tintypes," which reviewed the history of the club, was one of several interesting features at the tenth anniversary dinner given last night by the South Hills College Club. The dinner, which honored the past presidents and new members, was held in the Mt. Lebanon Presbyterian Church.

The 10 tables seating the members and their guests were arranged around a Christmas tree like spokes in a wheel, and at the end of each table sat a former president with a birthday cake in front of her. Ivory candles and Christmas decorations added to the effectiveness.

The "talking tintypes" were animated pictures which brought back the highlights of the club during its 10 years' existence. They were done by Mrs. Ross E. Taggart, Mrs. R. T. Conaway, Mrs. Ivan Miller, Mrs. Thomas Hood, Mrs. W. D. Sherman and Mrs. W. Kaye Estep. The script was the work of Mrs. E. M. Grove, Mrs. A. W. Skilling and Mrs. G. Reed Schreiner.

The Fireflies added a delightful musical program and a silver offering was collected as the annual "white gift" for charity.

Through the Spyglass & VIEWING THE NEW

We expect to wake up some fine morning to find ourselves with a long white beard . . . a fat tummy . . . and a red coat—after effects of playing Santa Claus, you know! Anyway . . . here are some gifts we've pulled out of our pack today for you. Must we slide down the chimney with them, too . . . or will you come get them? Call Grant 6500 and ask for the Spyglass to get the names of the shops . . . or send a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Beat faster, oh hearts of all little spyglassers! Christmas is coming . . . and trust us not to let you down in your gift-buying.

Here is the gift for those friends of yours whose "jump-takeouts" are one of the most important things in life! A beautiful madeira bridge lunch cloth . . . hand embroidered to the "n'th" degree . . . real linen . . . and a marvel of cut work. Only $1.19 . . . and unbeatable at this price!

"Cold hands, warm heart" . . . but we wouldn't bet on it, and after all with snug little lapin or sealine muffs to be had for a smallish $4.95, why take the chance! There is a shop in town which is making a special of these for Christmas . . . in black or brown. And very nice they are too.

Ascot scarfs to match . . . with rounded or diamond-shaped ends . . . $2.95.

When you and the girls go paddling 'round investigating your packages Christmas morning, you'll all be a lot happier if you do it in the new colored patent leather bedroom slippers we've found for $1.25. An ideal gift . . . since this is the time of year when all goodly souls seem to go about replenishing same.

In D'Orsay style . . . of noncrackable patent . . . in red, blue or black . . . simply unheard of for such a sum!

This is no time to play Queen of the May . . . but you can play "queen" anyway! Witness the new tiaras we have produced with barks of delight!

When we hove in sight of these sparkle crowns, they were just being unpacked, and therefore are bona fide NEW. Gold ones . . . with pearls (good-looking, too, even if an oyster wouldn't recognize them!) . . . and all the Vere de Vere-ishness that a tiara can bring! The gold band forms little circles outlining your head . . . and a pearl sits in each circle! First time we've seen anything quite like it in tiaras . . . and they're only $1.

You who would walk a mile for a cigaret . . . would be willing to walk that far for one of these stunning new cigaret cases which have just appeared! In fact . . . you'll almost be willing to rush in pell mell for them.

They're light to carry (which, as we've found, is what most cases lack) . . . carry a whole pack of cigs . . . and are covered in silk faille. Of what smartness! Kelly green together with Roman striped cut into angles and peaks and then all put together again until it looks like a small corner of the World's Fair! And when all is said and done, but 50c buys them!

Here's to His Nibs . . . may his little ribs keep warm! For these silk crepe baby robes are warmly lined with outing flannel . . . and adorably perked up by the appearance of the cats sewed on to make pockets. A gift that you will love to give and mothers to receive (and baby to wear . . . if he has any say-so in the matter!) In pink or blue . . . with silk cord tie . . . 99c. Sizes to 3 years.

DOROTHY RANDALL.

Miss Rogers Seeks New Name

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 13.—Ginger Rogers is going to change her name—no not to Mrs. Lew Ayres.

With the red-headed star's increasing flair for dramatic roles, the RKO studio believes she should adopt a more dignified first name, who, they argue, could imagine such a billing, say, as "Ginger Rogers in 'Cradle Song'"?

Miss Rogers

So far, no one has thought of a suitable name and the matter may be put up to the fans. If you have a good idea, write to Ginger at the RKO studio in Hollywood. Should your suggestion be adopted, I'm sure you would, at least, get a big autographed picture.

There is plenty of precedent for such name changes. It wasn't so many years ago that rising film fortunes inspired Lucille Le Sueur to change her name to Joan Crawford.

The transcontinenetal telegraph wires are humming with messages between Pat Wing and Bill Perry, rich young Kentuckian who has gone East on a business trip. Rumors still insist that the two will be married this month.

Pat, who is taller than her sister, Toby, and who is just as brunette as Toby is blonde, refuses to confirm or deny the reports. She expects the boy friend back by Christmas.

A would-be-helpful public has been bombarding Warner Brothers with wires since they announced the taking out of a $75,000 policy to insure against Bette Davis ever weighing over 120 pounds.

Miss Davis

One Pasadena doctor writes in that the star (who weighs only 107 now) will never put on that much weight because her long legs and general measurements clearly indicate she hasn't the skeleton for it. What the giraffe is to the animal world, Bette's type is to human beings, he somewhat amusingly remarks.

In a different vein is the reply of a physical culturist who claims he can easily run Bette's weight up past 120 and then, with equal dispatch, reduce it to normal. He hints that the studio may collect the insurance money and split with him.

The casting department found him down on Main street behind a hot chestnut stand—and such a chestnut vender was needed for atmosphere in the new MGM picture, "Old Hannibal."

Tony was taken to the studio.

KAY FRANCIS, SNAPPY FINERY OF THE OLDEN DAYS, IN "THE HOUSE ON 56TH STREET"

"All you do is sell chestnuts," instructed Director Charles Reisner.

The action then started, with the cameras taking their first shots up at the other end of the imitation city street. Half an hour later, the crew moved up to Tony's stand for a closeup of May Robson buying a bag of chestnuts.

But there was no Tony.

He had sold all his chestnuts to the extras, had pocketed his profits—and had gone home.

Young Artist Now Actor

A few years ago a lad, carrying a roll of canvas under his arm, walked into the office of Lloyd Pantages, theater manager in Hollywood. A few moments later he had spread the canvas out on the floor, displaying a painting of Adam, done in rich warm colors. Mr. Pantages was interested and the painting was purchased on the promise of a companion one of "Eve" being done to go with it. Mr. Pantages wanted them to hang in the mezzanine of his new theater just being completed in Hollywood boulevard. A few days later the youth returned with the pictures and Mr. Pantages paid him a check for $300, the most money that Roy Radabaugh had ever possessed in his entire life. He felt that fame was just ahead—as an artist.

The pictures still hang on the walls of the theater, but today the artist's name on them is changed. Dick Cromwell, Columbia star, wrote his picture name on the paintings at the request of Mr. Pantages. Had not Mr. Pantages requested it, he would never have bothered to change the name. Columbia studio "christened" him "Dick Cromwell" and it has brought him success in his chosen profession. He has not given up his art work completely. He has a collection of masks that he has done of almost every celebrity in Hollywood, and he paints whenever the mood overtakes him, and that is often. He was a student at an art school in the evening and worked as a soda jerker during the day.

Miss Parker

The romance between Jean Parker and Pancho Lucas has become so serious that she is trying to get the studio to let him appear in a picture with her. These two youngsters are schoolmates and after Jean won a film contract, Pancho came to work as an office boy at MGM. Then, he, too, was "discovered" by Mrs. Ida Koverman and was given the role of Pancho Villa as a boy.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"The Servant in the House," to be played by Walter Hampden Tuesday and Friday during his week of repertory in the Nixon, is a drama in which Mr. Hampden has appeared nearly a thousand times since its first performance in New York in 1908. Thereafter he played in it for three years, and he has revived it occasionally, as he says he will continue to do from time to time as long as he remains on the stage. It may be gratitude, since this play, by Charles Rann Kennedy, was the first to attract public attention to Mr. Hampden. Other plays he will offer, opening Christmas night, will be "Richelieu," "Hamlet," Wednesday night only, and "Macbeth," at the Saturday matinee only.

When Harrison R. (Playboy) McCready goes on the stage of the Variety in next week's bill, as he has contracted to do, he will be seen in a brief sketch, "A Playboy at Play." He was to begin rehearsals this afternoon. His contract is for one week, with two additional weeks at the option of the theater. "Broadway Scandals," opening with a Sunday midnight show, is the title of the production in which "Playboy" will make his theatrical debut.

Exclusive of motion picture rights, Noel Coward earned more than $100,000 from his play, "Design for Living," which was still playing to sellout business in New York when the author closed it after it had run for 17 weeks. The motion picture version of this triangle play, which Ernst Lubitsch directed, has Miriam Hopkins, Frederic March and Gary Cooper portraying the principal roles.

George Raft plans a vacation in Europe upon completion of Paramount's "It's a Pleasure to Lose." He has indicated that he expects to dance in the night clubs and theaters of London and Paris before returning to Hollywood.

Girls Take on Weight At No Cost

Insatiable appetites and refusal to curb them were blamed for the increased weight of many of the girls who recently returned to Hollywood after a five weeks' location trip to Lake Arrowhead during production of Charles R. Rogers' "Eight Girls in a Boat."

"Why should we diet when the company paid for all our meals?" asked one girl. "Now that we are back in civilization paying our own way we can diet and save money."

Wilkinsburg Girl Cast In Lasky Film

Girls and boys from many parts of the country will appear in Jesse L. Lasky's production for Fox, "Coming Out Party," starring Gene Raymond, Frances Dee and Alison Skipworth. Among the girls are Betty Flourney, St. Louis; Patricie Scott, of Calgary, Canada; Helen Peterson, Wilkinsburg; Jeanne Ruwe, San Antonio, Tex., and others. Boys include Maury Ginn, Jr., son of M. E. Ginn, former head of Ginn & Co., Massachusetts book publishers, and John Ruwe, of San Antonio.

Miss Landi Is Author Of Song Lyrics

Elissa Landi is the author of a recently publised book of six songs. Abram Chasins composed the music. The first song is entitled "Offering to Eros." Miss Landi recently returned to Hollywood from a trip to New York, where she had gone to accompany her mother, Countess Caroline Zenardi Landi, who left for a trip abroad. Miss Landi's fourth novel, "Ancestors," will be out in May. It is part of a projected trilogy.

Extra Waiter

KNOW WHAT an extra waiter is? Well, he's a chap who is hired only when the situation calls for it. He works on a certain job for one night, and he usually gets the call when it's a banquet or a holiday.

His wages, generally, are $2 for the night. He reports around 4 in the afternoon, and he works until 4, 5 or 6 in the morning. And when the job is over he is out of work once again.

On repeal night the extra waiters got a break. There isn't much of a break in $2 for 13 hours of difficult work—but it means a lot to the guy who is broke. So all of them took the jobs that were offered, and they were grateful for them.

The hotels, as you know, were mobbed. Business was better than it has been in many a long day. The ropes were up for the first time since last New Year's Day. And the joyous crowds were very busy kidding themselves in a celebration of the return of something that had never been lost . . .

In one of the largest and most fashionable hotels in all New York, George was an extra waiter. George had a wife and two children. Times have been plenty tough with him. Breaks have been few and far between. But he is thankful for all favors. And this job was one of them.

He had but two tables to serve, and he was the soul of courtesy to those he waited upon. Extra service might mean an extra tip, although George wasn't any too positive that these tables would be over-generous. They looked too much like society people.

All around this man there were evidences of wealth. Beautiful jewels and costly wraps. Champagne going like wildfire at $10 and $12 a bottle. For at least this one night prosperity had returned.

A smile on his face and a large tray in his hand, George was returning to his station. Things were beginning to look a little bit better. He had just seen that stout man at his table slip a dollar to the cigaret girl for a package of cigarets.

That meant a very definite something. Perhaps one of these parties would become generous with him. Perhaps he would be given an extra $5, or maybe a tenner. How much that would mean to him. How very, very much!

He could see Minnie's face when he told her about it. She would be waiting up for him; no doubt about it. First, he would look downcast and shake his head. And then, suddenly, he would throw the $10 right in her lap.

"I made it, Minnie," he would exult. "Tonight I made it. It will help us a lot—us and the kids. Maybe it means the turn in the road. Maybe tomorrow I'll get a regular job. Maybe—"

It was then that George saw the object, glittering on the floor. It was large and it sparkled brilliantly. Most of the people were dancing. It had evidently been dropped by a woman on her way to the dance floor. And there it rested, almost beneath his left foot.

The extra waiter acted entirely by instinct. Carelessly, he dropped his napkin over the glittering object. His heart beating wildly, he walked to his station and deposited his tray upon the little service table. Then he walked back, retrieved his napkin—and placed the glittering object in his pocket.

It was some 10 minutes before George could safely steal a look at the thing he had found. He retired to a corner of the kitchen and made certain that no one was looking. Then he drew out the object with trembling fingers.

He gulped. It was a diamond bracelet, massively magnificent. No need for a jewelry expert to tell George the value of the bracelet he held. Surely it was worth $5,000. Or maybe $10,000. Or perhaps it might run as high as $20,000. Small wonder that George shook with nervousness.

This was his salvation—or was it his ruination? He could pawn it easily. Who'd know the difference? He'd be able to get at least a thousand dollars on it.

His mind whirled. Suppose he were caught? What then? But how could he be caught? Give it back. No, fool, keep it. The woman would get another one. She was wealthy. Your wife is poor; your children need attention. Keep it, George, keep it. But what about the police? Prison, maybe. Give it back, fool, give it back.

George turned around. He walked out of the kitchen. He went rapidly to the table captain in his section. He produced the bracelet.

"I found this on the floor," he said simply.

And he walked back to his tables . . .

Very soon, there was excitement at one of the larger tables. The owner of the bracelet had been discovered. She had been on the verge of hysterics, but now she was quite all right again. She was actually oozing her thanks.

"Where is the waiter who found my bracelet?" she cried. "He must be rewarded. Bring him here to me at once."

So the captain summoned George. The captain was rather pleased about the whole thing. One of the boys, even though he was nothing but an extra waiter, was about to get a break. And, incidentally, of course, he could also expect a juicy tip.

George stood before the woman. She was fastening the bracelet on her arm. The arm held a dozen other bracelets, but this was the largest of the lot.

"You are an honest man," she said, "and I want to thank you. Just a minute."

She turned to her escort.

"Darling," she cooed, "I want this waiter to be rewarded. Give him a cigar. No, he's so very honest that he deserves more. Give him two cigars!" . . .

Stone Toter Wins Plea for Term in Workhouse

Patrick Carpenter, 56, no home, got his wish last night. He went to the North Side Police Station demanding that he be arrested and sent to the workhouse, police said. They quoted him as saying:

"If you fail me, I'll throw a couple of bricks through your windows."

Carpenter was searched; a stone was found in his pocket, and charges of disorderly conduct were preferred against him. In Night Police Court Magistrate Leo Rothenberg complied with his request, giving him a 30-day sentence.

FIRES DAMAGE SLEUTH'S HOME

Fire broke out twice within six hours in the home of Homicide Detective James P. O'Kane, at 538 Clawson street, Homewood, yesterday.

The second blaze swept through the interior of the house, a two-story frame, before it was extinguished by firemen, who estimated the damage at $1,000. The O'Kane family, routed by the first fire, was at the home of a sister-in-law in Carrick.

The first fire originated in the basement and was extinguished with slight damage, firemen reported. The second also started in the basement.

JUNIOR PATROL

The Christmas season is the best time of year to think of books, fellows!

We wonder how many Junior Patrol members like to read, and what books they like the best. Pick out your favorite books, fellows, and write us a letter and tell us what they are.

Maybe Santa Claus will bring you books this Christmas. There are many thousands of good books which you can pick from this year, and if you can, fellows, you should learn the difference between poor books and good ones.

Edward Criswell, of 7720 Tioga street, Pittsburgh, is a new member today. He is forming a patrol, but he only has two or three members so far. When you are elected a captain by at least 10 official members, we will send you an armband, Edward. And don't forget that every member must send in a pledge, or a copy of a pledge.

Now here's a letter from George Roudebush, of Coral, Pa. He writes:

"We are going to start a Junior Patrol here at Coral and I am the captain. Please send the badges to me and I will give them to the members."

We will send each of your five members a badge and card soon, George. And we hope that you can get five more members right away, because we would like to send a captain's armband, too. There are so many dandy times a patrol can have when it is full strength.

Marguerite Moran, of 403 Bluff street, Belle Vernon, Pa., is a new captain and member today also. Here is her letter, a good one, too:

"We have started a club which we all think will be fun. In our club we have a captain, president, lieutenant and a secretary. We are going to decide on a name, which we think will be Helping Hand or Busy Bee. We are going to have the members bring money if they can and have parties."

Oh, that's swell news, Marguerite! Write and tell us more about your club after you have had a meeting or two. It sounds to us as if you were going to have a very good time. The armband is on its way.

O'DUFFY TO DEFY BAN ON SPEECH

DUBLIN, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Gen. Eoin O'Duffy will defy the Irish Free State's ban by addressing a meeting at Westport Mayo Sunday under auspices of the United Ireland Party, his supporters said today.

If the threat of the Blue Shirts, Gen. O'Duffy's party which has been declared illegal by the government, is carried out the government may make its expected move of arresting O'Duffy. He has declared he has no intention of avoiding apprehension.

A statement of policy by President Eamon De Valera on the Blue Shirts was expected in the Free State Senate this afternoon.

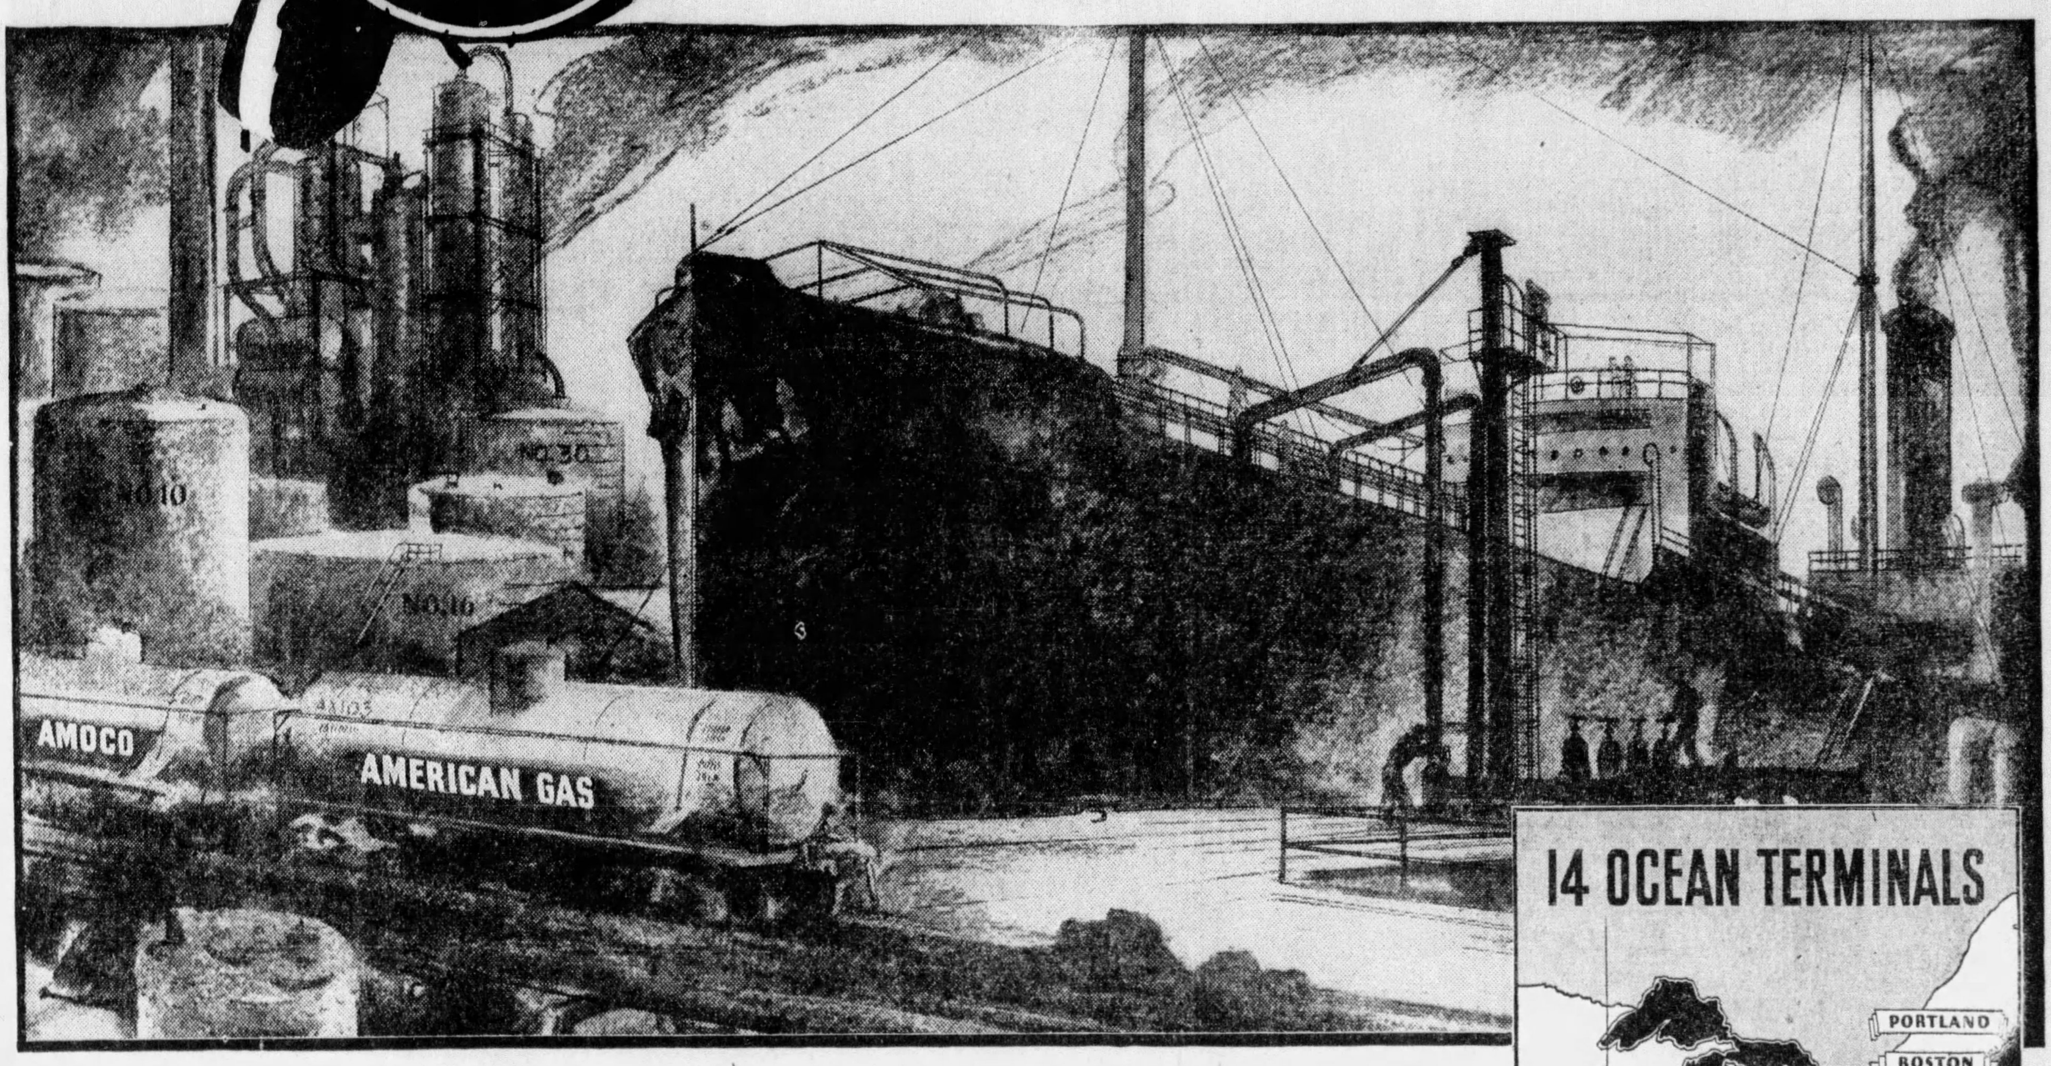
"AMERICAN" MARCHES AHEAD!

We cover the Waterfront with fourteen OCEAN TERMINALS!



SHUTTLING back and forth between great oil fields, and refineries and fourteen leading American Ports, is a constant stream of huge steel tankers.

The story of one is the story of all.

Their liquid cargoes are for the American Oil Company and are piped ashore at fourteen large modern ocean terminals (see map), barged to nineteen additional water terminals conveniently located along the Eastern Seaboard (see map), moved by rail to hundreds of railroad bulk plants all the way from Maine to Florida, and inland.

Then come thousands of tank cars and tank trucks—all a part of the great service that dots the roads from Maine to Florida, and elsewhere, with AMOCO-GAS and Orange AMERICAN GAS pumps. A tremendous, highly organized activity that means better values for you.

And millions of motorists will tell you that is exactly what results. For AMOCO-GAS is the original special motor fuel. Different! Exclusive formula! That is why no ordinary premium gasolines do all the things that AMOCO-GAS can do, or any of them nearly so well. And why AMOCO-GAS gives you the lowest cost per mile—many luxuries—many advantages—possible from no other fuel.

And if you are a user of "regular"—here's the master of them all—Orange AMERICAN GAS—the original orange colored regular gasoline. So good it exceeds U. S. Government specifications for motor gasoline by 12%! Yet costs no more than other regular gasolines. Its performance is more much better.

What comes from the "AMERICAN" Waterfront is best for you—your car—and your purse! Convince yourself.

Officials' Head Gives Lowdown On Signals

CONNIE MACK FORCED TO SELL FIVE PLAYERS

THIS MEANS A JUMP BALL

AND THIS SIGNAL INDICATES NO GOAL

THIS INDICATES PUSHING OR CHARGING

Do you know what the officials mean when they signal during a basketball game? Here's the approved working system, demonstrated by Calvin Bolster, president of the Western Pennsylvania Basketball Officials' Association for the fifth year and now serving his twenty-second season as sports official. He has been a member of the rules committee of the game and the officials' committee for years, and is widely recognized as one of the leading arbiters of the sport. He is working the Army-Navy series this season and has many other important assignments. He is just as well known in football, in which he has officiated from coast to coast, including a Rose Bowl assignment. He was one of the officials in the Penn-Cornell football game in Philadelphia on Thanksgiving Day and has seen service in many other important games. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

Westrope Rides Fourth 'Triple' In Succession

HOUSTON, Texas, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Jack Westrope scored his fourth consecutive triple at Epsom Downs track yesterday and approached to within 10 of the magic figure of 300 winners for the 1933 season.

The country's leading Jockey won with Lord Tournament, paying $3.80 for $2 straight in the third race; with Cursor, at $5.80 for $2, in the fifth, and with Strait Jacket, at $6.20 for $2, in the seventh.

STAGGERING BLOW TO GAME IN PHILADELPHIA

While Connie Mack's announcement of the sale of Lefty Grove, Rube Walberg and Max Bishop to the Red Sox, Mickey Cochrane to the Tigers, and George Earnshaw to the White Sox amounted only to an official confirmation of something that had been known throughout the baseball world for many weeks, fandom nevertheless was made to gasp anew at the proportions of the biggest wrecking job in the history of the national sport. Even the tearing down of that other famous Mackian machine after the season of 1914 did not approach this latest staggering move, involving an estimated sum of $300,000 in cash and the transfer of some of the most prominent players in the game. Grove, in particular, is rivaled only by Carl Hubbell.

Lefty Grove

That the sales were due to banking pressure for the payment of notes totaling some $250,000 is not doubted. It is not conceivable that Mack would undertake by choice the building up of practically an entire new club at the age of 72, with a winning team necessary to reap the full financial benefits of the first year of Sunday ball at home.

But that doesn't alter the fact that it is a rough deal for the real sufferers, the Philadelphia fans, a poor reward for loyal patronage through the years. A ball club is supposed to belong in a sense to the community. When it was possible to find purchasers for the run-down Boston Americans and Cincinnati Nationals, it might have been possible to find buyers in the plight of the A's, so that the old owners could have stepped out in favor of new ones who would have kept the club intact.

That would have been fairer to the Quaker City fans. As it is, they face the prospect of a repetition of the bitter experience they had after the scrapping of the 1914 team, when the A's finished in last place seven years in succession. The deal helps the American League in Boston, Detroit and Chicago, but it is a terrific blow to baseball in Philadelphia, following a similar step by the other club there in selling its main prop, Chuck Klein. Sunday ball sure gets a swell greeting in one end of the state. Sunday games for the first time in history, and nothing to look at but bat boys. If baseball is the losing venture these player-selling magnates assert, it is hard to understand why they don't get out of it.

NO INTENTIONAL PASS RULE IN MAJORS

The major leagues appear to have no thought of adopting the rule which the Southern Association will try out against the intentional base on balls. It allows a runner to score from second base, even if third base is vacant, in the event the pitcher throws four consecutive "balls" to any batter, with two out, the idea being to curb intentional passes. The big loops probably will not even discuss the regulation. If it is brought up it is certain to meet with plenty of opposition. Bill McKechnie, Eddie Collins and several others have expressed themselves as being strongly opposed to it.

About the only big leaguer who has openly favored the plan is Mickey Cochrane. He thinks the majors will adopt it eventually, and estimates that in such event all the good batters will find it fairly easy to boost their average from 10 to 20 points. Collins and others opposing any rule like that adopted by the Southern circuit point out that it would leave too many loopholes. The Dixie moguls appear to have overlooked one possibility. There is nothing to prevent the pitcher from putting a dangerous hitter on first base intentionally by hitting him with the ball.

RIVALS CLAIM DISTINCTION HELD BY PITT

A football historian who appears to be slightly mixed in his dope breaks into the public prints with the assertion that, while the East is the birthplace of the American gridiron game, it was the Rocky Mountains that first saw players wearing numbered jerseys. He gives the date as November 8, 1913, and the game as one between Colorado College and Colorado School of Mines, in Denver. The Football Guide puts the time two years later and says numbers first appeared in 1915.

Karl E. Davis

It's all very interesting, but Pittsburgh fans must beg to disagree with both chroniclers. Numbers were introduced by the school now known as the University of Pittsburgh when it was the Western University of Pennsylvania and playing its home games at old Exposition Park on the North Side, before the shift to Forbes Field in 1909. Karl E. Davis, at present at Western Reserve in Cleveland, was at that time publicity director for the Blue and Gold and was one of those to conceive

Mix together violent body checking, care-free slashing of heads, persistent beating of torsos and legs, fast, purposeful running and modified murder, add a dash of mayhem and shake well and you have box larcrosse.

This was demonstrated to some 1,500 fans at Motor Square Garden last night as the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets pried the lid from the North American Professional Lacrosse Association season by defeating the Milwaukee Bruins, 8 to 5, in the first game of its kind ever played here.

GAME IS ROUGH

In the advance billing box lacrosse was heralded as the roughest of sports. This rating may be in error (the head hunters of Africa are no sissies, either) but of those who witnessed last night's careless blood spilling only those who would turn thumbs down at a gladitorial combat will ask for further proof.

Take, for instance, the case of Eddie Dodds, 180-pound forward for Milwaukee's invaders:

While the teams were warming up before the game, Eddie was struck in the abdomen with a ball slammed his way by a playful teammate. He was knocked down, but was revived.

In the second period, Dodds was slashed above the left ear with a Yellow Jacket stick during a mixup in front of the Pittsburgh net. Blood dripped from a scalp wound throughout the remainder of the game.

In the third period, Dodds was stunned as he was dealt a savage body check while leaping for the ball. He fell to the floor, and, because the check had been legal, he was left stretched out on the boards to "come to" without assistance while the play moved on.

ESCAPES IN FOURTH

Nothing of moment happened to Dodds during the fourth period, so he made up for this oversight by having three stitches placed in his scalp wound at the finish of the fray.

The case of hapless Dodds gives one a pretty fair idea of what a jolly pasttime this lacrosse can be. Other casualties were:

Til Stokes, Milwaukee goalie, knocked out in the fourth period when he stopped Claude Jennings' mighty shot (and Jennings' stick) with his head.

Kelly DeGray, Bruin center, nose bloodied (later taped) in fight in third period; stunned by body check in fourth period.

Buddy Clarke, Miwaukee defenseman, slashed across face with stick in first period; eye cut, stunned.

The casualty list also included several Yellow Jackets, but their injuries were limited to abrasions and body and leg bruises. Really nothing at all, it seems.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE OLDEST CITY IN THE WORLD—Nakhichevan, in Russian Armenia, on the Russo-Persian border, is identical with the ancient Naxuana founded by Noah in the year 2349 B. C., when the Flood passed. Since the Deluge destroyed every vestige of life on earth, this first post-deluvian city is of necessity the oldest on earth. During my stay there I was reverently conducted to the tomb which the natives believe to contain Noah's mortal remains. Both Nakhichevan and Naxuana mean "Noah settled here." THE CITY OF BAD REPUTE—This name was applied to Novocherkask, in the Northern Caucasus, for a half-century. Founded in 1805, it was endowed by Emperor Nicholas I with 100 street lanterns in 1833. Owing to the reputation of the town, the Emperor ordered a permanent guard of mounted Cossacks over each lantern to prevent its theft. This continued until 1883 when Emperor Alexander III ordered it discontinued. THE HORSE CEMETERY—This cemetery belongs to the Yezidi faith and is located in Gundachsas, near Erivan, Armenia. The horse is the Yezidi's most important friend, and so the tombstones have been horse-shaped to give the deceased the comfort of the presence of the friendly animal in effigy.

Grid Hurts Cause Player's Paralysis

The accident occurred during the game, which was played three weeks ago, but Piper did not collapse until recently and an examination revealed the injury.

Elmer Layden, recently signed as head coach at Notre Dame, was the principal speaker at the annual father and son banquet held last night by the Rotary Club of Turtle Creek, in its club rooms at Turtle Creek. Layden spoke on the value of keeping in condition.

GROVE, BISHOP, WALBERG, TWO OTHERS GO

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—The tall, sinewy form of 71-year-old Connie Mack today flashed on the baseball screen to mark a new epoch in the national game. The maker of diamond champions, who broke up an historic combination of Athletics about 20 years ago, was catapulted into the center of the picture last night when he announced the sale of five satellites of the game at a total sum estimated at $275,000.

Connie, in person, unfolded the little tale, but he did not divulge the story behind the story. To those supposed to be on the "inside" it amounts to this: The Athletics had a note coming due for approximately $250,000. Something like half of this amount represented the financial loss sustained by the "A's" in the tough season just passed. The bankers wanted "the 250,000 grand or else." In this case "or else" meant foreclosure, so there was but one alternative. That was to dispose of ball players to the amount of $250,000.

FIVE STARS SOLD

And so Mack called the bid and doubled the bankers in spades. He sold Lefty Grove, Mickey Cochrane, George Earnshaw, Rube Walberg and Max Bishop to three rival clubs and thus established a new high on the baseball trading mart.

Grove, the fire-ball southpaw, along with Lefty Walberg and Second Baseman Bishop goes to the rejuvenated Red Sox; George Earnshaw, one of baseball's best righthanders, moves to the Whie Sox, while Mickey Cochrane, one of the greatest catchers the game has produced, changed his Philadelphia spangles for Tigers' regalia. In the case of Mickey a big promotion is noted. The scrappy receiver will be the playing manager of the Jungaleers.

Thus the pardon came too late for Mack. Clothed in the garb of Sunday baseball the coming season held forth the comforting notes of optimism for the scholarly patriarch of Philly, but when the bankers start to move in one you, sentiment goes out to the backdoor.

MACK NEAR COLLAPSE

The five Philadelphia newspapermen who got the confirmation of the spectacular story from the lips of Mack state they never saw Connie in such a condition. The hands of the veteran trembled and his voice was filled with tears when he gave out the news. Connie, according to the Quaker City scribes, was just one step from a collapse as he made the announcement concerning the disposition of the stellar quintet. A moment later more than a score of writers descended on him. Mack stiffened for the ordeal, but after reiterating the announcement he found shelter in the room of a rival club owner. It was one of the really pathetic incidents of his long career in the game.

Now while all of this has a Pennsylvania touch, it certainly has no bearing on George Gibson's Pirates, who still are in the market for a topnotch secondsacker to take the place of Tony Piet.

Gibson spent something like six hours in the lobby of the Palmer Hotel yesterday in the hope that by exposing himself he would encourage some trade talk. Gibby this morning admitted he had a few nibgles, but it will take more than nibbles to replace one of the best hitters in the National League, not to mention a player regarded as a hustler and one of the best baserunners in the business.

NOT AFTER MALONE

Gibson took time out to declare that he did not seek Pitcher Pat Malone of the Cubs. Altoona Pat is available for any club which wants to make the Bruins an ap-

FORBES TAKES SWIM TITLE

The Forbes School swimmers rule the city grade school aquatic world today. Yesterday, in the H. C. Frick Training School pool, they piled up a total of 19 points to defeat squads from Greenfield, McNaugher, Conroy, Frick, Woods Run, Holmes, Lemington, Spring Lane, Brookline and Linden.

Goldstein, of Forbes, won the backstroke and the Forbes relay team defeated Greenfield in a close race for its second title. The latter school finished in second place with 11 points; McNaugher, 9; Conroy, 6; Frick and Woods Run, 5 each; Holmes, 3; Lemington and Spring Lane, 2 and Brookline and Linden, 1. The summary:

Breaststroke — Won by Lako, Woods Run; Memdel, McNaugher, second; Zahn, Forbes, third; J. Kocis, Forbes, fourth.

Free style—Won by Jedlick, Frick; Dzubinski, Conroy, second; Abels, Spring Lane, third; Stephens, Linden, fourth.

PHILLY RIDERS PLAY HERE

The One Hundred and Third Cavalry poloists, of Philadelphia, inaugurate Hunt Armory's long schedule of intersectional matches Saturday night, clashing with the One Hundred and Seventh Field Artilledy Polo Association trio, coached by Paul Mazuzan.

The Philadelphians will bring a spotless record to Pittsburgh. And that, as the Yale and Harvard riders will testify, doesn't mean a thing. The collegians left Pittsburgh with their spotless records besmudged.

City Champion in 1922, 1924, 1927 and 1929, and runnerup in 1931, the visitors are headed for another loop crown with decisive wins over the classy First City Troop and the Philadelphia Rovers already in the bag.

Van Kempen, Audy Win Bike Grind

CLEVELAND, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—In an exciting finish, the team of Piete Van Kempen, veteran Dutch cyclist, and Jules Audy, flashy young Canadian, won Cleveland's second international six-day bicycle race last night.

A close second was the team of Frank Bartell, Czechoslovakian, and Fred Ottevaire, outstanding Belgian star.

MORGAN SHIFTS LINEUP FOR CUP FRAY

By TOM BIRKS

Manager Dave Matthews, of the Morgan Soccer Club, said today that Blacksmith Cyle, former Heidelberg star, will pair up with Dante Villani at fullback when the Green and White clashes with the Rochester Celtics at Greenlee Field next Sunday afternoon in the national challenge soccer cup competition.

This decision of the Morgan mentor to play the same combination that teamed up last Sunday, for the first time this season, indicates that Matthews himself will be seen elsewhere in the lineup.

The Morgan manager has been playing fullback all season with Villani, and, while they worked well on the defense, the glaring attacking weakness shown by the forward line has given the Morgan fans considerable worry.

So, working along the accepted theory that the best defense is a strong attack, Matthews has attempted to work out a combination that can score goals. Matthews will go into the halfback line and probably send Gordon Hart into the front line.

The Celtics will arrive in Pittsburgh on Saturday morning and will be quartered at the Fort Pitt Hotel. Fifteen players will make the trip.

The cup committee of the West Penn Football Association met last night and scheduled no games of importance on Sunday to permit all the fans in the district to get a glimpse of the famous Celtic aggregation. The game is slated to get under way at 2:30 o'clock sharp.

SCOTT TO FETE GRID SQUAD

By JULIUS LEVIN

North Braddock will pay tribute to its two championship football teams Friday evening with a banquet in the Methodist Church and a town meeting in the Scott High School auditorium.

Scott High won the class A championship of the W. P. I. A. L., while the junior high school shared the W. P. I. A. L. junior title with Clairton Junior High School.

An elaborate program is being arranged for the town meeting. Among the speakers will be Dr. John B. (Jock) Sutherland, Pitt football coach.

The dinner will be held at 6 o'clock, while the town meeting will get under way at 8 o'clock.

SCHOOL FIVES BUSY

Pre-season floor battling got under way with a vim last night as more than a score of contests were staged.

South defeated Carrick, 29 to 15; Langley downed its alumni, 28 to 24; Allegheny trimmed the W. P. I. D. passers, 42 to 37; Connelley beat Oliver, 38 to 13, and the Alumni took over Westinghouse, 34 to 21, among the city schools.

Ambridge downed Stowe, 27 to 18; Aliquippa won from Butler, 23 to 20; Duquesne knocked off Rankin, 30 to 13; Washington upset Mt. Lebanon, 30 to 22; Braddock defeated Munhall, 23 to 22, and Dormont crushed Peters Township, 35 to 8, in other games.

SCHOOL NOTES

The Charlerol High School football banquet, originally scheduled for tomorrow evening in Charlerol, has been postponed until next Wednesday. Howard Harpster, coach at Carnegie Tech, will be the principal speaker.

Chick Taylor, Dr. H. C. Carlson, Chick Davies, Max Hannum and Henry Leucht will be the principal speakers at the basketball clinic to be staged tonight in Mt. Lebanon High School. Coaches and players from all high schools in this vicinity will attend.

Two attractive basketball games are scheduled for Friday, Bellevue and Perry tangle at Bellevue and Swissvale entertains the Pitt Freshies at Swissvale.

Coach Ray Henry, of Duquesne High, winner of the W. P. I. A. L. basketball championship last season, has a wealth of material available for this season's team. Three first-string players will form the nucleus.

McKeesport High School, coached by Frank Richmon, is another member of Section VII expected to have a powerful quintet, composed mainly of veterans. Bill Clees, who coached the football team, will have charge of the freshman squad at McKeesport.

Eleven experienced players compose the basketball squad at Glassport High School, where Roy Hickes is coach. Hickes plans to keep this number on his squad throughout the season.

SALIENT FACTS OF BASEBALL GATHERING

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Salient developments of the major league baseball meetings to date:

Lefty Grove goes to the Boston Red Sox for a reported price of $125,000. Rube Walberg and Max Bishop also go to the Red Sox for $50,000 in cash and Pitcher Bob Kline and Infielder Harold Warstler.

Mickey Cochrane sold to Detroit for reported cash sum of $100,000 and named managed of Tigers, replacing Bucky Harris, resigned.

George Earshaw sold to Chicago White Sox for $25,000 and Catcher Charley Berry. White Sox receive Catcher Johnny Pasek, Tiger rookie, who went to Philadelphia in the Cochrane deal and thence to White Sox.

Kenesaw Mountain Landis given new contract for seven years and one month at reported salary of $40,000 a year. One month tacked on so as to make term finish during annual major league meeting. New contract expires December 15, 1941.

Will Harridge given five-year term as president, secretary and treasurer of the American League.

Donie Bush, former Cincinnati and Pittsburgh manager, named pilot of Minneapolis club of American Association.

Major league club owners turn down proposal of inter-league games as suggested by the late president of the Cubs, William L. Veeck.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Bill Roper, the former Princeton football coach, who died the other day, was brought here several years ago as the guest speaker at a Duquesne University football banquet and tossed a bombshell into the evening's festivities by raking the sports scribes over the coals by deprecating their tendency to give too much credit to the ball carrier . . . He was a hard-fighting, two-fisted coach who believed in speaking his mind . . . And were the scribes' faces red, or pink, anyway?

The year now passing into history was anything but a financial success in a fistic way, but it developed some very emphatic results, notably the knockout of Max Schmeling by Max Baer and the fainting act of Jack Sharkey against Primo Carnera after the defending heavyweight champion had won the first five rounds handily . . . Not to mention Barney Ross' two victories over Tony Canzoneri with the lightweight title at stake both times, Ted Yarosz' two victories over Vince Dundee, after which Dundee went on to win the middleweight championship, and Jimmy McLarnin's capture of the welterweight crown with an amazingly speedy knockout victory over Young Corbett.

Red Grange, who still plays professionally, scored 31 touchdowns in 938 minutes of play and gained 2,637 yards from scrimmage in his three seasons as the Galloping Ghost of Illinois in 1923, '24 and '25 . . . His biggest day saw him score four touchdowns in the first 12 minutes of play and five in all against Michigan in 1924, including a 95-yard return of the opening kickoff . . . His next best effort came in his senior year against Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, when he scored three touchdowns and gained 363 yards.

Fritzie Zivic's next opponent in California, at Hollywood, Friday night, will be Vincent Martinez, who recently fought Ceferino Garcia . . . Both Fritzie and his brother, Eddie, should be polished performers by the time they come home with their manager, Luke Carney, and may fulfill the latter's prediction that they will become Pittsburgh's outstanding ring attractions . . . Young Jack Thompson, twice welterweight champion, is training on the Coast for a comeback campaign . . . He will box at 155 pounds.—HARRY KECK.

Loayza Stopped By Billy Petrolle

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(INS.)—The power of Billy Petrolle's punch was demonstrated last night at the Ridgewood Grove Club, Brooklyn, in a spectacular manner when the "Fargo Express" wrecked Stanislaus Loayza in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

Petrolle was the winner by a technical knockout when Loayza was compelled to retire with a temporary nerve paralysis in his left side after being battered to the floor by heavy body punches.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Fargo, N. D.—Mel Coleman defeated Johnny Simpson, 6 rounds.

At San Jose, Cal.—Baby Manuel knocked out Charley Mannian, 6 rounds.

At Los Angeles—Ceferino Garcia defeated Baby Joe Gans, 10 rounds; Bobby Pacho knocked out Kid Moro, 2 rounds.

PRO GRIDDERS HIT BY COAST CONFERENCE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Passage of a resolution "strongly opposing" professional football games in any stadium where college football is played was the highlight of yesterday's session that concluded the annual winter meeting of the Pacific Coast Conference.

The move to bar pro football originated in Los Angeles where sponsors of the "play for pay" type of game are seeking to lease the Coliseum. Southern California and the University of California at Los Angeles play their games in that stadium.

Representatives of the 10 Conference members, University of Southern California, University of California at Los Angeles, Montant, California, Stanford, Oregon State, Washington State, Washington, Idaho and Oregon voted unanimously in favor of the resolution.

Ice was piled on the car—then, at 20° below zero, water was sprayed all over it, except left front window. At 8 A. M. two days later, Miss Eloise Metz crawled through this window which was then covered with ice. Car was again sprayed and remained for 3½ hours at 20° below zero.

2. At 11:30 A. M. Miss Metz in this 2 ton iceberg was towed to business district of South Bend, Indiana. At command of "Contact", yelled through megaphone, Miss Metz turned "Startix" key. In exactly 3/5 of a second the motor was purring smoothly. Regular stock equipment on this car is Automatic Startix and Automatic Choke.

3. After the motor started the Chief of Police chopped away sufficient ice to permit Miss Metz to see in order to drive the car.

with BLUE SUNOCO THE ONLY TRUE BLUE MOTOR FUEL

Because of its sure-fire, quick starting ability, the motor fuel selected to demonstrate the split-second starting action of Studebaker motors was, obviously, Blue Sunoco.

The wisdom of this choice was proven beyond doubt. In exactly 3/5 of a second, this zero-cold motor snapped into action, and continued to run gently and smoothly.

with SUNOCO MERCURY MADE MOTOR OIL {NO. 20-W}

This test demonstrated beyond dispute, the wisdom of car manufacturers in recommending to their car owners the use of a new type of winter oil, 20W.

Without doubt, Sunoco 20W aided materially in this quick starting demonstration, because it not only lubricated instantly but permitted the battery to turn over the motor without the usual drag.

JAGNOW HOPE AT TECH

TARTANS LOSE STARS FROM LAST YEAR

By JESS CARVER

Maxmillian Eugene Hannum, who combines right niftily the duties of purveyor of sport publicity and basketball coach at Carnegie Tech, is thinking seriously these days of taking up sleight-of-hand. He figures that being able to pull a forward out of a hat or a guard from up his sleeve might prove a big help as he guides the destinies of his Tartans through another basketball campaign, his second as head coach of the Plaid.

While Pitt and the Dukes were losing only one outstanding performer from their 1932-33 teams between 'em, that one being Don Smith, of the Panthers, Maxie had his squad simply riddled. He lost Red Fergus, a great guard; Bobby Smith, one of the leading scorers in the district last year; Ed Stentz, veteran center, and Jerry Seigal, a hard-working and experienced guard.

JAGNOW BACK

On hand for this year's campaign, which will carry the Plaid through a 16-game schedule, Hannum has Capt. Lou Jagnow, a real ace in the hole if a pair of bum knees will hold up; George (Fraternity) Silverman, Ted Rigg, Bill Carson (maybe), John Ewalt and Brad Edelblut as lettermen and Gibson, Joe Macalka, Freedel, Lenz and Vukovich, reserves.

Capt. Jagnow appears to be the key to the Tech situation. Beset by tough luck throughout his entire career, the clever ball handler and accurate marksman hopes to be able to keep going this season, his last. If he does, the Tartans will be in fair shape. If he can't, then there may be little to shout over out at Carnegie.

Silverman, plenty small, but fast and smart, is a cinch to handle one of the guard positions. Gibson looms as a coming forward star and Ewalt, at center, and Rigg, at guard, round out what now appears to be the Tech starting varsity.

DUKE STARS OUT

Coach Chick Davies, of the Dukes, is reconciled to sending his varsity out against Waynesburg here Friday night for the season's inaugural minus two of its brightest stars, Paul Birch and Dudey Moore. Birch recently had his tonsils evacuated and won't be strong enough to get into action for a few days more, and Moore is suffering from an ankle injury.

With Birch and Moore on the hospital list, Art Feldman and Jim McDougal will go at the forwards, Irving Brenner will be at center and Marty Reiter and Joe Zerilla at the guards.

The list of applications for Elmer Layden's job as head coach at Duquesne has passed the 100 mark, with Joe Bach, Elmer's assistant for the past three years, and Dutch Bergman, of Catholic U., apparently far out in front. Bach has a lead on Bergman and looks like a 10-to-7 shot to win the position, which he richly deserves.

GET COAST OFFER

The Dukes yesterday received another offer for a post-season football game. The offer came from San Francisco, where they want the Dukes to meet Catholic U. of that city, either January 6 or 7. The offer likely will be refused.

Coach Layden and Graduate Manager John Holohan are booked to speak at an Irish reunion to be held by the All-Ireland Athletic Club in the K. of C. hall this evening.

The Geneva College quintet will be the attraction of the McKeesport Willigs in the McKeesport Y. M. C. A. tonight. The Willigs are members of the Allegheny County League.

Ponzi and Caras Lead Cue Tourney

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Andrew Ponzi, of Philadelphia, and James Caras, of Wilmington, Del., the only undefeated entrants in the world pocket billiards title battle, chalked up their cues today to defend their records.

Ponzi was matched in the first afternoon game with Charles Seaback, of Astoria, N. Y., who yesterday hoisted himself out of last place by defeating Benny Allen, of Kansas City, 125 to 117, in a 22-inning struggle. Caras will tackle Willie Mosconi, of Philadelphia, the youngest player in the tournament, tonight. Erwin Rudolph, of Cleveland, and Frank Taberski, of Schenectady, N. Y., who virtually ruined Greenleaf's title hopes last night, were paired in the second afternoon affair.

Greenleaf, holder of the title for the past four years, again faltered last night, losing to Taberski, 125 to 98 in 18 innings.

Manos and Meyers Win at Handball

Theos Manos, of the Keystone Athletic Club, and Steve Meyers, of the Downtown Y. M. C. A., advanced to the semi-finals of the annual Keystone Athletic Club invitation handball tournament today when they scored victories on the K. A. C. courts.

Manos defeated Carl Deberthine, of Downtown Y., 21-10, 16-21, 21-7, while Meyers defeated Dr. Lapidus, of the Y. M. H. A., 21-12, 21-10.

Yesterday Hrycko defeated Dave Olbum, 21-8, 21-9. Smith eliminated M. Hofer, 21-10, 21-8. Lapidus won over Reno, 21-13, 16-21, 21-13, and Meyers downed Bob Clark, 21-3, 20-21, 21-11 the idea of numbering the players and helped to put it into practice five years before the earliest date claimed elsewhere.

PENALTY SIGNALS ALSO USED HERE FIRST

Another instance in which outsiders modestly admit that they introduced a football improvement which really had its conception and first usage here has to do with the system whereby the officials on the field make known by a code of signs to announcers and spectators the nature of the offenses for which penalties are imposed. Formerly, writers and fans had to surmise what rules had been violated, the guesses rarely going beyond "offside" and "holding."

The sign system that now makes these things clear has been credited to Walter Okeson and other eastern men, but as a matter of fact it was suggested by the Sun-Telegraph, whereupon Elmer Layden worked out a code of his own and had it used in the games played by Duquesne University a whole year before it came into general practice. Even then, Layden was showing the progressiveness that finally won him the appointment to the country's most prominent coaching post at Notre Dame.

RING STARS PUSHOVERS IN STREET FIGHTS

Though Jess Willard recently was convicted of assault on a Negro truck driver and the latter's father near Los Angeles, witnesses testified that Willard was the one who took the going-over, and the experience of the former heavyweight champion leads a New York boxing veteran to marvel at the fact many ring stars are mere pushovers in street fights. He thinks the explanation is that the professional boxer automatically observes the Queensberry rules outside the ring, whereas the non-professional punches, gouges, kicks and even bites indiscriminately.

Jess Willard

Mickey Walker has been flattened more than once in chance encounters. A butcher boy and a gasoline station attendant were among those to take him. Ace Hudkins has had no luck in numerous battles outside the ropes. Battling Siki was man-handled many times in street brawls and finally was killed. Joe Dundee was knocked cold with one punch by a customer at Joe's garage who objected to the size of his bill. When the customer was told he had knocked out the former welterweight champion he promptly swooned. Kid Lavigne, Gunboat Smith, Young Corbett, Willie Ritchie, Jimmy Britt, Pepper Martin and others also appeared to be soft picking for untutored opponents. However, some ring luminaries who served their fistic apprenticeships in the streets could take care of themselves outside the ring as well as in it. Notable examples were Terry McGovern, Benny Leonard, Tom Sharkey, Kid McCoy, Ted Lewis, Jack Britton, Willie Schaefer, Owen Moran, Joe Bernstein and Jim Flynn.

propriate offer. Speaking of Malone, Gibson said:

"I realize that Malone has a lot of stuff and I think he could help any team that has a kid pitching staff, but the Pirate staff is composed mostly of veterans and we do not seek any oldtimers."

Gibson stated he would remain in the lobbies through today and tomorrow in the hope of acquiring a second baseman, but indications today were to the effect that none of the rival clubs were willing to give up their star keystone tenders.

Jewel Ens, former Pirate manager, is slated to become Cochrane's assistant as pilot of the Tigers, it was reliably reported today.

Magnates of both the National and American Leagues are understood to have approved a continuation of the policy by which individual clubs will determine whether games are to be broadcast by radio.

BENSWANGER ON BOARD

William Walker, acting president of the Chicago Cubs since the death of William Veeck, was elected to the National League board of directors to succeed Veeck.

Other members of the board are Charles Stoneham, New York; Judge Emil Fuchs, Boston, and William A. Benswanger, Pittsburgh. Stoneham was elected vice president to succeed the late Barney Dreyfuss.

Chuck Klein, the Cubs' new slugger, today was listed as baseball's No. 1 holdout. It was reliably reported that Chuck had turned down a one-year contract calling for $22,000 and demanded a three-year document calling for $27,500 a year.

Roger Peckinpaugh, former manager of the Cleveland Indians, was signed today to pilot the Kansas City Blues, of the American Association. The Boston Red Sox also announced a working agreement with the Kansas City club.

BETWEEN ROUNDS

Joey Bazzone, McKeesport welterweight boxer, is nursing an infected left hand which may cost him the thumb and will keep him on the sidelines for several weeks at the very least.

Courthouse officials will hold a benefit amateur boxing show at the Allegheny Elks' Club next Tuesday night.

The Greater Pittsburgh boxing championship tournament has been awarded to the Pittsburgh Boys' Club and the A. M. A. senior Golden Gloves affair to Islam Grotto.

Al Quaill, Steve Kobeda and Felix Casiato, of the Pittsburgh Lyceum, will box in an intercity show in Detroit, Friday night.

Jimmy Smith and Young Terry both are expected in town today for their 10-round feature bout at the North Side Arena, Friday night.

Teddy Movan will box Frank McLaughlin for the amateur welterweight championship of McKeesport in the show in the Palisades Rink tomorrow night. Ten bouts are listed.

The Al Becker-Anson Green bout scheduled as the semi-final at the Arena Friday night is off. Becker's parents objecting to his continuing to box. As a result, there will be four six-round preliminaries instead of two six-rounders and three four-rounders.

HUNK WRITES OWN STORY

What does Hunk Anderson, Notre Dame's football coach of the past three seasons, think of his dismissal in favor of Elmer Layden, of Duquesne University?

The man who succeeded Knute Rockne and piloted the Fighting Irish through their most disastrous season this fall has been noncommunicative since the ax descended upon his bared neck over the last week-end. He hasn't said anything in his defense. He has taken his medicine in silence.

But what are his thoughts? Is he bitter? Is he resigned to his fate?

He tells them in his first public statement in an exclusive signed story in tomorrow's Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

LOCAL LACROSSE TEAM WINS

ter, and Albert Vincent, tricky, raven-haired forward, played leading roles in Pittsburgh's victory, the former caging two goals on unassisted efforts, and the latter accounting for three tallies after brilliant thrusts through the Milwaukee defense. Chuck Davidson, who scored twice to give the Bruins a 2-0 lead before the Jackets had "found themselves," and DeGray, who accounted for two spectacular goals later in the fight, were the big guns of the visitors' attack.

The Bruins held the locals, who successfully defended their world championship while playing as the Montreal Canadiens last year, on rather even terms in the first two periods, but were unable to maintain the blistering pace and ran themselves almost into exhaustion as the Jackets dropped back and played largely a defensive game toward the finish.

Mayor John S. Herron appeared upon the floor to drop the ball for the first face-off, and H. B. Taber, of Buffalo, president of the association, was one of the particularly interested spectators. The Westinghouse Band entertained before the game and between periods.

The fans appeared to look kindly upon the fast, rough, sustained action and frequent scoring which lacrosse provides. It would not be surprising were it here to stay.

HOCKEY STAR ARRESTED

BOSTON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Ace Bailey, Toronto Maple Leafs hockey player, was found to have a fractured skull and Conn Smythe, manager of the team, was arrested for assault and battery today as the result of a disturbance at the Maple Leafs-Boston Bruins game here last night.

Dr. Martin Crotty, the club physician, said Bailey had a five-inch fracture extending back from his forehead. He said the hockey player's condition was serious, but by no means critical and he had shown marked improvement since last night.

Eddie Shore, Bruins defense man, who suffered a head injury when he was struck by a blow from the fist of Red Horner, of the Toronto team, was at his home and Dr. Crotty said he would be taken to the hospital today and his head X-rayed. Shore received a cut which necessitated seven stitches to close when he was knocked down by Horner.

The injuries were part of one of the wildest fracases ever witnessed during a hockey game in Boston. The trouble developed in the second period. Shore tripped on Horner's stick and fell against the boards. As he got up, Bailey had the puck and was looking for a teammate. Shore crashed into him, knocking him to the ice.

Three More Stars Join East Team

HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Charles Ceppi, Princeton tackle; Beattie Feathers, Tennessee halfback, and Tom Hupke, Alabama guard, have been added to the list of players who will compete for the East against the West in the annual East-West football game at San Francisco New Year's Day.

GOVERNMENT AIDS SMALL BANKS

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—At least it can no longer be said that our large banks are not willing to cooperate with the government in seeking to strengthen the financial structure.

Now comes the great National City Bank (New York) and joins the growing list of institutions which have increased their liquid capital by selling preferred stock to the government.

Unquestionably, some banks have been more inclined to restrict their loans than they would have been had they possessed more capital. This has by no means been a general condition. But not a few banks have been forced by conditions to carry such a large amount of slow or doubtful assets that they have naturally adopted an ultra-conservative loan policy.

In view of possible losses to stockholders, they have kept extra liquid.

SUCCESS ASSURED

This applies particularly to the smaller banks of the interior, and chiefly to these, the government has sought to give aid by increasing their capital through subscriptions to preferred stock.

One difficulty, however, has been the fear that acceptance of such subscriptions would be taken by the public as a confession of weakness. That such a stigma is now hardly justiced appears from the fact that 12 or more good-sized New York banks have taken the desired action, and now the National City Bank, by its action, virtually assures the success of the scheme.

MUST BE SOLVENT

Certainly this bank is solvent. Furthermore, it is earning two times the dividend on its stock. Since it does not actually need the additional capital, its action can be called a co-operative one.

In my opinion, however, this big bank also sees in this move a chance to increase its liquid capital and thus get ready for expanding loans and investments. It is diffcult these days to raise new capital by selling stock. Now the government underwrites the bank's issue of $50,000,000 of 5 per cent cummulative preferred stock. This will enable it to write down any doubtful assets, or to set up reserves for slow assets, offsetting the "write downs" by an increase in cash.

HEAVY SUBSCRIPTIONS

How much of the new preferred stock will actually be taken by the government (RFC) is not known. It is available to present stockholders, and considerable subscriptions by them seem probable. A five per cent cumulative preferred bank stock, in a sense backed by the government, has its attractions. Being retirable, however, the price is not likely to be quite so high as it would otherwise be.

VOTING POWER

In due time, the government will probably have representation on the board, since the preferded stock has "cumulative voting" power (that is, each share for as many votes as there are directors). The preferred stock has about 28 per cent of the total voting power, and if the government subscribes for half, it could elect three or four directors.

But I am advised that government participation in the management is not contemplated at present. No government control is possible unless the bank passes two dividends on the preferred stock, which seems practically out of the question. In any event, certain matters of policy are reserved for decision by the common stockholders, and these have exclusive power to retire the preferred stock.

'SOCIALIEZD BANKING'

Of course, the terms imposed on weaker banks may be more onerous, but the scheme as a whole may become an entering wedge for "socialized banking," which I think highly undesirable.

But the National City Bank's arrangement doesn't seem to be in this direction, and I see no weakening in the position of its common stock. The reduction in its capitalization merely enables the bank to increase its reserves.

Railroad Car Builders Expect Orders Soon

By GEORGE H. SNYDER
Business Editor

PROSPECTS FOR MAKERS or railroad cars and air brakes are becoming brighter. Some lines actually are beginning to show interest in the purchase of equipment.

It is improbable that the building of new cars will reach the extravagant prediction made several months ago by Railroad Co-ordinator Eastman, but a large number of cars may be ordered soon for construction in the coming year.

This work will help not only the car builders themselves but equipment makers such as Westinghouse Air Brake and New York Airbrake.

Inquiries Represent Actual Requirements

THE RAILROADS refused to follow Eastman's suggestion that they borrow heavily from government agencies and purchase equipment in anticipation of the needs of future traffic. They were unwilling to burden themselves with increased interest charges when additional facilities were not needed.

The inquiries for bids on new cars to be placed represent actual needs in most cases. The railroads have not bought cars in any great numbers for several years. While there are many good order cars not in use throughout the country, some individual lines actually need new equipment to replace obsolete cars.

Locomotive Orders May Be Placed Soon

LITTLE HAS BEEN heard about the possibilities of purchases of locomotives in spite of the fact that the use of new equipment of this type might give the carriers a chance to make savings in operating costs. Not a single order for a steam locomotive has been placed by a railroad in the last two years although a few have been built by railroads themselves.

It is understood, however, that orders for 150 to 200 locomotives may be placed in the near future.

WAR ON FRANC LAID TO U. S.

PARIS, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—A systematic drive against the franc, particularly in New York and London, was charged by Treasury officials today.

Georges Bonnet, minister of finance, in an effort to allay rumors of impending devalorization, planned to go before the Senate Friday and tell the legislators that the franc is solid because of the progress toward balaring of the budget and the consequent revival of public confidence.

A semi-official statement said the idea of the devalrization was "absurd."

Baldwin Get Order For Ten Engines

ST. PAUL, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Negotiations for the purchase of 10 steam passenger locomotives, costing $1,250,000, by the Baldwin Locomotive Works of Philadelphia were concluded yesterday, C. C. Kyle, purchasing agent of the Northern Pacific Railway, said.

Kyle said he expected construction of these locomotives would be completed and that they would be delivered for the summer travel of 1934.

STOCK TRADING COOLS WITH WEATHER

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Trading fervor cooled with the weather in financial markets today and stocks and staples, while not too heavy, appeared to be unable to attract any noticeable support from the speculative forces.

The dollar cut no unusual capers in foreign exchange dealings, as the domestic gold price again was unchanged, but it moved up more than 2 cents in terms of sterling and around .04 of a cent in relation to the franc. Wheat sagged about a cent a bushel at one time, and other cereals were moderately lower. Cotton and various commodities were barely steady. United States government securities were a bit firmer, but corporation bonds lagged.

Utility company shares, including those of Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey and North American, improved fractionally to around a point. Postal Telegraph preferred, International Telephone and Western Union were slightly above water. Among losers of about a point were Eastman Kodak, Armour preferred, Columbian Carbon and Johns-Manville. American Telephone, United States Steel, Allied Chemical, American Can, Chrysler, New York Central, Santa Fe, National Distillers and similar leaders were unchanged to a bit lower.

Although brokerage houses reported optimistic sentiment was still in the ascendant, they also found that traders were exhibiting considerable caution because of the belief in some circles that some sort of a technical reaction was due before the advance could be resumed on a broad scale.

Various chart readers and market analysts were advising a sideline position for the moment, but the majority were still bullish for the advance after a temporary adjustment. Just how far a technical reaction might carry was a matter of much discussion. Some observers believed there might be only a slight setback, or none at all. These pointed to indications that the economic picture is growing daily brighter.

Followers of the communications stocks were interested in the news from Washington that the special interdepartmental committee had submitted a report to the President which, as to the telegraph companies, favored a monopoly under strict federal regulation. Regarding the Western Union-Postal phase, the committee considered three possibilities: First, the present status would be permitted to continue; second, a strict government monopoly, and, third, government ownership.

DOLLAR STRONG ON EXCHANGE

Associated Press.

Further strength was exhibited by the dollar in foreign exchange markets today as the domestic gold price continued to hold at $34.01 an ounce.

At Lordon the dollar gained some 2 cents on the pound, closing at $4.05⅝, while at Paris it finished at an equivalent of 6.03 cents to the franc for a gain of 25 centimes.

Sterling in New York sagged 2¾ cents to $5.03 and the franc yielded 04 of a cent at 6 cents. Trading was quiet in all centers.

In terms of the franc, the dollar was valued at approximately 65.33 per cent of parity. Its value, estimated by the domestic gold rate, was still about 60.77 per cent of its former parity.

BARNES NAMED IN TRUST SUIT

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Julius H. Barnes, former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, was a defendant today in a suit by stockholders of Insuranshares Corporation, an investment trust, alleging "squandering and misapplication of assets" after Barnes and his associates acquired control of the corporation.

Barnes was named in one of the three suits filed late yesterday in the stockholders' action. The suits also name 16 other directors in the various companies of the American Founders' Group, of which the Insuranshares Corporation was a unit.

Some Hope Shown by Chicago

By B. C. FORBES

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—What is happening in New York is happening in Chicago, only more so.

Apprehension is giving way to a new degree of hopefulness in high places.

Mr. Forbes

THESE ARE the main causes:

First—Growing confidence that disaster-breeding currency inflation will be avoided.

Second—Less alarm over NRA and rising faith that industry and business will be permitted some reasonable measure of self-government. Several industries are beginning to reap benefits from modification of ruinous price cutting.

Third—President Roosevelt's hold on the country is regarded as so strong that Congress is unlikely to attempt to frustrate any of his important policies.

Fourth—Trade has shown persistent vitality all through recent weeks of hesitancy in top circles.

Sixth—Security prices after their boomlet and reaction, have again exhibited buoyancy.

Seventh—Improved dividend payments are being announced daily. Also, later corporation earnings statements usually exceed expectations.

Eighth—Washington's spending machinery has finally begun to function in earnest, with every indication that anything and everything approaching social disturbance will be effectively averted. Agriculture, business, labor alike are benefiting.

Ninth—Economic recovery is under way throughout most of the world.

Tenth—Foundations for a new era of prosperity have been and are being laid here—and the majority of our people now look for better rather than worse times. That is not least important.

MELVIN TRAYLOR, the ex-Southern farm lad who now heads Chicago's First National Bank, feels encouraged over America's outlook. This notwithstanding that Chicago's leading bankers have had their share to combat—troubles of their own and other peoples troubles, including civic.

This Lincolnesque figure smiling characteristically, replied to my questioning:

"The country isn't going to the bow-wows. Things are distinctly better. And there's no insuperable reason why they shouldn't continue to move in the right direction."

CHICAGO'S MOST colorful character, Gen. Dawes, expatcher-up of European peace, ex-ambassador to Britain, of "Hell-and-Maria" and underslung pipe fame, has been doing what many other bankers and business men have been doing, namely, intently studying past economic and financial crises in the world's history.

He has reached the conclusion that midnight has struck and that dawn is at hand. Once really going, recovery may bring rapid pleasant surprises. The books say so.

HEADS OF Western railroads are delighted over the public's response to drastically reduced fares. Eastern roads are expected to become convinced of the wisdom of following the West's example, at least part way.

PUBLIC UTILITY executives here, as elsewhere, complain bitterly that the federal government is spending billions of taxpayers' money—including recently increased taxes on utilities—to help all classes and groups in the land and on the land except utility companies, and that the government is donating money to municipalities and other public bodies to create duplicate facilities to compete with existing utility properties owned by myriads of taxpaying investors.

I learn that the utility industry is actively planning "to do something about it."

In view of the Insull history, in view of President Roosevelt's and Congress' attitude, the task will not be easy. But utility executives vow they mean business and that they have faith in the final outcome.

place," she remarked, scornfully, "or to see the show at the Chatham or the Bowery. What kind of girl do you think I am?"

"A pretty one, ma'am, and a good rebel, and I don't care whether you come from the Old Brewery or Cow Bay or the Golden Gate or Dickens' place—"

"Maybe you'd like to take me to see Chanfrau play 'Mose,'" she said disdainfully, "or to the Franklin or Manger's. Let me illuminate your innocent mind, young sir—the Astor Place Opera is the only theater where I care to be seen."

This was so delightfully impudent that they both laughed—she, of course, in character.

"Well," she said, "I've had enough of backrooms. Can't you think of something new?"

"Castle Hastings?" he asked cautiously.

"And Empress Kate and the Marchioness d'Orsay and Princess Jenny? No, thanks. But I see you're a highflyer, young sir, so I'll wish you good night."

At Her Disposal

"No, I don't drink. I like to talk and eat ice cream, sometimes."

"We can go to that steam ice creamery, then."

"Too far. There's an ice creamery on Broadway near Tenth street."

They went thither. She took his arm and they chatted amiably, and exchanged names. Hers was Mary Dale of Fairfax.

In the ice creamery they found a table. She had a chicken sandwich, some chocolate and vanilla ice cream. And by this time she had led the conversation into channels which interested her and made him uneasy.

"When you were coming out of Niblo's," she said, "I heard you mention Claire Quilter, a girl I used to know. Can you tell me where she lives?"

"No, I can't," said Andrews hastily; "I don't know her at all."

"If you don't know her, how did you happen to mention her? Do you know where she is living?"

The boy gave her a scared glance. "What are you, anyway?" he asked.

"You picked me up; you ought to know," she replied.

Frightened Boy

"I don't know, and I'm beginning to wonder which of us did the picking up."

She laughed. "What do you mean?"

"Maybe you know what I mean."

"I don't."

"You're very innocent—to look at!"

"Are you trying to be disagreeable?"

"I'm trying not to be a fool," said the boy. "This city is full of innocent-looking ladies and gentlemen in the pay of the Federal Government."

"Are you trying to scare me because I'm a rebel?"

"You say you are."

After a silence: "I'm wondering," she said, "whether you are a Federal detective."

"I'm wondering about you, too," he retorted, reddening.

"Very well," said she; "you heard me say I hoped for a Confederate victory. And I do. So make the most of it—if you're a Yankee detective."

"Well," she added impudently, "why don't you arrest me?"

"Look here," he said, "I believe you're a Federal spy!"

She said coolly: "Tell that to my friend, Jack Gailliard, and see what he'll do to you, Mr. Andrews."

"I'll tell Jack Gailliard and Claire Quilter, too!" he blurted out. "And when you finish your ice cream I'll let you run home, my pretty little stool pigeon!"

"Then I'll run along now," said the girl, rising. "Good night, and thank you."

On His Trail

Not far. There was a city hack standing on the opposite side of the street. She sped across and climbed in, and said to the driver: "Wait here. When I tell you to follow somebody, follow. Your tip will be five dollars."

"Correct, lady. Is it a gal or a swell?"

"A swell. I'll point him out. There he is, now!" as her late cavalier emerged, looked up and down Broadway—rather wistfully, she thought—then walked away westward through Tenth street.

The hack followed, horse walking, as young Mr. Andrews continued on down the dusky street to University place, and south to Eighth street and Clinton place.

At No. 123 he mounted the steps. It was a boarding house. He let himself in with a latchkey. Operator 13 saw him no more that night.

The next morning a shabby, gray-haired maiden lady in spectacles who said she was a school teacher from Princess Anne, driven out by war, and that her name was Miss Lydia Warfield Trimble, called at 123 Clinton place to inquire timidly about lodgings.

There was none to be had, it appeared, but Miss Trimble might get meals there.

This from a breezy young lady in a bewitching "polka" or monkey jacket.

Miss Quilter

"I'm Miss Claire Quilter," she said, smiling; "I board here; and I know there's no room except at table. I'm truly sorry, ma'am."

"Oh dear!" said Operator 13 in gentle perplexity behind her spectacles.

"The meals are very nice," remarked Miss Quilter. "Real southern cooking."

"I've had none recently," said the shabby school teacher wistfully.

There was always a little quaver in her voice, and the peering expression of her near-sighted eyes through the spectacles was painful in its earnestness.

"Breakfast is ready now," suggested Miss Quilter; "lay off your shawl and bunnit and try Miss Dorn's fried mush."

So Operator 13, arm in arm with Claire Quilter, descended to the basement dining room and was made ceremoniously acquainted with several other boarders, and with the pallid landlady, a thin, fretful Virginia gentlewoman named Mrs. Carter Dorn.

It was a lavish breakfast and a fried one. But what interested the gray-haired school teacher from Princess Anne was Mr. Clive Andrews, opposite her, eating fried mush, bacon, eggs and chicken a la Maryland.

It did not take long for the quiet, well-behaved little company to detect in Miss Lydia Warfield Trimble of Princess Anne, another pathetic victim of Yankee barbarity. Operator 13 attended to that.

It was nicely done on their part; no vulgar snooping or impudent curiosity; and, on Operator 13's part, merely a hint of patient resignation and a trace of pinched suffering on a Virginia school teacher's gentle, sensitive face.

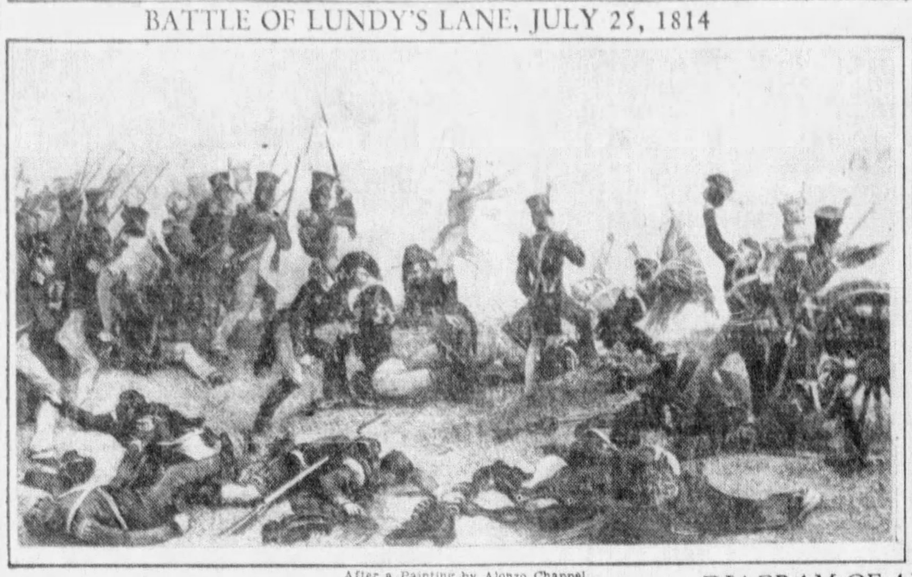
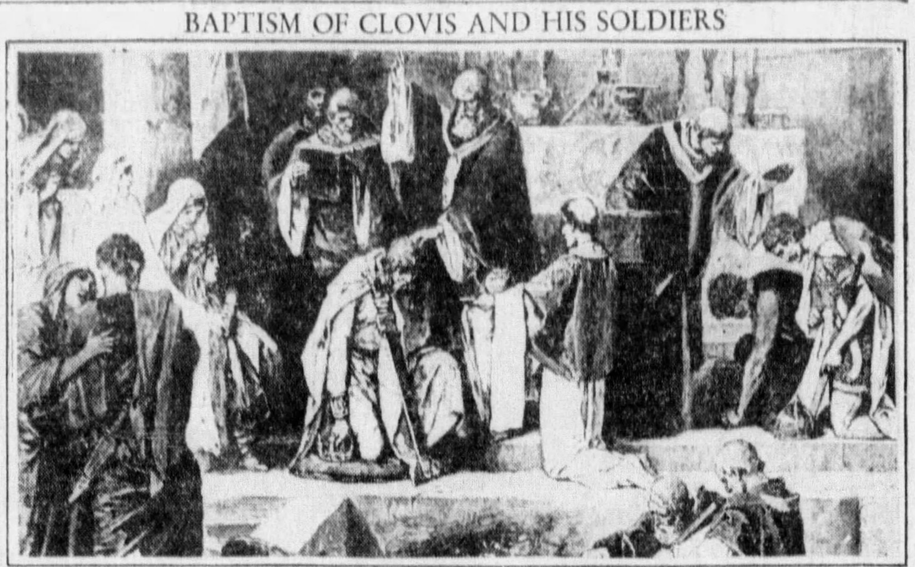
BATTLE OF LUNDY'S LANE, JULY 25, 1814



After a Painting by Alonzo Chappel.

During the War of 1812-1815 United States troops fought several times on Canadian soil, last at Lundy's Lane near Niagara Falls. The American generals, J. Brown and W. Scott, were seriously wounded, the battle ending in a draw. A month later the British raided Washington, D. C., setting afire the White House, Capitol and other buildings. Their attack on Baltimore was frustrated by the spirited defense of Ft. Henry. (U. S. History)

BAPTISM OF CLOVIS AND HIS SOLDIERS



The fifth century saw the development of kingdoms of Germanic peoples swallowing portions of the collapsed Western Roman empire. Visigoths were established in Southern France and Spain; Vandals in North Africa, Ostrogoths in Italy; Burgundians in the Rhone territory. Franks, another Germanic people, were expanding from the Rhine west and southward. Frankish King Clovis (466-511) conquered the independent princedoms, uniting them under his strong rule extending over parts of today's Germany, France, Netherlands, Switzerland, etc. In 496 Clovis, with 3,000 soldiers, embraced Christianity, securing loyalty of his Christian subjects and friendship of the Pope in Rome. Clovis' descendants had an important role in protecting Christianity from Moslem invasions in the seventh and eighth centuries. (World History)

CHEESE MAKING (Gen. Science)

Casein of milk is precipitated as solid (curd) by dilute acids, alcohol and enzymes: rennet (from lining of calve stomach) or pepsin (from hog stomach). Bacterial fermentation of milk sugar into lactic acid makes milk sour and precipitates casein (milk curdles). These processes are basic for cheese making. Milk is inoculated with Lactobacillus bulgaricus; after standing it is heated (84°-88° F.) and rennet added. Casein coagulates to curd, is cut, then "cooked" (98°-100° F.), separated from the liquid (whey), milled, salted, packed into moulds, dipped in paraffin and ripened in a cool place. Differences in bacteria, fermentation, working, gives the different flavor and texture of cheese. Whey, the by-product, is a valuable feed. Above: Inside view of a cheese factory.

THE LAST HEROISM OF SIR PHILIP SIDNEY

Sir Philip Sidney, the poet, was mortally wounded at the Battle of Zutphen. Water was brought to him with great difficulty. About to drink, his eye caught the gaze of a wounded soldier dying of thirst. Sir Philip handed him the water untasted: "Soldier, thy necessity is greater than mine." (Character Building)

Fumbling the Check Again

Hotel chefs are delighted because they can again dish up their culinary triumphs shellacked in legal paints, oils and varnishes.

First of all, they are going to trot out that noble creation of the artistic boniface known as the rum omelet.

We will give you a recipe that has been in the family for years. Take one egg to a quart of rum. Mix well in fireless cooker, wave it three times around your head and drink gently but firmly. From that time you can use your nose as a pilot light for starting forest fires.

Now, there is a thing they call crepe suisse. That consists of six waffles smothered in one half-dozen different cordials. Pour grenadine and vermouth over the first waffle. Fry it evenly all around. Use brandy on the second and claret on the third. On the fourth waffle pour a delicious boiler compound mixed with mint juleps and stir until you see a rainbow over the frying pan.

The family may not like it. But no one will dare to criticize your cooking. You are monarch of all you survey with the aid of a skillet and two headache tablets.

It has been 13 years since the hotel chefs poured contraband exhilarator over their sour and dill concoctions. A very nice dish is a whole eggplant in port wine. You use the eggplant for a channel buoy and give it a wide berth. Just sail around it and wave at it.

An artichoke smothered in creme de menthe is very sporty. You nibble the outside leaves until you reach the center where you will find a note from your teacher telling you that school is out and you can stay home for the holidays.

This return to old-fashioned cuisine means a revolution in eating. During those 13 years of non-participating policies we have learned to like spinach for itself alone.

Of course, if they are going to spray spinach with insectides and antiseptic cordials we will conquer our pride and swallow the rebuff. After all, they wasted a lot of that stuff on beetles and weevils.

The new style of cooking is the old style. The pendulum has swung back and curfew shall ring tonight. Once again we adopt that flowery French method of disguising food on the American plan. And even the complete teetotaler must salute the Olympian elixir that will convert the melancholy parsnip into a thing of beauty.

We advise a little wine with meals. Never be the sixth man at the table when five other guys are fumbling the check.

A Waste of Tax Money

The National Economy League Shows One Way in Which Municipal Expenses Can Be Reduced.

The protest against continuing oxcart government in the era of the automobile is becoming more vociferous.

While we await the elimination of counties, townships, boroughs, school districts and poor districts created a hundred years ago and now unnecessary, the Western Pennsylvania Branch of the National Economy League points to another possible elimination that would save the taxpayers of Pittsburgh much money.

In a letter to the Mayor and members of Council the executive committee of the Western Pennsylvania Branch of the league states that it has cost the city during the last five years approximately $601,101.87 to appraise city property for taxation purposes. The same property is also appraised by the county, the committee says, and they see no logical reason for the duplication.

There is no good reason for the duplication. Money is being wasted in the maintenance of two assessment boards, and it is to be hoped that the waste will soon be stopped. There is encouragement in the fact that the newly-elected Democratic members of Council are favorable to a consolidation of city and county assessment boards.

A Ridiculous Complaint

A Business Leader Asks Time to Consider Child Labor Amendment, Pending for Nine Years.

Philip H. Gadsden, head of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, warns the "vast business interests of Pennsylvania" that danger confronts them in the social legislation now before the Legislature.

He complains that time is not being afforded to study and debate the proposals.

How ridiculous this complaint is may be judged from the fact that one of the proposals that he desires time to study is the Child Labor Amendment to the United States Constitution. One might suppose from what Gadsden says that this proposal had just been sprung, suddenly and unexpectedly, on the people.

The fact is, it was submitted by Congress for ratification in 1924, and already has been ratified by 16 states.

Pennsylvania should ratify it without further delay.

Tax Delinquency

The Remitting of Penalties and Interest On Back Taxes Has Not Proved Satisfactory.

Under a new legislative enactment Philadelphians are excused from interest and penalties on delinquent city and school taxes for 1931 or any previous year if they pay the taxes before May 1, 1934. A bill extending concessions of the same character to delinquent Pittsburgh taxpayers is pending.

We have expressed the opinion that the extension of such favoritism to delinquents was unfair to taxpayers who paid promptly and might encourage delinquency by holding out the hope that further concessions would be granted.

Our doubt of the wisdom of the legislation is confirmed by the findings of the National Municipal League, which has just completed a careful study of tax delinquency in American cities. It says:

"The experience of both states and cities studied thus far discredits the method of trying to persuade tax delinquents to pay up by remitting penalties, offering discounts or other inducements, in lieu of vigorous enforcement of the law as it stands. If anything, such tempering of the wind to the tax delinquent is shown to have been conducive to further delays of payment, in anticipation of further favors.

"The minimum of tax delinquency is reported from the comparatively small group of cities which from the outset of the depression have vigorously enforced the tax laws, and instead of easing down have increased their efforts to prevent delinquency as taxes grew more difficult to collect. Most of these cities, Providence as an outstanding example, report from 90 per cent to 97 per cent of their taxes fully paid in."

Ninety to 97 per cent compares with 71.5 per cent of Pittsburgh's city taxes for 1933 paid up to December 1.

The Spann bill abating penalties on delinquent Pittsburgh taxes has one commendable provision; it authorizes the payment of delinquent taxes in installments. This, we learn from the National Municipal League, is one of the practices in the cities with the best collections.

It would be worth our while to study all the methods in these cities. Their experience indicates that there are many delinquents in Pittsburgh who could pay their taxes if they cared to. Their failure to do so is making the burden greater for others.

'Only One Knute Rockne'

And a Few Other Reflections.

That shake-up at Notre Dame prompts several more or less profound thoughts on the game of football in particular, and the game of life in general.

One is that a genius is born seldom in football as in everything else.

There have been several thousand competent coaches since gridirons were gridirons, but there has been only one Knute Rockne.

The man who has to step into a genius' shoes has a tough time filling them, no matter how experienced and conscientious he may be.

We don't think that Anderson and the others who had to try to fill them at Notre Dame need feel especially disappointed at their hard luck.

Following Rockne was a big order for anybody.

Perhaps the new man, Layden, of Duquesne University, will find things easier.

He will certainly have the good wishes of Pittsburghers and millions of Notre Dame fans from every section of the country.

And by the way, while we're on this subject, let us shed a philosophic tear for that saddest of all sad figures, the EX-gridiron hero.

It is true that he has had his "crowded hour of glorious life" (poetry), but unless he develops into a professional, or a pug, or a wrestler, there is small fame and less money in sight for him.

He can't be a bond salesman any more, as he used to.

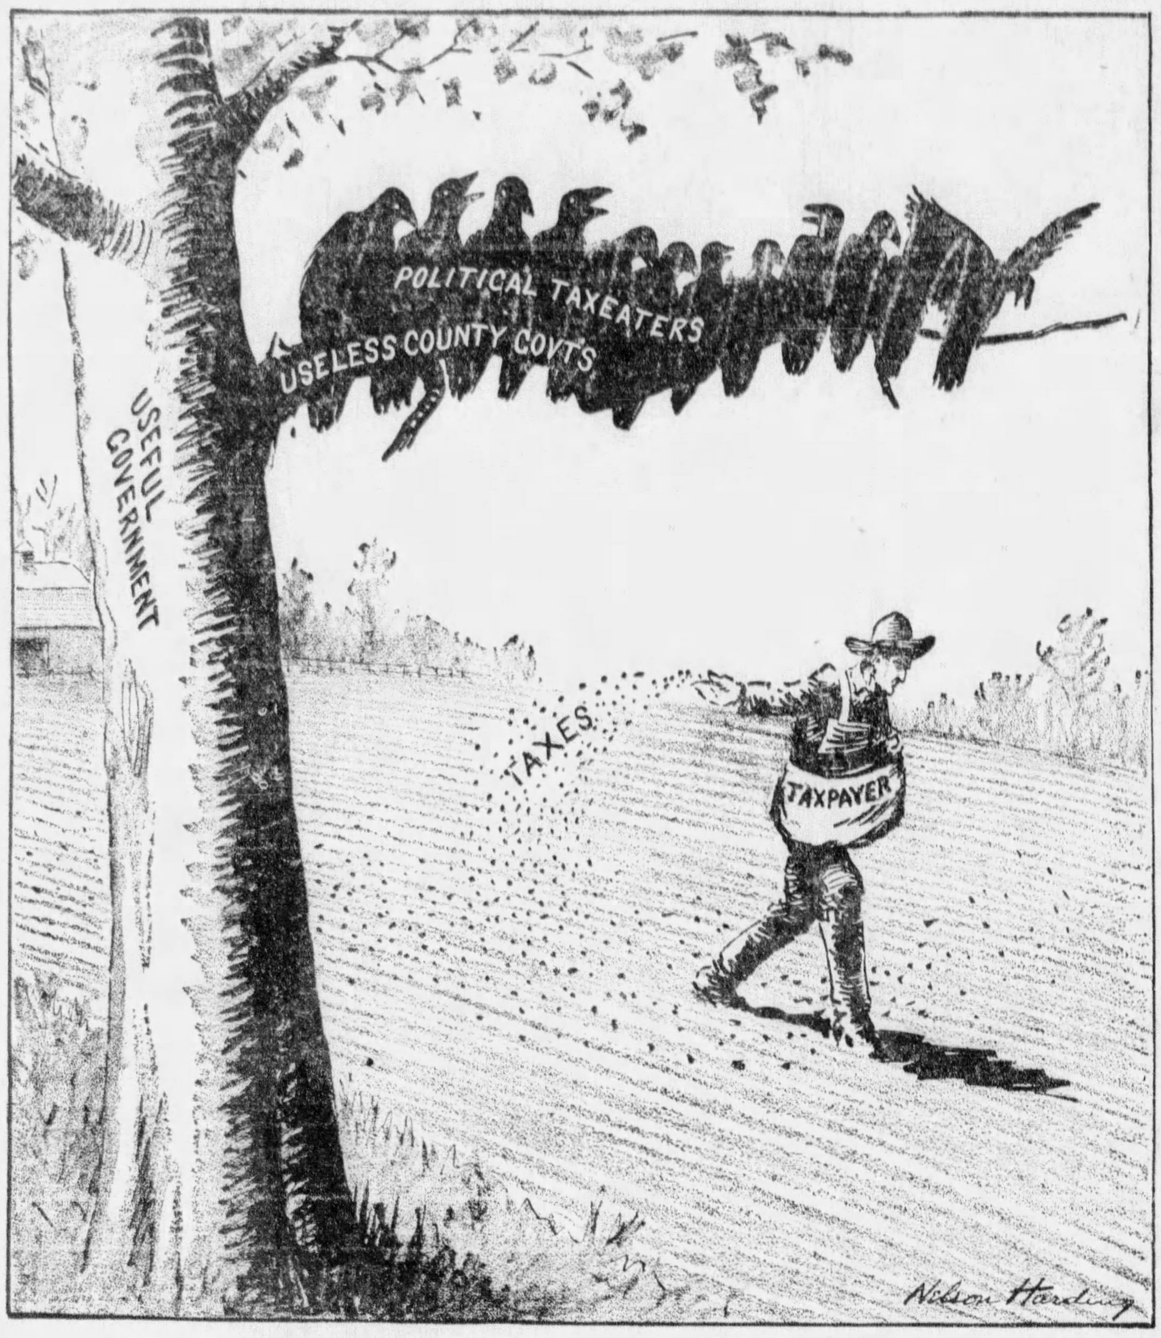
Brother, can you spare a handkerchief while we grieve for him?

Crows on a Dead Limb

By Nelson Harding



Dead limbs, as everybody knows,
Make comfortable seats for crows.
On these convenient perches rest
Agriculture's ancient pest.

The worker cultivates the soil
But profits little from his toil
When all that flock, with eager greed,
Swoops down and gobbles up the seed.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—A week at the Palace, once the goal of every vaudeville artist, is today merely seven days of ghostly memories for old-timers. So many unhappy recollections they would rather be routed elsewhere. Wings that fluttered with "nerves" are now static as the morgue.

Sunday opening bills at the Palace were so electrical with expectancy that the contagious tingle swept to audiences. Al Jolson, who fears premieres with unreasonable terror, never played the Palace. Ed Wynn's voice would flute off into a real squeak opening there.

Today the Palace is a family theater and doing fairly well. But the four-a-day monotony offers no inspiration for the delightful ad-libbing of yore. Everything is mechanically timed to the split second. The best they allow a "piffawmer," who wows 'em, is a hurried bow.

The old Palace doorman is at Music Hall. Music publishers and agents do not fill the backstage halls and dressing rooms. Instead sox and tie vendors and the usual tailor. The single oldtime flavor left: Variety and Billboard solicitors seeking ballyhoo ads!

Morgan Robertson, who wrote such fascinating sea tayles, kept a ship model on his desk. Without it he could make no headway. Arthur Somers Roche is totally lost without a green eye-shade. He buys them by the gross. Rupert Hughes writes best after midnight but likes to have his wife, Pat, curled in a deep-cushioned arm chair in his study. Kathleen Norris enjoys writing outdoors in the California sunshine. The late Harris Merton Lyon liked to work where he could hear street cars go bump. Although he never used it, Edgar Wallace always kept one of those rocking blotters on his desk.

Joan Crawford does not seem to have mastered the technique of indifference to the public accolade. When the crowds congealed about her wherever she appeared on her New York visit, she stood tremulously poised as though seeking some avenue for flight. Yet this very languishing bewilderment appeals to the slightly sadistic Manhattan mass psychology. In one large department store she visited not a single sale was registered from entrance to exist. Everybody was gawking.

My celebrity worship along New York streets was keenest for the tenor Caruso when he swung into the avenue from Forty-second on his late afternoon promenade. With his cane military fashion, his chest in enormous puff and the wrist flap of one canary chamois glove turned jauntily down, he was the most portentous figure of the time.

Valentino appeared serenely unconscious of his celebrity. There was the time he stepped from his car in front of the Ritz and, after saying farewell to the occupants, turned to find the sidewalk blocked by those spotting him. "This hotel must be on fire!" he said in alarm. Then he realized the cause—and blushed furiously.

Irvin Cobb in dedicating his most recent mystery novel to Maj. Raymond Dickson, of Houston, Texas, sent first copy off the press to the Major. The day it arrived, Cobb received from Dickson a no-regard-for-expense telegram, three pages long. It dripped with the honeyed sentiment of an old and deathless friendship, beautifully glowing with memories of nights around the campfire after the hunt, of their blissful days of fishing along clear streams in old Mexico, Canada and the Major's native Texas. When Cobb laid the telegram down his eyes shone with suspicious mist. Two hours later as he was lidding his typewriter there came another telegram from the Major. Brief and to the point, it inquired: "Listen, sucker, do I have to read it?"

My choice for the neatest in book dedications was in one of F. Scott Fitzgerald's to his wife: "Again to Zelda!"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

These Gimme Kids . . . How Do They Get That Way?

These Gimme Kids—you know them by the score. Arrogant, greedy little moderns, always clamoring for more. More fine feathers. More freedom. Snarling and snapping like young wolves if they can't have them. Not all of them, of course, but enough so they've branded the generation.

HOW DO THEY GET THAT WAY?

Just yesterday they were adorable little tykes, friendly as puppies, easily pleased, content with an old rag doll or a battered wagon.

Today they're heartless, vulgar little show-offs, not giving a hoot what happens to the other fellow as long as they get what they want.

Rosie Wants a New Fur Coat. Mother hadn't had a new coat in three years, but what of it? All the other girls have fur coats. Rosie has just seen a new model that will make theirs look like 30 cents. So Rosie Wants That New Fur Coat—and raises Cain until she gets it.

Jimmy wants to take the Gang out Sunday in the family car. Dad's had a rotten week. He's all in. He'd give anything to go off in the old car Sunday—just he and the Misses.

But — Jimmy Wants The Car For the Gang. It's a keener car than the other fellows have. Jimmy likes to put something over on the other fellows. So Jimmy gets the car.

Gimme! Gimme! Gimme! And no matter how much they get, they always want something better, something more.

How do they get that way?

Here's another modern youngster telling how. Her name is Sandra La Plante. She lives in Washington, Ill., and she'd like to tell modern parents a few things through this column. So sic 'em, Sandra!

"MODERN CHILDREN ARE WHAT MODERN PARENTS MAKE THEM," says she—and then gets right down to brass tacks.

"Most 1933 young people are all right, if you give them a chance. But a lot of them are heels. Across the street from our house is a girl who dogs her father and mother and spends their last dime. When their money runs out, she snaps her fingers in their faces.

"Everyone else feels sorry for her parents, she's so cruel and ungrateful and unreasonable. But do I feel sorry for them? I DO NOT! And why? Because when she was a tiny baby, they started it all themselves.

"No matter how limited their means were, THEY WERE ALWAYS PUTTING ON A FRONT AND TEACHING HER TO DO SO. They saw to it that she had nicer clothes, nicer parties, nicer everything than her school mates.

"Then, too, when she got into trouble at school, they always got her out of it. Other youngsters in the same messes had to take it, and were demoted. But she was always let off. So now what can they expect? She's what they made her—utterly selfish and mercenary."

"SHE'S WHAT THEY MADE HER"! Big Medicine, that, from a youngster!

They're what we have made them—all these restless, greedy, discontented children who fill our hearts with such bewilderment, anger and despair.

No standards? But what standards has all America had for the last twenty years? Show off! Speed up! Grab while the grabbing's good! A new car every year—a new dress every week.

Easy Money. That was our god. Away with grandma's drudgery. No more of grandpa's dreary plugging. Get Rich Quick! And then show 'em that you've got it!

We didn't actually SAY those words. We didn't deliberately set out to DO those things. But the Machine Age got us—it got us all—and turned us into a bunch of Show-Off's!

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Santa Claus Husbands

A fool and her money are soon courted—and parted.

When the husband of a world-famous prima donna recently sued to have her enjoined from "squandering" her money, he merely expressed the atavistic masculine conviction, that nobody so weak and foolish as a woman should have the power over her own purse-strings.

As every lira the lady possesses was earned by her own vocal chords, it does seem that she might be allowed to throw it away on anything she liked, from a yacht to an alligator-pear—or from a gold-fish to a gigolo.

But, alas, while the average man may concede that a woman has the ability and the intelligence to EARN money, it will be a long time before he will admit that she has the ability to handle it or the intelligence to spend it.

* * *

Of course, there are a few husbands who hand over their paychecks, every Saturday night, and let their wives dole them out carfare and lunch-money. And there are others who give their spendthrift wives a generous allowance or keep their bank-accounts in the Little Woman's name.

But most men just can't bear to THINK of a woman actually being permitted to handle anything so dangerous as money. They want to take it away from her as they'd take the scissors or the matches from the hands of the baby. Or else they want to "ADVISE" her how to spend it.

Many a wealthy and generous husband has covered his wife with diamonds and emeralds, wrapped her in sables and given her unlimited charge accounts at all the shops, and then refused to give her a penny for cab-fare, pin-money and tips. What would a poor, weak-minded little woman DO with money, anyhow? Just "squander" it foolishly!

It never occurs to one of these Santa Claus husbands that a woman as well as a man gets a THRILL out of spending money or even giving it away. That the mere possession of a little money of her own gives her a sense of freedom and power. It is not the ballot, but the pay envelope which has emancipated woman.

And that, no doubt, as any good psychoanalyst will tell you, is the sub-conscious idea at the back of a man's head. No matter how big and brilliant and capable a woman may be, he still wants to think of her as a helpless, clinging, little pet—and of himself as Santa Claus, showering her with gifts, surprises and generosity.

A really nice man doesn't want to take a woman's money away from her. He just doesn't want her to HAVE any! Which is why so many prima donnas, screen stars and successful business women never make a "go" of marriage. There are a hundred ways in which too much money can wreck a marriage—particularly if it's the woman's money!

Text for Today No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.—Matthew, vi:24.

A Warning

By ROBERT H. HEMPHILL
Financial Authority

SENATOR THOMAS, of Oklahoma, commenting upon the masterly radio address of Mr. William Randolph Hearst, supporting the President's monetary policies, published in this paper, says:

"The currency fight is an issue between the world gold bloc and the world anti-gold bloc . . . The gold bloc is making a last stand for control of government through control of money . . . Mr. Hearst has taken the side of the people in this fight . . . This question is no longer merely a national problem . . . It has become a world problem and embassies at Washington have their orders to use their influence on one side or the other . . . America has become the battleground for this stupendous struggle."

We are coming rapidly to a showdown between the power of the GOVERNMENT OF THESE UNITED STATES, and this small but powerful, cunning and unscrupulous banking and speculative group, whose concerted action can and does control the economic status of the nation.

They are actively and shrewdly prosecuting an extensive system of propaganda to discredit the administration's recovery program and PUNISH THE NATION for the banking legislation of the last Congress.

Just now this propaganda is directed toward criticism of the President's monetary program.

THE REAL PURPOSE IS TO COMPLETELY DISCREDIT THE PRESIDENT.

Some of our most conservative publications and writers are becoming unwittingly involved.

INFLUENTIAL men are being adroitly drawn into the meshes of this vicious publicity machine—into ill-considered expression of absurd views on obviously unfamiliar subjects.

Millions of conscientious and responsible Republicans are being enlisted in a so-called "sound money" campaign under the impression that they are participating in a renaissance of their party.

IT IS NOTHING OF THE KIND.

It is but a BOLDER ELABORATION OF THIS SAME PROPAGANDA designed to restore to these PREDATORY INTERESTS the UNMOLESTED FREEDOM TO PLUNDER THE PUBLIC AT THEIR PLEASURE.

Informed persons know that in the few amazing highlights which have come to the surface in the Senate investigation, the public has had only minute glimpses of the intolerable situation which these shrewd men are seeking to preserve.

It is certain that this nation will not permit 10 million or more of its citizens who are pitifully willing to give more than value received, to remain unemployed, hungry and threadbare —50 million more barely subsisting, while a small group of PRIVILEGED PARASITES, are permitted to EXTRACT BY MANIPULATION OF BANKS AND TRADE EXCHANGES, VAST FORTUNES, FOR WHICH THEY MAKE NO RETURN TO SOCIETY.

IN THE history of all social upheavals, it has invariably been the ignorant, arrogant and wanton disregard of human rights by a small entrenched class at the psychological moment that touched off the spark of mutiny which swept aside established order.

Every thoughtful, informed man has all along realized that the fate of our social compact is in the hands of the man who is our President—that the failure of his recovery program means disaster.

I am not an alarmist. I am using plain language for the purpose of averting economic disaster which is POTENTIALLY in this present movement.

If this speculative group should succeed in destroying public confidence in the President—if the present enthusiasm of the people dies—if the hope rekindled by the almost superhuman efforts of the administration, ably supported by leading publishers, who have consistently disregarded personal cost and sacrifices to put this recovery program over, fades into despair and chaos comes—AND IT WILL COME—DON'T EVER FORGET THAT FOR A MOMENT—the people of these United States will and should know just where the responsibility lies.

It will lie with the speculative parasites of Wall Street and their affiliated and sympathetic speculative groups in other cities, who control large banks by which they may issue to themselves unlimited credit; who control our stock and commodities exchanges; who control the foreign currency exchange mechanism—an unbeatable combination by which they completely control the economic status of this nation.

Costly Local Governments Arouse Taxpayers

By James T. Williams, Jr.

TO overthrow the obsolete system of county and local government in this country, which is a hand-me-down from the days of the oxcart and has been well named "the dark continent of American politics," three forces are essential:

First, the leadership in every state of an honest, fearless and able Governor, armed with the firm resolve to simplify the whole structure of government within the state.

Second, the co-operation of a free Legislature—one which is uncontaminated and untrammeled by a majority made up of county and local officeholders striving to hold their useless and expensive jobs.

Third, an aroused, informed and organized public sentiment that will support the leadership of the Governor and compel the co-operation of the Legislature in providing for an independent and competent survey of the organization and administration of state, county and local government, and in amending the constitution and the laws in the light of the facts developed by the survey.

In all the states of the union, except California, Montana, Minnesota, Nebraska, North Carolina, Rhode Island and Virginia, Howard P. Jones, the able secretary of the National Municipal League, finds that, after a survey has been completed, "a constitutional amendment is literally the first step toward substantial alteration of the present structure of local government."

Reed, a Pioneer In the Movement

BUT the people of the several states will not flinch from changing the constitutions or revising their laws, if only they can raise up the leadership of an honest, strong and able Governor, whom county and local officeholders cannot terrorize and whom the sinister forces of special privilege cannot corrupt.

One of the pioneers in the exploration of "the dark continent of American politics" is Thomas H. Reed, professor of political science in the University of Michigan. He speaks for millions of his tax-ridden fellow citizens in 3,000 counties and 25,000 townships, who are paying taxes to 250,000 separate governments in this country, when he says:

"Depression has made the American people suddenly tax conscious. The public is waking up to the knowledge that the perpetuation of unnecessary and ill-adjusted units of government is a costly folly.

"It will enrage the 1933 taxpayers to think that in his metropolitan area there are a hundred governments with taxing and bonding power where one would do.

"If he lives in a rural section where 10 counties could be joined and yet every inhabitant be nearer the county seat than he could have been in any country 50 years ago, he is going to inquire angrily why there should be 10 jails, 10 sheriffs, 10 clerks, 10 treasurers, where one of each would be amply sufficient.

"He will want to know why moribund townships should be kept alive by artificial respiration (on the form of state aid) when it would be cheaper to put them out of pain at once."

When thousands of Americans are losing their homes because they are unable to pay their tax bills, when millions of young Americans are growing up without schooling because the money to support public education is being squandered to pay the salaries and expenses of a horde of useless county and local politicians, when teachers are paid less than a living wage or paid nothing at all, when the public is denied the protection of an adequate and effective state constabulary, is it any wonder that the tide of righteous indignation is rising against an obsolete system of county and local government which was "built up in the days of the ox cart" but in the days of the automobile has degenerated into a political racket?
